Admissions surge at area hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but, Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

7 sites for flood-control, wells rezoned

Seven parcels of village-owned land received the Arlington Heights Plan Commission's approval for rezoning Wednesday.

The land, to be designated P-1, public use, will be used for flood-control projects and well sites throughout the village.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, representing the village before the commission, said the village board had already purchased these sites for more than $1 million and questioned the need to appear before the commission to seek rezoning.

"I feel my time could be spent better," Hanson said. "My suggestion is that you send the word upstairs (the village board) that there should be some amendment to this procedure."

LEO MUELLER, commission chairman, said state statutes required that anyone seeking rezoning of property must appear before the plan commission.

The sites considered are:

- Four acres at Frenchmen's Cove complex. The parcel has two tennis courts. It will be used for stormwater retention.

- Four acres south of Thomas Street between Belmont and Douglas avenues, and a vacant lot on Douglas Avenue near Belmont. Four tennis courts will be built on the site and also will serve for stormwater retention.

- Land near the Wilke-Kirchoff detention basin. The land will be used to expand the facility to ease flooding on the village's west side. The Arlington Heights Park District will use the site for recreational land as well.

- Eight acres near the Wilke-Kirchoff basin for village Well No. 16 and a 6-million-gallon reservoir. Hanson said the well was drilled and the village is awaiting delivery of the steel reservoir.

- One acre near Brook Drive in the industrial park for village Well No. 15. The commission unanimously recommended approval of the rezoning request. The village board will take final action on the rezoning at a later date.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-4 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $775 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates. Under present law, only those with

Meeting Friday on Nike base fate

The command of the Arlington Heights Army Reserves will meet with the chief of Army Reserves in Washington D.C. Friday to discuss the continued use of the former Nike base.

Edward Murnane, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12, said the discussions will focus on how the local Reserve units have utilized the 71-acre base at Wilke and Central roads.

Murnane said no decision on whether the Army will continue to control the entire 71 acres is expected immediately after the meeting. However, he said an announcement should be made "sometime shortly, perhaps early next week."

THE ARMY HAS been involved in a continuing struggle with local residents for several years over control of the land.

The Citizens Committee for Utilization of the Nike Base, a coalition of homeowners, the Arlington Heights Park District and the village government, has maintained the Army does not need the full acreage for Reserve training.

Murnane said Crane is supporting the committee's position. "The congressman has told the Secretary of the Army bluntly and flatly that the use of the facility by the Army over the past year does not justify their

Girl tackles football job, manages to handle the task

by GERRY KERN

Look out Dan Devine. Your next football manager may be a woman.

No, it's not just an idle threat or a girlish whim. This woman means it. She has the experience and family background to do the job, and just might raise the eyebrows of a few Irish alumni in the process.

She's Kim Kelly, 18-year-old senior at Buffalo Grove High School, who has already made history of sorts there. She's the manager of the Buffalo Grove Bison and may be the only high school female in Illinois to have a football-related job that isn't leading cheers on the sidelines.

And she won't be happy until she follows her father's footsteps at Notre Dame.

KIM'S NOT a women's libber, although managing a football team has been traditionally in the male realm of activities. She's just a girl who has a deep love for the game and that's all she may need to succeed.

"I guess it's a case of 'like father, like son,'" she said. "Except I'm a girl. My father was a football manager at Notre Dame in 1950 and I guess that's where I get my football interest."

Her father, Edward F. Kelly, is all for his daughter's new-found love, and she'd like nothing more than to put another Kelly name in the Irish record book, even if it's just as a team manager.

Kim cracked the "sex barrier" in high school football after she heard an announcement earlier this year calling for all boys interested in managing the 1975 squad to report to coach Grant Blaney.

"When I heard that announcement, I wondered why a girl, namely me, could not handle the job," she said. "So I had a talk with the coach."

Kim said the coaches "smiled" at her idea, but told her she would be considered. After a talk with the players the next day, Blaney told her "you're on." Needless to say, the whole idea was a hit with the guys.

ALTHOUGH SHE doesn't have to hand out towels in the shower room

(some players have suggested adding that duty to her regular schedule), her work sometimes is tough.

"I have to help set up the practice field in the afternoons, and that means carrying out the tackling dummies," she explained. "I usually have to make two trips. The guys can do it faster, but I get it done just the same."

Her primary chore at game time is to record plays sent into the huddle by the coaches. It's an important job because it's the only way the staff can point out errors and make improvements.

"Being on the field during the game is so much more exciting than being in the stands," she said. "There's electricity in the air and a real feeling of teamwork. That's what I like most about it."

Some of the players had a difficult time getting used to a girl managing the team, but all of them now have accepted the idea.

Dennis Riccio, a member of the coaching staff at Buffalo Grove, said the idea has gone over well with everyone.

"I hate to say she's 'just one of the guys,' but that's how we feel," Riccio said. "She's doing a fine job for us."

KIM SAID RIDING on the team bus has been the only surprise she's encountered, primarily because conversation on the bus is rather raw — girls or no.

"That was kind of an education, particularly after the Wheaton Central game a couple of weeks ago," she said. "Everybody always talks about how bad the language can get on the bus, and they were right. But I'm still lucky, I guess, because all of the cheerleaders still would love to ride the bus too."

She said the players are "watching their language" a little more now.

Although she has been accepted as one of the team, the novelty of a female manager has not worn off altogether.

"SOME OF THE guys like to talk and socialize during practice," she said. "But I try to keep things businesslike. If they want to talk, fine. But I want to keep it on the subject."

Kim became somewhat of a celebrity around the school when she became manager, and some of her friends thought she had ulterior motives.

"Some thought I was just trying to get a lot of boyfriends," she explained. "But that's not true. I love the high school and I am willing to work and do something for it. That's why I've got the job."

AND HER TALK about Notre Dame is serious. She plans to enroll at the South Bend campus next fall and will approach the coaching staff about a managing job.

"I don't know if I'll get it, but I'm going to try," she said. "I would really like to do that since my dad did it when he was there."

She said she doesn't know what she'll major in at school, but plans to take courses in football officiating in case she ever gets the chance to work on the field.

If her track — or field — record is any indication, she just might do it.

BUFFALO GROVE'S football team has integrated with the addition of Kim Kelly — the only girl manager in the Mid-Suburban League.

Bid-rigging firms get state road pacts

Illinois highway officials awarded five of 48 road improvement contracts Wednesday to firms either convicted or charged with bid-rigging. State officials said while bidding rights are normally denied to firms convicted of bid-rigging, such action cannot be taken because not all post trial motions have been acted on. All of the projects involved in the controversy are in the central and southern part of the state.

Elk Grove weighs utility tax

Elk Grove Village officials have joined the list of area towns that are considering use of a utility tax as a means of easing financial problems. Several village board members stated that a 5 per cent tax on telephone, natural gas and electrical bills could bring the village between $750,000 and $800,000 annually. The village is facing an anticipated $1 million deficit starting in the 1976-1977 fiscal year. No final action was taken on the proposal.

Rape reported in Wheeling

Wheeling police are seeking a man who forced a 18-year-old girl into his car and raped her near the Wickes Furniture Store, 381 W. Dundee Rd., Tuesday. Police said the man was described as being about 25 years old, 6 feet tall, medium build with shoulder-length hair and wearing a brown jacket. He reportedly drove an older model white car.

Planner no stranger to Rob Roy

The county planner who recommended zoning changes for a portion of the Rob Roy Golf Club also made land-use recommendations on the tract while working for a developer and the Village of Mount Prospect on separate occasions. Rolf C. Campbell, now a consultant to the County Zoning Board of Appeals, was the planner for Kenroy Inc. on an earlier project proposed for the golf course. He recently recommended a change for apartment zoning on a portion of the land. Both Campbell and Alex R. Seith, county zoning chairman, said they did not believe the triple involvement constituted a conflict of interest.

Fire victim dies

A Northbrook man died Wednesday due to severe burns he suffered in a fire Tuesday in Mount Prospect. A spokesman for Evanston Hospital said William Brewer, 37, died just after noon. He had received second and third degree burns over 80 per cent of his body in a fire which destroyed a home at 1171 Park Ln., Mount Prospect. Fire officials said the fire may have started when gasoline Brewer was using to remove carpeting ignited. The fire caused an estimated $70,000 damage to the house.

FEDERAL RESERVE Chairman Arthur F. Burns, left, talks to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., before telling the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee that a FED loan to save New York City from default was out and did not advise Congress to come to the rescue of the city.

less than $10,000 income before taxes may use tables, and there are 12 optional tables which require six pages of fine print in the instructions accompanying the tax form.

- Sweep out the "dead wood" in the Internal Revenue Code by making more than 3,000 deletions from the voluminous code, including some entire sections. Many of the changes simply boil down to excessive language. Others delete outdated sections, including laws passed to give special tax breaks to one individual or business.
- Liberalize slightly current deductions for expenses of moving in order to gain new employment.

Earlier in the day, the White House continued its GOP attack on congressional Democrats, saying it was ridiculous for Congress to "whine and whimper" that it cannot attach a tight federal spending ceiling to enlarged tax cuts.

Congress "didn't hesitate to find any mechanism to raise their own salaries — and damned fast," said press secretary Ron Nessen, who also told reporters they were "damned right" the issue would play a role in the 1976 presidential race.

Nessen joined a verbal attack led by Ford and his chief economic spokesman, Treasury Sec. William Simon, who told a group of delighted House Republicans that the battle was "the classic debate between freedom and socialism."

Democrats, stunned by Ford's Monday night speech, fell back to regroup their forces.

House Ways and Means chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., an object of Nessen's attack, postponed consideration of the tax cut question until Congress returns from its Columbus Day recess the week of Oct. 20. The committee's tax cut revision bill, including cuts, had been scheduled for completion by Thursday.

Nessen particularly criticized Ullman, who Tuesday characterized Ford's plan as "totally preposterous" because the President was asking Congress to place a cap on a budget that it won't even see until January.

"The President disagrees with any idea that Congress can't do this," said Nessen. "This is ridiculous for 435 persons elected by the people to whine and whimper and say they can't do this."

Ford has proposed a tax cut about $11 billion greater than the temporary 1975 tax cuts now in effect, a full $28 billion greater than 1974 tax levels. In return, however, Ford wants a $395 billion ceiling on fiscal 1977 spending — $28 billion less than projected expenditures.

Ullman, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long, D-La., and other leading congressional Democrats, want to ignore the spending ceiling and instead extend the 1975 tax cuts at their present level. Ford said any attempt to do so would be vetoed, 100 times or more if necessary.

New York, threatened with default, denied loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns said Wednesday only extraordinary efforts can avert a default in New York City which could cause a serious recession and jeopardize the finances of cities across the country.

But in case Congress thinks otherwise, he outlined potential rescue legislation, and said Congress ought to act soon if it acts at all. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., thanked Burns for his "flexibility."

At the White House, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford still was against federal assistance for the city. "He does not plan to ask for aid and he does not think it is needed," Nessen said. "The President believes New York City can solve its own problems."

Testifying before Congress' Joint Economic Committee, Burns ruled out a loan to the city from the Federal Reserve Board, the nation's central banker, and expressed "grave doubts about the wisdom" of federal intervention to rescue the city.

Unable to borrow, New York is threatened with default — the inability to pay its debts as they become due or to meet its payroll — as early as Dec. 1. Many experts believe default is unavoidable without federal help. One said Tuesday the consequences could trigger "civil unrest."

Puffing his pipe, choosing his words slowly, the white-haired Burns sat alone at a long, narrow table, toying with a book of matches. He acknowledged he had underestimated the situation and disagreed with President Ford and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who still minimize the national consequences of default.

Burns said a "domino effect" making it impossible for New York State to borrow could throw the state into default, frighten investors and force municipalities everywhere to pay millions in higher interest if they could borrow at all.

Hence, he said, "the process of economic recovery now under way in our nation could be injured."

When asked if default "could trigger a really serious recession," Burns said, "When you say 'could' the answer has to be in the affirmative. But if you asked me if it would, I do not think that would happen."

In Europe, a Zurich banker foresaw "a tremendous financial crisis" if New York defaulted, predicting the federal government would not let that happen.

Burns urged New York State to impose a temporary tax of about $500 million "to redeem the state's honor." But he pledged to use the Federal Reserve's "enormous resources" to assure solvency for banks which have invested assets in New York bonds and might otherwise fail. He said the board would lend banks as much as necessary.

Despite the fallout, Burns saw default as a lesser evil than a federal loan. If Washington intervenes, he said, other cities would want help, the government would have to borrow additional billions and — most important — the effort "will necessarily inject a major federal presence in local spending and taxing decisions."

Chileans offered safe passage

Argentina offered safe passage out of the country Wednesday night for 12 Chileans who seized the office of the U. N. High Commission on Refugees. But the Argentine government said it was up to some other nation to accept the Chileans.

A woman spokesman for the Chileans said they would blow up the building if authorities used force to end the occupation and free six male hostages. The refugees originally took 13 persons as hostages when they burst into the office Wednesday morning. But they later released all seven women and kept only the men.

Christians, Moslems battle in Lebanon

Rival Christian and Moslem militias battled with mortars, rockets and machine guns Wednesday in Lebanon's two major cities. Fires raged in Beirut and a dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed. Casualties in clashes between leftist Moslems and rightist Christians in Beirut and Tripoli reached 50 dead and more than 150 wounded despite efforts of government leaders and army troops to stop the shooting.

Spanish police fighting off a terrorist attack in a Barcelona street Wednesday accidentally killed two of their own men, and three members of a family whose car got caught in the crossfire also died. It was the bloodiest incident yet in a growing wave of political violence in Spain. Hours earlier, thousands of right-wing demonstrators roamed the streets of Barcelona clamoring for the army to take power to "save Spain from Communism."

No reason to use air mail stamps

Starting Saturday there will be no reason to use air mail stamps because first class mail will be as good or better, the Postal Service announced Wednesday. Ordinary letters will go by air without an air mail stamp wherever the distance warrants, the Postal Service said. Improvements also will be made in collection service and mail processing, it was announced.

A Federal Trade Commission judge has ordered dismissal of a major antitrust complaint against Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola, the nation's largest soft drink bottlers. The complaint, filed in 1971, alleged that exclusive territorial licenses granted by the companies to their bottlers stifled the competition because the arrangement kept would-be bottlers from going into business.

Traffic deaths down 18 per cent in '74

U.S. traffic deaths dropped 18 per cent in 1974 because Americans drove less, went slower and were more careful, the Department of Transportation said Wednesday. A spokesman said Americans are traveling as much this year as they did in 1973, but not being killed in vehicle accidents at the 1973 rate. Traffic accidents killed 45,534 persons in 1974, compared to 55,064 in 1973, the department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said. This was a reduction of 9,530, or 18 per cent.

Food giveaway switched plans

Patty Hearst kidnaped for swap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Symbionese Liberation Army kidnaped Patricia Hearst in hopes of swapping her for two SLA members jailed on charges of killing a school superintendent, a manuscript seized in the home of William and Emily Harris says.

The violent radicals never asked for the release of Russell Little and Joseph Remiro because publisher Randolph Hearst's handling of a free food giveaway showed "he had decided to gamble with his daughter's life," according to copyrighted excerpts from the document published Wednesday in Hearst's San Francisco Examiner.

"We didn't have any doubt that the Hearst family could arrange for a release for Osceola Little and Bo Remiro but we needed to test whether the pressure of their daughter's kidnapping would be enough to put this power in operation," the handwritten document said.

"Would the ruling class risk revealing the extent of their influence in order to save one of their members?"

The document, running 175 to 200 pages and apparently the work of several SLA members, ranges from profane indictments of the "ruling class" to intellectual statements of revolutionary philosophy.

The FBI previously released a short autobiographical statement from the manuscript, found in the San Francisco apartment where the Harris were living at the time of their capture.

But the Examiner reported that the document also contains an extensive discussion of the Feb. 4, 1974, kidnapping and the reasons for it.

"We were f— p— off that the pigs had our two brothers and we all made a commitment at that time to come back strong," it said. "One of the objectives of the kidnapping was to test how much bargaining power we needed to get our comrades released."

The manuscript also discussed the planning and enactment of the kidnapping across San Francisco Bay in Berkeley, Calif.

The writers also recalled their glee at the publication and broadcast of complete SLA communiqués by the San Francisco area news media, which were threatened that otherwise Miss Hearst would be killed.

Ford signs $34 billion defense spending bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Wednesday signed bills authorizing $34.5 billion in defense spending and establishing the right of women to enter the service academies.

The two bills signed by Ford were a $30.8 billion Defense Appropriation Authorization Act — which included the provision making women eligible for the first time to enter the service academies — and a $3.6 billion Military Construction Authorization Act.

The two measures fell more than $5 billion short of the amount Ford asked and contained none of the $1.3 billion in aid that he requested for South Vietnam before Saigon fell to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

Elsewhere in Washington:

- Congressional critics urged that the food stamp program be reformed to exclude strikers and students, make stamp recipients seek jobs and allot stamps only to persons at or below the poverty level. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., said the current food stamp program is "an affront to every American who labors unaided to feed his family without government assistance" and "a multi-billion dollar budget buster."
- President Ford proposed legislation to relax "protectionist" federal controls and create price competition to let domestic airlines cut ticket prices by up to 40 per cent.

Ford, saying air travel has become too costly, suggested domestic airlines gradually should be able to cut their prices on any route over a two-year period. His bill also would let airlines increase fares by up to 10 per cent without Civil Aeronautics Board approval. The bill also called for elimination of CAB powers to exempt airlines from anti-trust rules.

Sen. Hart will undergo chemotherapy

- Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who has had one cancerous and one benign tumor removed in recent weeks, announced Wednesday he will soon undergo breast surgery and extensive chemotherapy to prevent spread of the disease. Hart said his doctors believe he has a form of melanoma, but thus far have been unable to pinpoint a cause.
- His name is Norman, he occasionally appears on TV, has a "two-chicken-a-day habit" and is really quite harmless, says Ceyler "Kip" Hazlett of his missing Canadian timber wolf. Hazlett is recruiting Ball-more area residents to help him find his 110-pound pet and is offering a $250 reward for information leading to his safe return. The two became separated two weeks ago in Patapasco State Park.

- Justice William O. Douglas missed the first hour of arguments at the U.S. Supreme Court Wednesday because he needed a short nap. Douglas was tired before arguments began at 10 a.m. and was taken to the nurse. He rested for one hour, then was wheeled back to the bench for the rest of the day's arguments.

The court ruled Lennon cannot be forced to leave the country because of his 1968 London narcotics conviction and ordered the Board of Immigration Appeals to reconsider his application for permanent residence in the United States.

At Hoffman Estates High

Junior Miss orientation Sunday

An orientation for high school seniors planning to enter the 11th annual Paddock Publications Junior Miss Pageant will be Sunday at 7 p.m. at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 W. Higgins Rd.

Two Paddock Junior Misses will be crowned at the Nov. 23 pageant at which time $1,700 in scholarship money will be awarded. The pageant is affiliated with the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant and America's Junior Miss Pageant planned in Mobile, Ala., in May, which will involve winners from the 50 states.

Deadline for entering the local competition is Oct. 24. Senior girls having a B grade average or better who attend high schools within The Herald circulation area are eligible.

AREA HIGH SCHOOLS include: Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Conant, Elk Grove, Fremd, Hersey, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Prospect, Forest View, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

Des Plaines girls who attend Maine East or Maine West also are eligible. The two junior misses selected each will receive a scholarship of $500 and a chance to compete in the state pageant. Runnerup and special recognition scholarships also will be awarded.

At the pageant, finalists will be judged on poise, physical fitness and talent, by a 12-member panel. The local competition has produced five Illinois State title holders in the past 10 years.

MAJOR SPONSOR of this year's pageant is Lattot Motor Sales, Arlington Heights. Other sponsors include Mount Prospect State Bank, Mount Prospect; The Crawford, Rolling Meadows, and Beeline Fashions Inc., Bensenville.

First National Bank of Mount Prospect, Persin and Robbin Jewelers and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, both of Arlington Heights, have also contributed to the scholarship fund.

For information or a pageant application contact Anne Chalkla, pageant director, Paddock Publications, 394-2300, ext. 285.

Polish language classes offered

Registration for adult Polish language classes will be taken Saturday at 11 a.m. at St. Emily's Parish School, Mount Prospect.

The classes will meet at the school on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. For information call Eugenia Muller, 991-0335 after 5 p.m.

Special recreation swim lessons slated

The Northwest Special Recreation Assn., with the cooperation of the Hanover Park Dist., will offer swim lessons beginning Tuesday. An hour of swim instruction geared to the individual ability will be held at the newly domed pool at Ahlstrand Park, 6900 Catalpa, Hanover Park.

The 10-week session will be Tuesdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The fee is $11 for reservations made today. For information call 394-4948 or 394-4910.

Village board wrapup

Trustees seek new farm land zoning

The Arlington Heights Village Board has voted to recommend that zoning on the 42-acre Magnus Farm property, 801 E. Central Rd., be changed to single-family in the new County master plan. Arlington Heights officials will meet with representatives of the Village of Mount Prospect to try to get the backing of that village for the zoning change.

Magnus Farm now is zoned for multi-family development. The property is in unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Arlington Heights trustees say they have no objection to the nursing home now being operated at Magnus Farm.

But they want the zoning classification lowered to guard against possible future apartment development on the property.

The village's recommendation will be presented to the county board which is now holding hearings on a proposed master plan for the county.

Kids may paint hydrants

Fire hydrants repainted to look like American patriots may be coming to Arlington Heights next summer.

Several school children have presented the community fire plug painting program to the village board which approved the idea pending further discussion with the village's Bicentennial commission.

The colorfully decorated fire plugs have been introduced in a number of other communities.

Courtyards for rent

The Courtyards condominium apartments at Somerset and Miner streets will be available for rental as well as sale following village board approval of the conversion.

Group to sell pizzas

Arlington Heights Camp Fire Girls have received board permission to sell pizzas Nov. 15.

Northwest Hospital offers teen babysitting course

Northwest Community Hospital, 800 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, is offering a free babysitting course for teenagers from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturdays during October.

The course will cover the growth and development of children, infant care, responsibility of parents and sitter, what to do in an emergency, fire and accident prevention and fees and transportation. Instructors include a registered nurse, Montessori school teacher, policeman, fireman and paramedic.

Classes will be limited to 20 and additional classes will be offered in February and April. A certificate will be awarded on completion of the course.

To enroll, call the hospital at 259-1000, ext. 238.

No stadium fees to Siegel advisers

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel and the two financial advisers who studied the aborted financing plans for the Chicago Bears football stadium will not be paid for their time on the project.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said the consultants — John Nuveen Inc. and Smith, Barney & Co. — and Sie-gel agreed at the start of negotiations their fees would come solely from the bond issue, if any, for the stadium.

The consultants and Siegel met several times with Chicago Bears and Madison Square Garden Corp. officials on the stadium package.

Army meeting on Nike base fate

holding the entire 71 acres," he said. Martin Cawley, a committee spokesman, said the Washington meeting is "certainly good news."

Cawley said he hoped the Army would agree to the committee's suggested compromise of keeping 33 acres and declaring the remainder surplus and deeding it over to the park district.

The park district has already been given about 63 acres of the base. The district hopes to build a golf course, incorporating flood control measures, on the site.

Cawley said the committee hoped the compromise could be struck as quickly as possible. If the agreement is reached, he said, construction on the golf course could begin next spring.

"We have been observing the Army's use of the base. The Army's mission could be accomplished on 33 acres very effectively," he said.

Second opinion recommended for internal problems

My 70-year-old father asked me to write to you and get your opinion. His doctor discovered that he had high blood pressure with a reading of 210. He was put on Esimil. Most of my father's old friends are on Diuril and some on a diet and some on low-cholesterol, salt-free diets. We asked the doctor and he said no diet and that Esimil is a diuretic.

My father is 5-foot-3 and weighs 170 pounds. The doctor listens well but does not communicate and is very busy. My father wants to know if he should continue with this doctor or should he seek a hypertension specialist?

I have read that a diseased kidney can cause hypertension. My father urinates frequently at night. The doctor said this was normal. I also asked if it could mean a heart problem. The doctor said no. No tests were taken of any kind except taking the blood pressure and listening to the heart.

Your father is not young any more but even so a lot might be done for him. Anyone his height and weight with high blood pressure should be on a diet, in my opinion. Also, I would like to see everyone with high blood pressure have an electrocardiogram (ECG or EKG). Several blood pressure measurements are needed to be sure what the level really is.

Your father is also in the right age group to have an enlarged prostate. Perhaps the doctor ruled that out, but the need to get up at night might be related to that.

It certainly wouldn't hurt to have a consultation with another doctor, perhaps a specialist in internal medicine, to review your father's overall status. A second opinion is often helpful.

A diseased kidney or circulation problems to the kidney can cause high blood pressure. Part of a complete examination includes sufficient studies to rule out a number of known causes of high blood pressure that should be treated differently than the more common forms of high blood pressure.

What is the medical term for dropsy? We have a daughter who has been taking a lot of tests. The doctor said that he couldn't find anything wrong with her except that she has edema. She swells all over, sometimes worse than other times. We wondered if that edema might be what we always called dropsy.

Yes, the swelling caused by edema is old-fashioned dropsy. However, swelling can be caused by many things, some not serious and others more so. I presume your daughter's doctor didn't find any serious medical problem.

Edema or water accumulation can be from hormone influences as before normal periods, varicose veins, liver disease, kidney disease or heart failure. The most common use of the term dropsy in previous times was for the fluid accumulation found with heart, kidney or liver disease, and apparently your doctor doesn't think your daughter has these problems.

Gun debate set at GOP meeting Friday evening

A gun enthusiast and a member of the National Committee for Hand Gun Control will debate the question of private ownership of guns in Mount Prospect Friday night.

The debate will be conducted at a meeting of the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization, scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See Gwun.

Debaters will be Charles T. Wilk IV of Lincolnwood, legislative chairman of the Illinois State Rifle Association, and Philip Hoza III of Winnetka.

Hoza, who describes himself as an avid hunter, is a former Army captain who served in Viet Nam.

Wilk is a past president of the Northwest Gun Club and the Tri-County Pistol and Revolver League of Illinois.

The meeting is open to the public.

Mental health funds available

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center officials have been told federal funding is available for construction of a permanent headquarters for the agency.

Jordan Rosen, center executive director, met this week with representatives of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare in Chicago. He was told that federal programs could provide up to 55 per cent of the funds necessary to construct the facility.

"We learned that some dollars are available for construction," Rosen said.

The funds were impounded previously as part of spending cutbacks, but are now available, Rosen said.

THE MENTAL HEALTH center board hopes to raise an estimated $668,000 to build a facility on two acres west of Ill. Rte. 63. The land was donated last spring by Elk Grove Village. The center's facilities are currently spread out among three locations in both Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg.

A fund drive for the new facility is slated to begin shortly, as preliminary planning has begun.

Rosen said there is a March 15 deadline for applying for the federal grant, so work on the grant application would have to begin soon.

"We would have to demonstrate where the local money (45 per cent) would come from before they would even consider us for a grant," Rosen said.

The mental health center board is expected to decide whether to try for a grant at its Oct. 23 meeting.

Schlickman gets planning post again

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, has been reappointed to the legislative advisory committee to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

Schlickman founded the committee in 1969 and served as its first chairman.

NIPC reviews and comments on all applications by local governments for federal funds for open space, sewage disposal, transportation and local improvements.

Late rally gives market boost; Dow hits 823.91

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices rallied in fairly active trading Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which lost 3.15 points Tuesday, rose 7.40 to 823.91. The closely followed average had been behind about two points in the first hour of trading. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 1.17 to 87.94. The price of an average Big Board share climbed 36 cents.

Advances held a two-to-one lead over declines, 887 to 443, among the 1,774 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME TOTALED 17,800,000 shares, up from the 13,530,000 shares turned over Tuesday.

Most major stock groups participated in the rally, but both banking and gold issues bucked the general upward trend.

Trans World Airlines was the most active issue, up 3/4 to 7 3/8 on 382,300 shares. G. D. Searle was second, up 3/8 to 16 on 297,800 shares. Westinghouse Electric, which was sued by several utilities for failure to complete delivery of uranium fuel, followed, off 3/8 to 12 1/2 on 214,800 shares.

In the higher blue chip group, General Electric added 1/4 to 47 1/8.

THE AIRLINES moved into plus territory following news President Ford will introduce legislation to reduce regulation of the domestic airline industry. Delta rose 1 7/8 to 31-7/8 and UAL, Inc. 1 3/8 to 24 5/8.

Prices rose in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange, where the price of an average share gained four cents. Volume totaled 1,588,000 shares compared with 1,352,000 shares traded Tuesday.

John Keippel

John W. Keippel, 64, of Wheeling for one year, formerly of Elk Grove Village, was pronounced dead on arrival Tuesday morning at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after an apparent heart attack. He was born June 2, 1911, in Chicago.

Mr. Keippel was a retired forest ranger with 30 years of service at the Cook County Forest Preserve Northwest Division, and from 1967 to 1969 he had been the superintendent of the Des Plaines Division. He was a member of the Illinois Police Assn. and the Des Plaines Moose Lodge, No. 604.

Visitation is today from 4 to 9:30 p.m. in Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Friday in the chapel of the funeral home. Burial will be in Acacia Park Cemetery, Chicago.

He is survived by his widow, Mary T., nee Kandlbinder; a daughter, Diane M. (Donald) Keller of Streamwood; a son, Jon F. (Joelle) Keippel of Elgin; four grandchildren, and two brothers, Arthur of Chicago and Walter Keippel of Park Ridge.

Jerome Luster

A funeral Mass of the Resurrection for Jerome Luster will be offered at noon today in St. Emily Catholic Church, 1400 E. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Prayers will be said at 11:30 a.m. in Kolssak of Wheeling Funeral Home, 189 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery, Chicago.

Mr. Luster, 67, a resident of Des Plaines for 18 years, died Monday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. A retired owner of a trucking company, he was born Jan. 14, 1908, in Chicago.

He is survived by his widow, Matilda "Pat," nee Briggs; a daughter, Barbara "Bobbie" (Frank) Porcuro of Des Plaines; two grandchildren, Dennis and Jerri Porcuro, both of Des Plaines; mother, Elizabeth Kozak of Chicago; a brother, Milton (Eleanor) Luster of California, and a sister, Lynn Hahn of Chicago. He was the brother-in-law of Margaret Mayer and William Briggs, both of Chicago. He was preceded in death by his father, Leo Luster.

Marjorie J. Mell

Marjorie Jane Mell, 54, nee Leskovar, a resident of Arlington Heights for 20 years, formerly of Chicago, was pronounced dead on arrival Tuesday afternoon at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. She was born March 26, 1921, in Chicago.

Visitation is Friday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Haire Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vail Avenue, Arlington Heights, and where a liturgical wake service will be at 8 p.m.

A funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. Prayers will be said at 9:30 a.m. in the funeral home. Burial will be in St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Palatine.

She is survived by her husband, Ray E.; four daughters, Helene Mitchell and Ann Marie Mell, both of Arlington Heights, Marjean (Robert) Calcagno of Atlanta, Ga., and Mary Rose (William) Mallek of Chicago, and two grandchildren, Russ and Tom Mitchell.

Family requests masses appreciated.

Harold D. Lint

Visitation for Harold D. Lint is today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Mr. Lint, a retired truck pointer from the Sheridan Hotels, died Wednesday morning in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. A veteran of World War I, he was born in Ray, Ind., July 27, 1899, and had lived in Des Plaines for the past 18 years.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m. Friday in the funeral home. Officiating will be the Rev. Robert Smith. Burial will be in Irving Park Cemetery, Chicago.

Surviving are his widow, Virginia, nee White; a son, Donald Prince of Chicago, and a brother, Daryl Lint of Schaumburg. He was preceded in death by a wife, Florence.

Family requests donations may be made to the Mayfield United Methodist Church Memorial Fund, Chicago.

Florence M. Bue

Funeral service for Florence M. Bue is today at 2:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. Officiating will be the Rev. Gerry A. Scheuer Jr. of First Congregational United Church of Christ, Des Plaines. Burial will be in Ridgwood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mrs. Bue, 73, nee Mortensen, a resident of Des Plaines for 17 years, died Tuesday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. She was born Nov. 1, 1901, in Chicago.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas P.; a daughter, Nancy E.; three grandchildren; a brother, Maynard Mortensen of Chicago; a sister, Thora Mortensen of Chicago, and a brother-in-law, Ink Bue of Park Ridge.

Crane to co-sponsor Ford's proposed tax cut bill

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, will cosponsor President Ford's legislative proposal for a $28 billion tax cut. But Rep. Aime J. Mikva, D-10th, termed the proposal, a "catastrophe" which would lead to a $40 billion deficit in the federal budget.

Both Northwest suburban congressmen are members of the House Ways and Means Committee which is considering the President's call for increased income tax reductions, accompanied by cuts in federal spending.

Crane said the measure he will cosponsor includes a requirement that Congress not approve any tax reductions without first passing a resolution that spending in fiscal year 1977 not exceed $395 billion.

Some Democrats have ridiculed Ford's proposal for an immediate cut in taxes to be followed by spending cuts a year later.

Mikva predicted such action would be inflationary and would ultimately result in a return to recession. "Unemployment would decline through the first three quarters of 1976, and then would soar out of sight in the last quarter," he said.

Crane, however, maintained that an immediate tax cut for businesses "which are shaky" would enable them to survive for the next year, relieving unemployment until cuts in federal spending provide further impetus to economic recovery.

agreed on the fate of Ford's proposal in Congress.

Crane said congressional response has been favorable. He quoted Rep. Philip Landrum, D-Georgia, a 23-year veteran of Congress, as saying he has had greater favorable response to the tax-cut proposal than any he has ever received.

Mikva, however, said, "I don't think it is going to fly." Mikva said that Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee, where they have a 15-10 majority, are agreed that specific budget cuts must be agreed upon before a permanent tax cut can be approved.

State's $97 million school aid payment may be late

Illinois may not be able to make its $97 million monthly school aid payment on time Oct. 16, and local grade and high schools may have to settle for less money than expected, an aide to Comptroller George Lindberg said Wednesday.

If there is not enough money in the treasury to make the payment the state Office of Education will have to decide whether to delay the payment, to make the payment in a reduced amount or to take other action, said the aide, James Williams.

About $85 million will have to be transferred from the general revenue fund to the common school fund to make the payment, he said. As of Tuesday, there was a balance of only $15 million in the fund, he said.

The current problem is one of cash flow, the aide said. Money is not coming in fast enough to meet demands for payment.

Racial battle in Elgin

Two students were slightly injured Wednesday when fighting broke out among about 30 students at Elgin High School. Authorities said the school was closed after a fight between black and white students and will remain closed today.

Illinois briefs

High School. Authorities said the school was closed after a fight between black and white students and will remain closed today.

Principal Richard Fellicetti said school administrators were to meet Wednesday night to determine action against participating students.

Students involved in the incident could be suspended a maximum of 10 days or even be expelled, although he said expulsion was unlikely.

Elgin Police Chief Robert L. Baird said about 25 policemen were called to the school at 11 a.m. and found "about 400 kids" in the parking lot. He refused to say how many students were fighting.

Two white youths were treated and released at Sherman Hospital for "minor scalp lacerations," a hospital spokesman said. He identified them as Larry Davis 16, Streamwood, and Charles Williams, 16, Elgin.

Maywood home to close

A judge in west suburban Oak Park Wednesday ordered a Maywood home for disturbed children to cease operation within 90 days after a village attorney charged the children were creating a "reign of terror" in Maywood.

Circuit Court Judge Norman A. Korfiat also ordered the home to provide additional supervision of the children at night.

Robert Grundin, village attorney, said Maywood police spent $10,000 in man hours investigating neighbors' complaints about the home and children.

Daley job plan criticized

The Chicago Council of Lawyers Wednesday charged Mayor Daley's plan to replace Chicago Civil Service laws with a new Department of Personnel is "an invitation to lawlessness."

The proposed Daley plan fails to protect the rights of career city employees, said John R. Schmidt, council president.

He said the plan fails to guarantee a city employee a fair hearing prior to discharge, fails to guarantee that charges against him or her will be written out and fails to guarantee an employee the right to a lawyer.

The proposal also should include a "strong and explicit prohibition against the solicitation of political campaign contributions or services from city employees," he said.

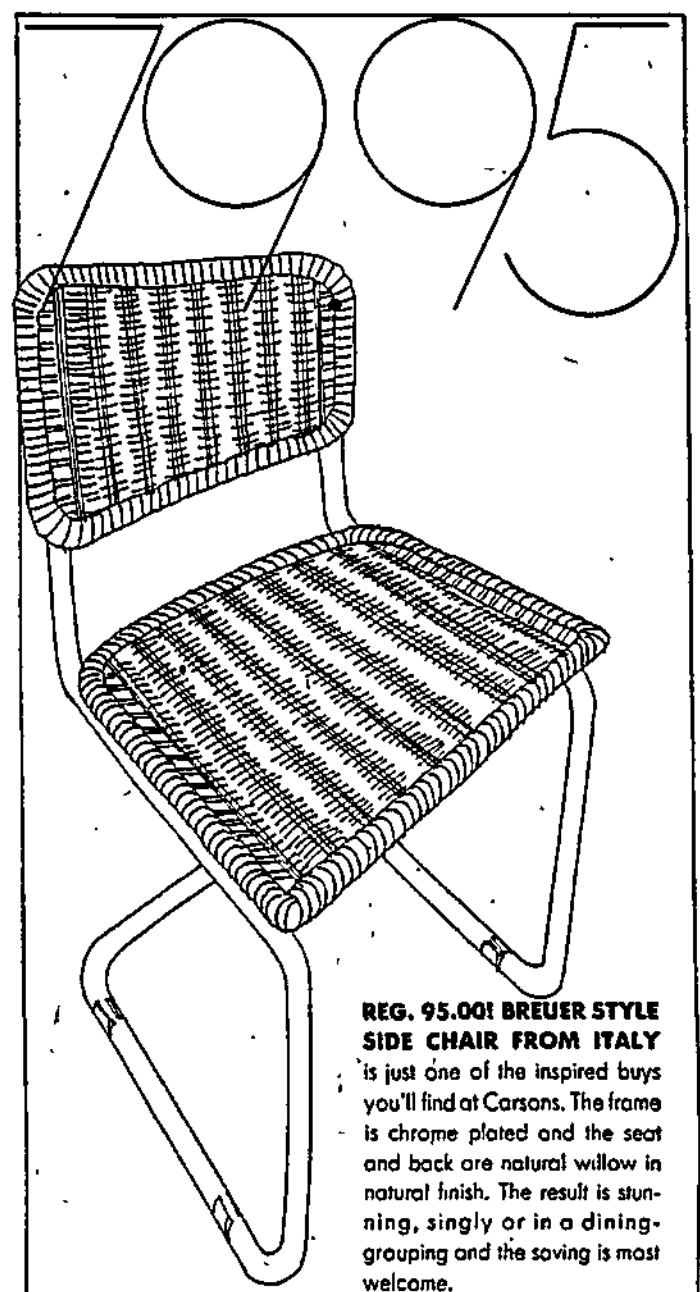

"The proposed ordinance seems to us to be an invitation to lawlessness in handling city personnel," Schmidt said.

City schools OK budget

The Chicago Board of Education Wednesday approved a 1975-76 budget of $1.1 billion which includes an anticipated deficit of $47.4 million. The vote was 6-4 with one abstention.

Schools Supt. Joseph P. Hannon called it a balanced budget but said personnel and program cuts might occur if "additional resources are not made available."

The two congressmen also dis-

Herald opinion

Ford approach on taxes good

President Ford's proposal for a $27.7 billion tax relief-reform package is the kind of approach needed to help pull the American economy out of its doldrums.

The President's tax cut plan, a continuation and expansion of this year's cuts, will return needed dollars to American consumers. They, in turn, can reinvest those dollars to bolster the national economy. In addition, Ford prudently tied the 1976 tax cut to a sharp reduction in federal spending.

The function of Ford's tax cut proposal, which will save the average American family between $200 and $300 next year, is to make the federal tax structure a little easier on our hard-pressed wallets.

The plan raises the personal exemption for taxpayers from $750 to $1,000, reduces tax rates for income up to $10,000, streamlines the standard deductions procedure and provides added tax breaks for business.

But Ford also wants Congress to curtail the "alarming growth" in government spending by pruning $28 billion off the budget. He says he won't sign his proposal into law unless Congress includes those cuts.

There's no doubt that Ford's plan is politically popular, despite the cries of a few wounded Democrats. Before his Monday announcement, there was considerable bipartisan support for continuation of the 1975 cuts in some form; with the national elections a year away, a tax reduction is a popular issue.

But it must not be forgotten that the cuts are a virtual economic necessity. Consider the economic warning signs, such as the fact that the Chicago area's unemployment rate soared to 10.2 per cent in September.

Granted the national unemployment rate slipped from 8.4 per cent to 8.3 per cent in September. But when the national rate exceeds 5 per cent, when unemployment in large industrial areas such as Chicago soars out of sight and when key industries are working at only 70 per cent capacity, it's clear that the nation's economy is still twisting and weaving.

What our economy needs is a shot of monetary adrenalin. Ford's plan accomplishes this, while guarding against the side effects of a dangerously expanded national debt. We believe this plan will help the nation's economy get back on its feet.

Inverness should be in Palatine district

The Herald supports Saturday's library referendum to make Inverness a part of the Palatine library district.

Palatine's new public library at Northwest Highway and Benton Street, scheduled to open by mid-October, is a legitimate tax-supported institution for Inverness residents who currently pay a $75 annual fee to use Palatine library services.

If Saturday's referendum passes, those residents will pay slightly more — an estimated annual tax of $76.80 for a homeowner with a $30,000 assessed valuation, the average assessed valuation in Inverness.

It will take a yes vote of more than 50 per cent of both library district and Inverness residents voting Saturday to pass the referendum.

We urge Inverness and library district voters to support this fine new library because both the residents in that village and those in the library district will benefit. By including Inverness in the library district boundaries, the district's assessed valuation will be increased by an estimated $18 million. Inverness residents, in turn, will have a voice in the operation of this excellent facility and in the election of its board of commissioners.

We're for you, Kim!

Bella Abzug has her floppy hats; Gloria Steinem has her aviator glasses.

Now a young lady from Buffalo Grove may make the clipboard another symbol of the move toward equality for women.

The young lady is Kim Kelly, and the clipboard is one of the tools she uses as manager of the Buffalo Grove High School football team.

While Bella carries on in Congress and Gloria sounds off in her national magazine, Kim quietly went out and nailed down an extracurricular assignment which perhaps no one before her had ever seen as anything but strictly a male assignment.

Males who have participated in high school sports normally think of the team manager as the guy who passes out the towels in the locker room and collects the dirty uniforms.

In her unobtrusive way, Kim has demonstrated that such traditional duties don't necessarily have to be an insurmountable obstacle to greater participation by females.

Her duties are limited to the football field, and the coaches testify that she is making a valuable contribution.

Kim's father once managed the football team at Notre Dame, and she says she intends to apply for that job, too.

We're for you, Kim. You can keep track of what goes on on the playing field. The Fighting Irish can pick up their own dirty socks.

Drivers need swivel seats

Fence post

letters to the editor

You have to be a "swivel neck" to drive in the murderous traffic in the Schaumburg-Hoffman area. I guess most adults can swivel their necks from middle to right or left at about an 80 to 85 degree angle. When you get to middle age your swiveling talents along with certain others become slightly diminished. If you develop a little arthritis in your cervical "neck" vertebrae it becomes more and more difficult to swivel effectively. And in this neighborhood your life could depend on your swiveling ability.

Example: try to get on Schaumburg or Roselle Roads from a side street. Count how many times you swivel your neck from side to side before you make that fateful decision to pull out on to the race track. Look to the right, look to the left. Just when the north lane is clear, the south lane — that red Camaro is coming just a little too fast for you to take the chance, so you sit and swivel some more.

When you get where you're going sometimes you feel a little twinge in your neck and it's little wonder. You have swiveled it many many times on your way. I spent three days with an immobilized neck that was due I'm sure to swiveling just a little faster than I could handle it.

But what can you do? If you can't swivel your neck, in this neck of woods, you're in big trouble. You can't go anywhere without a car, so you must literally get it in the neck. Other parts of the anatomy take the strain too, but in the main I think the neck is the stress point.

ON A FORM I received from the driver's license bureau recently there was a section where the officer who tests you can write various grades for your ability to make turns, park, back up and so on, but none for swiveling. I think they should make you rotate your head from side to side so many times in a given period to see how you can swivel. It's very important to your driving skills. Perhaps an orthopedic surgeon could be consulted to set up the standard for so many swivels per minute.

If cars are around long enough the human body might have the ability to make an evolutionary change so that future generations of drivers would develop a neck that would be much more suited to swiveling. They might even be able to turn their necks all the way around. But that will take quite a while so in the meantime when you are driving in Hoffman or Schaumburg you'll just have to depend on your present neck that is not too well adapted.

Residents happy

Residents of the Jamestown subdivision along with Fairview Gardens wish to express their sincere thanks to the Mount Prospect Zoning Board for the favorable votes against the apartment buildings north of the Mount Prospect Plaza.

If our outbursts of appreciation in any way disrupted the meeting Sept. 25, we sincerely apologize.

'Thank you' to all who helped

On Oct. 3, 1974 our house caught fire.

Today is the first anniversary of that fire, which is now just a memory. We give thanks on this day:

• To the Schaumburg Fire Department, for the quick response and action which probably saved our home from total destruction.

• To the friends and neighbors, whose kindness and understanding helped us to survive an horrendous experience.

Thank you, thank you — one and all.

Lil's column lends a hand

Just a few lines to express our thanks to you for carrying Lil Floros' column.

Every year we promote the planting of burning bushes around town as a public service, since it is Mount Prospect's official shrub.

The week of Sept. 20, after Lil "plugged" our efforts, 100 bushes were sold literally overnight and still calls poured in referring to her column.

She has a tremendous readership and it is a pleasure to have a bit of small town feeling in a paper as large as The Herald.

Don't let her get away from you.

Reader gives warranty tips

On Sept. 25, The Herald had an article in Section 6 on warranties — especially on autos.

If the dealer will not be obligated to honor an auto warranty, why not withhold, say 10 per cent of the price in escrow for a year, or the length of the warranty, to encourage more satisfaction to car buyers? This is a common occurrence to secure performance in some other business transactions.

She cares about air we breathe

Mr. George Joy's letter made me very thankful there are wonderful concerned people who really care about the air we breathe. I, too, was upset by the full page ad telling people to write congressmen to put off standards on auto emissions.

I'll write Adlai Stevenson and include Mr. Joy's article. With all the ozone watches we've been having, I don't even like to open windows to let the fresh air (?) in.

Nasty fight seen likely for governor

by PAMELA REEVES

CHICAGO (UPI) — If the contest for the 1976 Democratic gubernatorial nomination continues as it started, voters will see a lot of bluff-bam-bang fighting.

State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, who entered the race Monday, indicated he thinks the two candidates Gov. Daniel Walker defeated in 1972 were too easy a mark for Walker's sharp tongue and deadly thrusts.

"All Paul Simon, whom Walker defeated in the 1973 primary, did was turn the other cheek," Dixon said. "He let Walker abuse him and vilify him. I don't want to be in a dirty campaign but I am not going to run away from that man."

During his eight-city flyaround Monday, Dixon called Walker "a flim flam man" and a liar and said the Democratic party is disgusted with him.

That was not the style of either Simon or former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, whom Walker defeated in the 1972 general election, and it appears Walker will face a different kind of challenge this year.

THE GOVERNOR's only comment on Dixon's jabs Monday was "Let the man have his day." But when he announced his own candidacy for reelection last week, Walker called Dixon a puppet of Mayor Richard J. Daley, and he has never lacked for words when it comes to rhetorical fighting.

Although the Dixon-Walker contest started with name-calling, Dixon said he plans to switch to issue-fighting in the coming weeks, while keeping a close eye on his rear flank.

He said he expects Walker to tour the Southern Illinois cornfields tarring him as a Daley puppet, but he said, "I'm going to follow right behind him and discuss the issues in his administration."

"He's trying to sell the same old baloney," Dixon said, referring to the "Daley puppet" label Walker used on Simon in 1972 and is now using on Dixon.

"That's stale baloney," Dixon said. "It doesn't taste good any more. And the people of Illinois are too smart to swallow it a second time."

DIXON SAID he has discussed his candidacy with Daley, as well as other Democratic leaders and has not received a commitment of support, although he was encouraged by the reception he had.

He said he will seek support from the Cook County Democratic slatemakers, the step which Walker says makes a man a Daley puppet, but also will appear before other Democratic organizations throughout the state looking for their backing.

"I am my own man," he said, "no body's puppet."

On the issues Monday Dixon said he doesn't see any need for a tax increase for the next two years. He said he favors giving Illinois schools about $61 million this year above what Walker has authorized, but does not favor an override of the reduction votes Walker made in education bills since that would cost $140 million.

Dixon said he will support candidates seeking delegate seats at the Democratic National Convention, specifically those who plan to vote for Sen. Adlai Stevenson for the presidency. Although Stevenson is not an announced candidate, Dixon said he thinks he will run.

"I've had private conversations with him where he has not discouraged my support," Dixon said.

The almanac

by United Press International
Today is Thursday, Oct. 9, the 282nd day of 1975 with 83 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Saturn, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Mercury.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson was born Oct. 9, 1890.

On this day in history:

• In 1701, Yale College, now Yale University, was founded.

• In 1910, forest fires in northern Minnesota destroyed six towns with a loss of 400 lives and damage estimated at $100 million.

• In 1934, King Alexander of Yugoslavia was assassinated by a Croatian terrorist during a state visit to France.

• In 1973, Israeli military units regained most of the Golan Heights from Syria, and Israeli jet planes bombed Damascus.

A thought for the day: American novelist Willa Cather said, "No one can build his security upon the nobleness of another person."

Trend to coed schools starts to lose steam

All-male or all-female schools seemed a few years ago to be going the way of the dodo bird — toward extinction.

The trend was apparent when some of the famous men's and women's schools, including Yale and Vassar, became coeducational.

Now, however, the trend may have changed, at least as far as some women's colleges are concerned. And a visitor to the Northwest suburbs this week from California helped confirm the fact.

PATRICIA DORSEY was visiting Arlington High School representing Mills College, Oakland, Calif. Mills is a women's school which on the West Coast is considered almost as prestigious as many of the Seven Sisters

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

that populate the female version of the Ivy League.

Two of the things Ms. Dorsey was talking about to interested girls were two of Mills' newest programs. One, a program in "Administration and Legal Processes," is designed to prepare students for management jobs both in business and in government.

The other, which just started this fall, allows a woman to take three years of her education at Mills and two years at either Stanford University or the University of California at Berkeley. After five years, the woman has a bachelor of arts degree from Mills and a bachelor of science in engineering from Stanford.

The new programs, Ms. Dorsey said, reflect "some of the things women are starting to think about." And, she says, she and other Mills' officials believe there are real advantages for a woman to be at a women's school when she starts thinking about those new things.

"STUDENTS WHO have been at Mills a few years are much less radical in their feminism than women in coed schools," she said. "At Mills they have nothing to fight against because everyone is telling them to fulfill their potential. The radicals often come from coed schools who feel they are being put down in that environment."

Ms. Dorsey said students seem to be more receptive to the idea of a women's school than they were a few years ago, even though many of the 17-year-old students do not think about Mills from a "feminist perspective. The very young girls haven't had their consciousness raised yet," she said.

Engineering and administration programs Mills offers are not the only advantages of a women's school, however. Ms. Dorsey said that, for example, the college is running special workshops for women who are intelligent, capable and afraid of math.

"In high schools, girls still feel math is a boy's subject," she says. "They stop taking math classes with advanced algebra and then get to college and discover they need statistics if they want to get into psychology or fields like that."

AT MILLS, THE fear of math is tackled directly in the small workshops, Ms. Dorsey said. "That is very important because we've found that math is a strong filtering agent in the job market. Lack of background keeps women out of many fields."

All of the good points Ms. Dorsey lists for the women's college is almost enough to convince a person that, far from vanishing like a dodo bird, the single-sex school is the wave of the future.

That, of course, probably is not true. Coeducation is far too deeply ingrained in society to vanish.

However, Ms. Dorsey and others involved with single-sex schools are confident there will be a place for them in the future.

"We're very strongly committed to the idea that people should have options," she said.

Back-to-basics schools make waves

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

Newest waves on the public school scene nationwide are being made by the back-to-basics movement.

It's much more than replacing the new math with the old arithmetic, the new English with grammar and spelling drills and sloppy dress with uniforms.

Where they exist, back-to-basics schools operate as alternative schools. Students volunteer to attend them, just as other students in the district sign up for another kind of public school, one that is less structured than the regular school.

The regular public school is what all the other students attend.

IN SOME DISTRICTS where back-to-basics schools operate, students have a choice of schools: regular, basic, or less-structured.

The less-structured schools might also be called the ultrapermissive. These began in the late 1960s to give students, mostly at the high school level, more options and fewer course requirements, and fewer discipline rules.

These schools advanced by the Ford Foundation and the U. S. Office of Education, caught on. Nationwide today there are hundreds of these schools within public school systems.

Several years ago the back-to-basics believers beat the drums for an alternative school that leaned to the conservative side.

The thinking: If the public schools can provide liberal schools as an alternative, why not as a third choice, a form of school on the educationally conservative side — uniforms, dress codes and prayer and maybe even corporal punishment?

THERE ARE ABOUT A dozen of the back-to-basics schools now. They operate in Pasadena, Cupertino, Palo Alto and San Geronimo in California. Also: In Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N. C.; Jefferson County, Colo.; Long Beach, N. Y., and Seattle.

This fall new ones started up in Cincinnati; Kansas City, Mo.; and Broward and Dade Counties, Fla.

Many more are proposed — partly due to reports from the back-to-basics apostles that the new "old-fashioned" school raises academic achievements.

To which the Council on Basic Education says — It's a bit early to make such a claim. The oldest of the basic schools is three years old. That's in San Geronimo. The Pasadena and Cupertino schools are two. And Palo Alto, Jefferson County and Charlotte-Mecklenburg just finished year one.

Some questions about the movement — with answers from the Council on Basic Education in Washington, D.C.

Q. Just how are the basic schools different?

A. They put more emphasis on basic skills than regular schools do. With the exception of the Pasadena school all so far are elementary. Big on reading, writing and arithmetic, primarily, they also usually have stricter discipline and some have corporal punishment. Some have dress codes and pay more attention to patriotism and moral values than regular schools. And some have prayers and Bible-reading.

Q. How can they get away with that?

A. They can since registration is voluntary. Dr. Donald Waltrip, Cincinnati superintendent, answered the question when asked in a public meeting why all Cincinnati elementary schools could not stress behavior and discipline in the way proposed for the alternative basics school there.

He replied that court cases had determined that you can't force everybody to abide by the kind of dress and behavior codes contemplated if they don't want them. Volunteering, however, makes it okay.

Q. How did the alternative back-to-basics schools come into being?

A. In the first four, initiative came from groups of parents. In Pasadena, it came from the board of education. (United Press International)

Bluebird gentle; Blue Jay cruel

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Kathy Morrison, 12, of Indianapolis, Ind., for her question:

IS A BLUEBIRD THE SAME AS A BLUE JAY?

Both of them wear blues, but in almost every other respect the bluebird and the blue jay are different. The main difference is in character. The gentle, sweet-singing bluebird is friendly enough to live in a birdhouse. The larger, loud-mouthed blue jay is a bossy bird, greedy and determined to make life miserable for all the other birds in the neighborhood.

The bluebird is related to the sweet-singing thrushes. Most of his outfit is soft heavenly blue, with neat black tips on his wings. He has touches of white on his tummy, set off with a rusty red waist. The little charmer spends the winter with friends and relatives in the Southern part of the United States. He returns to other Northern nesting sites just in time to welcome the first breath of spring with a song.

If you set out the right kind of birdhouse, the bluebird parents may use it to build a nest of grasses and feathers. The mother bird lays from four to six blue eggs, and both parents gather weevils, grasshoppers and other garden pests to feed their growing chicks.

The blue jay is a large slim bird with a long tail, handsomely dressed in blue and white, accented with little black bars. His conversation is limited to a loud, aggressive squawk — and everyone who hears it knows that the neighborhood bully has come to town.

The blue jay is a permanent resident in many evergreen forests of North America. Often he visits towns and farms, where his aggressive ways drive away the useful and friendly birds. Usually his nest is in the fork of a tree. But sometimes he drives away a bluebird family from a hollow trunk and takes over their nest. The cruel character may devour the eggs and even the young chicks.

True, the blue jay is an elegant, handsome fellow, but he has no friends in the bird world. What's more, the squawking bully often dive-bombs and scares the neighborhood cats and dogs.

Right now the pretty bluebirds are getting ready to fly South, but the bullying blue jays will stay through the winter. The bluebirds will return in early spring, and most likely you will hear their sweet voices before you see them. However, don't expect them to stay in your garden if the squawking blue jay is around to scare them.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Douglas Gardner, 10, of High Point, N.C., for his question:

WHERE DO WE GET LINSEED OIL?

The first three letters are taken from the word linen, which is a fine fabric woven from plant threads. The plant that makes these fibers is called flax. When its little blue-eyed flowers fade, it produces smooth seeds. These seeds from the linen fiber plant contain rich linseed oil.

Slap-dash works but seldom scores big

Slap-dash play works on occasion. South wins the first heart and goes after clubs. The slap-dash player bangs down the ace and king. This drops West's queen and South is sure of 10 tricks. He probably makes an eleventh by leading a diamond toward dummy's queen and may even wind up with twelve if the defense isn't top notch.

The expert declarer doesn't do nearly as well. He has bid three nortrup and wants to win the game and rubber.

He does win the first heart and does lay down his ace of clubs, but his next

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby club play is a low one toward the jack. West takes his queen and goes about the business of setting up his hearts but this doesn't bother expert South at all. South wanted to guard against a 4-1 club break and the low club to the jack was a perfect safety play. Give West four clubs he could take his queen then or later, but that would be his only club trick. If East held on, South would lead a club from them he would take his quarry. Later dummy and pick up the rest of the suit.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

SR. MANUFACTURING ENGINEER

We are a high volume producer of O.E.M. automotive switches, relays, buzzers, and circuit breakers; appliance switches; TV components; miniature indicating lights and low voltage - low amperage fuses and fuse holders.

Improving economic conditions necessitate that we employ an additional engineer having considerable previous experience in tool design, manufacturing process determination, capital equipment justification and selection, tool and machine maintenance, "Make or Buy" decisions and preparation of cost reduction proposals.

Familiarization with high speed metal stampings, injection molding, and semi-automatic assembly testing and packaging operations is highly desirable. This position requires the talent and experience of a "Seasoned" tool and process engineer with a degree in Mechanical or Industrial Engineering.

Excellent starting salary, liberal employee benefits including profit sharing, professional atmosphere and ultra-modern facilities assure you of job satisfaction.

Please submit your resume outlining your academic background, work history and salary requirements or call to establish an appointment for an interview.

Mortgages rise; savings battle erupts

by BARRY SIGALE

The cost of home mortgage money is going up again in the face of increased competition for investment dollars, according to several Northwest suburban savings and loan associations and banks.

Savings and loan depositors are being lured from the mortgage money market to more lucrative high-interest Treasury bills and other investments. Money is withdrawn from S&Ls and banks, leaving less for home loans.

The running battle for control of the savings account has forced interest rates back up to 9 per cent, said James Holmes, Mount Prospect, executive director of the Chicago Area Council of Insured Savings Associations.

One area savings and loan official said people are trying to squeeze every penny out of their dollar, and are hurting the housing market.

THE OFFICIAL, who preferred to remain anonymous, quoted not a prestigious economist or government prognosticator but Walt Kelly's famous cartoon creation to sum things up: "Pogo said it best. 'We have met the enemy and he is us.'"

He gave the example of a man with $40,000 in the bank and a paid-up house as symptomatic of the problem. "He invests his money at the Treasury, then calls us up and complains, 'Why can't my son get a mortgage?' The man who doesn't need it is taking too much and not leaving it for the man who needs it."

A survey conducted by the Council of Savings Associations, which services more than 200 savings and loans, showed that August interest rates, based on the conventional 20 per cent down payment, averaged 8.72 per cent in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area.

Holmes stressed, however, that the average has been raised to about 9 per cent in the past few weeks. He blamed the savings outflow and the affects of recession and inflation as contributing to the darkened picture.

THE AMOUNT OF service charges, or points, in August averaged about 1.85 per cent of the closing cost, Holmes said. The average length of a mortgage was about 28 years, he said. The figures fluctuate, depending on how much money the borrower puts down.

Holmes said the time to buy a home is now, assuming the person can afford the purchase. He said he doesn't foresee a sudden emergence of much more money in the market in the near future.

"Line up a financial source right away," he advised. "There could develop a shortage (of money)." He said the interest rates may stay high for a while, and the uncertainty in the construction industry makes it a better time to buy. "People are off base if they sit and wait. If everything is right with you, do it now."

Holmes said most transactions involve used homes which are in greater demand these days because of the slack in new home construction. He said condominium building is up while less multiple-family housing is being built.

LOCAL SAVINGS and loan officials are pessimistic about the future. One said he has never seen anything like the recent climb to 9 per cent mortgages, and shortly another issue of Treasury bills will make matters worse.

"The government has no cash flow," he said, "so they go to the public. By going into the marketplace they hurt everybody else. The savings and loans retaliate by raising the price of their mortgage money."

"The rates go up to cut down demand," said another official. Prices scare people out of the market. This practice is used when there are more customers than money. High service charges are put into effect "because we're short of money."

The market is also affected, the official agreed, by the increasing sophistication of savers.

"Even if people have enough money to put 50 per cent down," said a loan officer, "they only want to put down 20 per cent. I don't blame them for wanting to keep their money."

MORTGAGE RATES in the Northwest suburbs have won by the federal government. The high-interest reached and in some cases topped 9 per cent as the Treasury bills have sapped money from the mortgage loan market.

Rent forecast: paying more for less

The law of supply and demand probably will force rents to rise next year as a shortage of apartments becomes more pronounced, a Chicago housing analyst said.

Anthony Downs, chairman of the Real Estate Research Corp., also said more cities may be forced into setting up rent controls but that suburban areas with a relative abundance of rental units probably will not need regulations to keep prices down.

He forecasts larger increases in rent for the next several years unless "prosperity returns" and construction starts increase. Downs said rents would have to go up 20 to 40 per cent to spark new construction.

DOWNS SAID IF attempts to raise rents are carried to an extreme, the public might rebel and ask for tighter controls, either by asking for a review of complaints or outright dictating rent increase ceilings.

In a speech to the California Assn. of Realtors last weekend, Downs said the depressed state of housing was forcing the nation into "spending more for less" in housing.

Downs drew a parallel to the automobile industry, citing the trend toward the manufacture of smaller cars, which are growing just as expensive as their larger counterparts were a few years ago.

He added Monday that in the past 10 years rents have gone up less rapidly than other prices. The analyst said apartment rents, to date, have not increased anywhere near the rate of inflation, but that owners have now reached the point where they cannot maintain the status quo.

DOWNS WARNED that the predicted increases will force apartment dwellers to band together into tenant groups and force cities into adopting strict rent controls. Such controls already exist in New York City, Boston, Miami Beach, Anchorage and Maryland.

Downs said Monday there is a good supply of apartments in the suburbs and that he doubts any local controls would be needed. He said middle class tenants might "gang up" against individual high rent increases but that formal organizations probably won't develop.

Most people will no longer be able to afford the quality of housing they desire and will be forced to live in smaller spaces while paying more, he said.

The year 1976, he added, would mark a continuation of a slow recovery in the real estate market, moderate availability of mortgage money and slowness in construction.

But, he added, that as consumer confidence increased so would sales.

"Try all your tricks in '76," Downs told the Realtors.

Home upgrade topic of survey by Census

Questions on expenditures for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties are being asked this month of a sample of households in the Chicago area by Bureau of the Census interviewers.

The home improvement survey is taken four times each year to provide information on this segment of the American economy. The sample of households is among 5,200 throughout the United States to be included in a final report.

Total expenditures for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties in the first quarter of 1975 was $4.3 billion, according to Census figures.

Information reported to the Census Bureau is held in strict confidence by law and no individual statements are released.

Similarly, the Census Bureau is visiting some 1,250 housing units per month for up-to-date data on housing, considered one of the major indicators of the nation's economic conditions.

The Census Bureau, in cooperation with the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, will compile their results in March.

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

Whether you do it yourself or hire professional help, remodeling your home can be a rewarding experience. In addition, many home improvements reap benefits in terms of resale value.

In general, adding livable space to a house and updating the kitchen are considered by experts to be the most desirable improvements.

Modernizing or adding a bathroom is another, almost certain way to reap maximum return in resale value. However, exterior improvements — building a patio, landscaping extensively, adding storm windows, aluminum siding or new shingles — usually offer little return, and therefore tend to be risky investments.

One expert estimates that return on remodeling dollars in terms of resale value is 100 per cent if the money is spent adding new space to the house, 75 per cent if existing rooms are modernized and 50 per cent if luxuries — such as pools and patios — are added.

Others say additions which have a high percentage of recovery cost are: a second full bathroom in a three- or four-bedroom house; a lavatory on the ground floor of a two-story house; a fully modernized kitchen; and a third bedroom if the new room is comparable in size to the others.

Before remodeling, you and your family should decide which repairs are imperative and which are merely desirable. Keep in mind that what seems a necessary change to you may not seem so to prospective buyers.

And remember, too, that resale value is enhanced if all small repairs have been made. Fixing cracked windows, leaky faucets, stuck doors and other minor items suggest a home has been cared for properly. These items generally can be repaired at minimum cost and will greatly increase the salability of your home.

Here are other ideas to keep in mind if you're thinking of remodeling. Anticipate storage space. Determine storage needs of each added or improved area, and build in as much storage space as possible. Adapt the house to the family, not the family to the house, when you plan improvements.

If you're planning extensive remodeling, try to work your new layout within the existing framework of walls, plumbing and heating systems. If you can't avoid alterations, make sure proposed changes comply with local building codes.

Remember that tastes differ strongly on interior decoration. Expensive flocked wallpaper, for example, might represent a terrible waste of money to a prospective buyer. Other prospects might not be impressed by wall-to-wall carpeting or expensive or unusual light fixtures. And, while a new exterior paint job probably makes the house more attractive to prospects, the cost should be considered a normal homeowner's maintenance expense.

In terms of dollars, home improvement and remodeling can be considered sound investments if improvements will increase the resale value of the home. But in terms of making your home a better place to live in meeting your family's needs, improvements pay for themselves when they accomplish this purpose.

Pat Caldwell

Pat Caldwell tops $1 million

Pat Caldwell of Quinlan and Tyson's Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office has topped the million mark in sales for 1978.

She went over the high level in September, it was announced by Ken Koy, office sales manager.

Mrs. Caldwell, who joined Quinlan & Tyson in 1973, now has a career sales total of more than $2 million.

Active in several civic organizations in the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area, Mrs. Caldwell belongs to the Church of the Cross Presbyterian in Hoffman Estates.

She attended Sam Houston State College, Georgia State College and the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

Mrs. Caldwell and her husband, Jack, live in Schaumburg. They have two children.

Gain peace of mind at Park Lane

Although it comes in many shapes and forms, peace of mind is one thing that every luxury homebuyer seems to be looking for today.

"There is no question that security is profoundly important, even in a low-crime area like Park Ridge," observes real estate developer Louis Elliott. His firm, The Venterra Group, Ltd., is building Park Lane, a $35 million complex of elegant condominium homes and townhomes in Park Ridge.

Elliott declares that Park Lane has the most complete and sophisticated system for communication and internal security ever devised for a residential development. Park Ridge police and fire officials concur and by pricing insurance coverage below standard rates for similar coverage in other buildings even insurance experts appear to agree.

According to its designer, James Electronics, the system is a unique combination of manual and electronic components. The "public" components include a gatehouse, an eight-person around-the-clock security force and an attractive estate fence around the property. The chief ingredient is an electronic system which, in effect, monitors every condominium home by computer scan every 30 seconds, and provides an array of protective elements.

"The last thing we wanted was to create a compound protected by barbed wire and machine gun turrets," said Elliott. "But we wanted people to feel just as protected."

Here's a thumbnail description of system highlights:

Each residence has a complete communications and control console that contains a unique digital sensing and signal system. It is linked to the gate house that is manned 24 hours a day and provides two-way communications with the attendant and arriving visitors. You can even see the visitors on closed circuit television.

Automatic protection guards against unauthorized entry whether you're away from home or even when at home. The system is activated by turning the switch on when the owner leaves home. The signal registers on the master electronic panel in the gate house. If anyone should attempt an unauthorized entry, the gate house attendant is notified automatically. So are Park Ridge police, because the Park Lane system is tied into the municipal police and fire control centers.

The owner can also actuate the system to work while at home. If there is an attempted unauthorized entry, an alarm is sounded simultaneously in the home and Gate House.

Automatic and continuous smoke and fire monitoring is provided in each condominium and townhouse residence. When triggered the sensors sound an alarm in the home, gate house and fire department.

A televised computerized package notification system that keeps track of parcels even when you are away. If a package arrives when you are home, you will be notified by the attendant.

If you are away, the attendant presses a button that stores the unit number of your residence and package number in the system and prints it on a television screen. If you forget to check for a package when you pass the gate house, you can turn on your TV set to find out if there is a package for you.

The system also includes a push-button emergency device, permits voice communication between residence and the lobby, and is tied into the swimming pool, club house, hospitality room and tennis court area so that the resident can be reached while elsewhere on the premises.

And if approvals by police and fire officials aren't enough, the rate reduction on insurance premiums constitutes another endorsement.

To visit the furnished models of Park Lane and get a demonstration of the amazing communication and security system, take the Kennedy Expressway to the Cumberland Rd. exit and proceed north about one mile to Talcott Rd. (Rte. 62). Go west (left) about two miles, just north of Touhy Ave., to the models at 333 North Talcott.

V.I.P. staffer tops $1 million

Marilee Anderson, broker-sales representative for the V.I.P. Real Estate company Buffalo Grove office, has exceeded one million dollars in real estate sales in the first eight months of 1978. The announcement was made by President, Bud Barth of the V.I.P. organization. This is the third year that she has topped the magic one million mark.

Ms. Anderson is a charter member of the V.I.P. organization and has contributed greatly to the company's growth and success. She has served on the associate committee of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and is presently a member of the social committee. She also is a member of the Realtors National Marketing Institute.

Space leased

Richard G. Levy and Steven H. Podolsky of Podolsky and Associates announced the signing of a lease for 46,000 square feet by Ronco Teleproducts, Inc. The building is located at Arthur and Lively Blvd., in Elk Grove Village and is the first lease in the 375,000 square foot building which is the largest inventory building ever built in the Chicago area.

Ronco Teleproducts will use the space for warehousing and distribution of television promotion items for the midwest and eastern United States.

Pepper starts construction

Pepper Construction Company has begun work on a 60,000 square foot auto salvage facility for Allstate Insurance Companies at 100 E. Palatine Rd., Wheeling, it was recently announced.

The one-story structure, with partial basement and mezzanine, was designed by Wendt Cedarholm Tipples, Architects, of Northfield. Completion is scheduled for the end of April, 1976, according to Vipin Shroff, project supervisor for Pepper.

Building seminar to be held

A new, specially prepared seminar for builders, developers and their management teams will be sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) on October 7, at the Sheraton Oak Brook.

According to Herbert H. Freedman (Wolf and Company), seminar author and instructor, the seminar, entitled "Fundamentals of Preparing a Cash Projection for the Residential Builder" will be an intensive teaching session on the practical, well-organized, logical approach to operating one's business. With today's financial community being more cautious, prudent and demanding than ever before, it is essential that we cultivate an insight into the critical areas of business planning and its practical application to our day to day operations, continues Freedman.

Seminar panelists include Edmund H. Sorenson, president of U.S. Shelter, Inc.; Chester Moskal, senior vice president of Miller Builders, Inc.; Jack Von Ehr, vice president finance of Don L. Diss, Inc. and Larry Mayer, president of Edelberg-Mayer and Company.

Some of the topics which will be covered at the seminar are transforming decisions and sales forecast into sales by month, cost of sales and land cost per unit, sales and marketing expense budget, general and administrative budget, financial costs (when and how much to borrow) and performing financial statements.

The seminar will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sheraton Oak Brook. Cost of the seminar is $40 with advance reservation and $50 at the door. The fee includes instruction, lunch and two coffee breaks and all seminar materials. Attendance is limited to 50; reservations may be made by calling the HBAGC office at 887-7575.

Beverly Ann Berry

Million dollar sales attained

Beverly Ann Berry, sales manager of Quinlan and Tyson's Palatine area office, has topped the million mark in sales again.

This is the fifth straight year that Mrs. Berry has gone over the magic level, it was announced by William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales for Quinlan and Tyson.

Mrs. Berry, who has been a real estate sales representative with the firm since October of 1969, became sales manager of the Palatine office early this year.

Her outstanding effort this year brought her career sales total with Quinlan and Tyson to $5.8 million.

Mrs. Berry became a life member of the Illinois Association of Realtors Million Dollar Club for closing sales in excess of $1 million for three consecutive years.

A licensed real estate broker, Mrs. Berry holds the G.R.I. designation. She also was named to the Quinlan and Tyson President's Circle in 1973 for her exceptional achievements.

Mrs. Berry is a member of the local chapter of the American Business Women's Association and serves as its hospitality chairman. She also is active in PTA work.

Mrs. Berry and her husband, Stephen, have two sons. They live in Arlington Heights.

Office sets record

With a total of $1,250,550 in residential sales for the month of August, the Buffalo Grove office of Homefinders Realtors has set a new monthly sales record, announced Robert L. Zaun, president of the 12 Homefinders offices in the northwest suburbs.

Located at 100 W. Dundee in the village, Homefinders Realtors was the first residential realtor in Buffalo Grove, and has participated in sales exceeding $6 million so far this year.

John T. Kerwin is the manager of the Buffalo Grove office. Associates in the office are Joyce Bain, Barbara Chappell, William Costen, William Drury, Joyce Gerscheleske, Peter Johnson, Jerry Kiltzka, Jack Krieger, Jo Ann Mathews, Mary Peterson, Tom Svoboda and Harry Wolter. Mary Howard is the office secretary.

John Kerwin, Mary Peterson, Joyce Bain, Joyce Gerscheleske and Jo Ann Mathews are all members of the Homefinders Million Dollar Club.

FORMAL groundbreaking ceremonies for the Unity Savings Association Woodfield office took place yesterday at 1805 East Golf Road, Schaumburg, where Unity has been operating from a temporary facility for the past 18 months. This property is adjacent to Woodfield Mall Shopping Center. The new contemporary building, approximately 9,000 square feet, was designed by the architectural firm of Mayes and Williams. All services previously offered at our temporary office will be available at the new building. Eight teller stations, three drive-in windows, and safety vaults will be installed.

Certificate offered

First Federal Savings of Des Plaines has announced that they now offer a three month Certificate of Deposit earning interest at 5 1/2 per cent annually. The minimum deposit to open this Certificate is $100. If interest is left in the Certificate to compound, it will produce an annual yield of 6 per cent. Other Certificates are offered by First Federal Savings for a minimum deposit of $1,000 for terms of from one year to six years and earning interest from 6 1/2 per cent to 7 1/2 per cent annually. All Certificates earn daily interest. As provided by Federal regulations, a substantial interest penalty is provided for early withdrawal before maturity date of all Certificate accounts.

"This Certificate will give the saver an opportunity to earn at a higher rate of interest than our ever-popular 5 1/2 per cent passbook account, provided that the saver can leave the Certificate account with us for at least three months," according to John A. Eagleson, president of First Federal Savings of Des Plaines.

Rosalie Voras hits million mark

Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors, serving the northwest suburban community for 26 years, announced million dollar sales honors for Rosalie Voras, Annen & Busse associate in their Palatine location.

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

There are certain energy-saving techniques, materials and appliances that can save homeowners thousands of dollars in energy costs over the years. And these days, when experts are predicting that the cost of energy will continue to rise, it's especially important that consumers are aware of ways to conserve energy.

If you're planning to buy a home, as a Realtor I can assure you that the following checklist will assist you in making the most "energy-conserving" purchase. And if you're planning to remodel your present home, keep the following information in mind:

Heating and cooling equipment should be no larger than the home requires. Over-sized equipment means less efficiency.

A forced warm air furnace should be equipped with filters that can be reached and changed easily. Clogged or dirty filters substantially reduce fuel efficiency for both heating and cooling.

A humidifier should be attached to the heating system. Higher humidity makes people feel more comfortable lower temperatures.

The control of a hot water heater should be set for 120 degrees. If it's a gas water heater, make sure it has modulating capacities. Two burners are more efficient than single burners.

An over-under freezer-refrigerator uses less energy than the side-by-side combination and frostless refrigerators use as much as 50 per cent more energy than normal defrost refrigerators.

A clothes dryer — gas or electric — should be equipped with an exhaust vent that releases hot air outside the house.

An exhaust fan should have a positive shutter closer, especially in cold climates.

Fluorescent lamps should be used as much as possible. They're more efficient than general service light bulbs because they produce nearly four times as much light per watt of electric power.

A garage or carport should be attached to the house on north, northeast or northwest walls in cold climates. In warm climates, garages or carports should be attached on east or west walls to reduce heat gain by shading.

Trees on the property surrounding a house should be located in such a way as to provide shade for the home during the summer.

An air conditioner compressor should be shaded, particularly at noon, by the house, trees, garage or carport.

Added insulation, especially in attic areas, will keep homes warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Weatherstripping around doors and windows will help to eliminate drafts and energy-wasting cold and heat.

Mister Big to open

Mister Big, Inc. will open Oct. 15 in Woodfield Mall, in the Lord & Taylor wing, upper level.

This store is the mall's first big and tall men's specialty shop. It will feature leisure wear, sports and casual clothes.

New idea in carpet care

There's a new idea today in commercial carpet care. It's called "Spot Light" maintenance, a planned program of regular carpet care that keeps carpets in offices, stores, and other commercial buildings clean-looking the year-round, instead of just for a brief period after a major cleaning.

John McAndrews of ServiceMaster of Arlington Heights, the source for "Spot Light" carpet care in the Arlington Heights area, says that year-long attention under a "Spot Light" maintenance program will probably cost no more than is now being paid for annual carpet care.

Storey gains appointment

Robert A. Storey has been named consumer lending manager at Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association's Hoffman Estates office.

Robert Storey

The announcement was made by Lincoln Federal Executive Vice President Thomas A. Kinst.

Storey has served as assistant vice president of the Barrington State Bank and at the time of his appointment with Lincoln Federal was serving as assistant vice president of the Schaumburg State Bank. Other financial experiences have been with banks in Addison, St. Charles, Freeport and Sycamore.

Storey has been an active participant in civic and professional affairs throughout his career.

He, his wife and one-year-old child live in Elgin.

John Wotring attends seminar

John Wotring

John J. Wotring, of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, recently completed a seminar in Washington, D.C. on "Obtaining, Training and Retaining Sales Associates." This course emphasizes successful techniques for seeking, selecting, hiring, training and retaining sales associates.

Wotring has now earned additional credits toward the designation, Certified Residential Broker (C.R.B.).

John Wotring is vice-president and manager of T. A. Bolger, Realtors Schaumburg office, which is one of four Bolger offices serving the north-west suburban area.

One Woodfield Place is now over 80 per cent leased and already houses the corporate headquarters or regional offices of Rockwell International's Admiral Group, Allied Chemical, Aluma, A.T. & T., Chubb and Son, Greyhound, Hertz, Incoterm and Pacific Car and Tank.

IDC Real Estate, leasing and management agent for One Woodfield

Place, is a national service and marketing organization with offices in Chicago, Denver, El Paso and Houston.

Group to discuss homeowners' plight

"The American Homeowner: an Endangered Species," is the theme of a Chicago conference Sept. 30 sponsored by the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry (CACI).

Rising home costs, mortgage loan rates, conflicting municipal law and the lack of government supporting policies reduce the American family's opportunity to own a home, the association said. Conference speakers will discuss steps that may be taken to improve the housing market.

Don L. Dize, president of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago, is among the speakers. The meeting will start at 9 a.m. in the Palmer House Hotel. For reservations information, contact Al Thomas at CACI offices in Chicago.

Melrose Federal celebrates

October is savings and loan month throughout Illinois. Officers and employees of Melrose Savings are sporting blue buttons which say "We can make your dreams come true" through saving.

Association president Norman W. Zech said "Savings institutions since 1851 have traditionally been the real estate financing specialists, and a supplier of home loans larger than any other source."

"The dream of home ownership, and for other needs as education, a vacation, a new car, have been made possible for many couples through a regular savings program," Zech said.

The 434 state and federally chartered associations in Illinois have assets of $23.49 billion.

Early next year the savings industry in Illinois will observe the 125th anniversary of chartering the first Illinois savings and loan association in Chicago.

"As our nation observes its 200th anniversary, it is proper to celebrate the contribution to community life and health which savings institutions have made as family financial centers and home financing specialists," Zech said.

The month-long observance is being sponsored by the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

Bolger announces appointment

Terence A. Bolger, president of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, has announced the appointment of Bruce Gartzke to the position of vice-president and director of relocation services. Rele is a world wide referral service with over 750 members that serve over 7,000 communities which enables a salesman to assist buyers and sellers in relocating any place in the world.

During the month of April, 1975, as a result of Gartzke's efforts, Bolger Realtors was first in the world in their category for the number of referrals. The last five months, under Gartzke's leadership, the firm has achieved a 420 per cent gain over the firms 12 month referral figures for 1974. In his new position Gartzke will continue to service both the industrial and residential communities. Gartzke resides in Elk Grove with his wife Alice, and their two children.

Everything Bolger Touches Turns to "SOLD"

Finished development offers advantages

It is no secret that homes are priced lowest when a development is new — when the bulldozers are still raising dust and when the builder needs cash to pay off his construction loan. Less known is the fact that special advantages also await the person who postpones his home purchase to the time in a development's existence when only a few units remain to be sold!

According to Albert Zale, president of Zale Construction Company, there is no single "right time" to buy a home. "It all depends on the individual buyer's sense of what is important," he said. "If price is highest on a person's list of priorities, I'd suggest he buy soon after a development's grand opening, but if flawless construction and a time-tested floor plan is his goal, then he should consider waiting until the community is almost sold out."

Zale speaks from the vantage point of having devoted several decades to the home construction business. Lakeside Villas in Wheeling, a $10.5 million townhome community developed by his firm, opened three years ago, and now, with its recreational facilities and landscaping program complete, has reached a point where only 18 of its 242 three-bedroom townhomes remain to be sold.

Referring to the price advantage mentioned as being in effect during the grand opening period, Zale said, "That's true enough, but there are disadvantages too."

"For one thing, the buyer is going to have to contend with a lot of dirt and noise as the development goes up around him. Recreational facilities and landscaping will not be complete and the lifestyle will be inconvenient at best."

Another point is that these days, there is always a small chance that the development will not succeed and that the person who buys early will end up with less than he expected. For example, the clubhouse he saw in preconstruction drawings might not get built at all.

"Finally, the person who buys early sometimes gets a house that doesn't have all the wrinkles ironed out of it," Zale said. "Builders try to deliver a perfect product and they make all necessary corrections, but as with any other new commodity on the market, it takes time to get construction techniques to the point where everything is done right the first time."

The person who buys in a development such as Lakeside Villas, which is selling off its last few models, experiences an entirely different set of advantages and disadvantages, Zale said.

"The greatest advantage to buying during the close-out stage is that the buyer is able to move directly into a completed development," Zale said. "Amenities such as swimming pools and trees are not promises on a blueprint, they are realities to be seen and used immediately."

"This buyer also gets a perfected home," Zale continued. "The flaws that may have existed in the builder's first models have been corrected as have any floor plan problems that caused complaint."

"In fact, 'price' is usually the only disadvantage to buying during the close-out period — because most people prefer to buy in a completed development, developers are able to raise their prices and realize a more reasonable profit."

At Lakeside Villas, however, circumstances have worked to keep even this one negative factor in check — "our prices are the same as they were last February," Zale said. He explained that under a government plan, $2,000 tax rebates are being made to all persons who buy homes in 1975 which have not incurred a price hike since February 28. "We kept our prices down to keep our buyers eligible for this program," Zale said.

Located on 25 landscaped acres surrounding a sparkling lake, Lakeside Villas still offers a choice of three different three-bedroom townhome models which are priced from $46,200 to $46,900. All prices include fully sodded and landscaped lawn areas, attached garage, full basement, central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, storms and screens, full-width paved driveway, gutters and downspouts, gas forced-air heating and deluxe hardware and lighting fixtures. Kitchens include automatic-defrosting refrigerator/freezer, built-in gas oven and range with exhaust fan and hood, dishwasher, garbage disposer, Formica countertops, walnut-tone solid wood cabinets, pantry closet and breakfast room.

Recreational facilities at the community include a spacious contemporary-designed clubhouse with resident lounge and card-playing area, dramatic see-through brick wood-burning fireplace with stone hearth, fully equipped kitchen for large parties, game room for billiards and men's and women's shower facilities. Outside, surrounded by an expansive deck, is the olympic-sized heated swimming pool and children's spray pool.

Lakeside Villas is located on Hintz Road just west of Schoenbeck Road in Wheeling. To visit the furnished models, which are open from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day but Thursday, take Schoenbeck Road north from Palatine Road or south from Dundee Road to Hintz Road. Turn west and follow the signs.

Gladstone adds new associate

Anna Hoffman-Arakaki has joined the staff of Gladstone, Realtors' Des Plaines office as a sales associate.

Anna Hoffman-Arakaki

She has a degree in economics from Heidelberg University and passed the requirements for Certified Public Accountant in her native Germany. Before coming to the United States, she studied sociology at Scarborough Technical College in England.

Prior to joining Gladstone's staff, Mrs. Hoffman-Arakaki worked in public relations for a land developer. She recently took courses in real estate and taxes and has passed the State of Illinois examination for a Real Estate Salesman's license.

Fluent in languages and widely traveled, Mrs. Hoffman-Arakaki has lived in Des Plaines for the last three years. She and her husband, Charles, have one daughter.

JERRY BOUSCHARD

During inflation . . . and we've had nothing else for many years . . . there's a good case to be made for investing in real estate. Most of the price paid for property is paid for with borrowed money. This money is repaid later with dollars that will almost certainly be "cheaper" than the ones you borrow today. Since inflation is a fact of life that we can expect to be here always, just be sure you are using it to your own advantage. Let us help you decide if your present house will benefit from inflation as much as other property you might own. You might be interested in buying income property by "trading on your equity" in property you now own. Ask us to explain . . . no obligation.

real estate/business

Bill Hinckley

Hinckley named training director

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation of Northern Illinois has named Bill Hinckley director of training. Hinckley, a training specialist with 23 years of experience, joined the Illinois regional office in August after moving up from a position as manager and training director of Century 21 Village Square Realty in Arlington Heights.

Hinckley, an active member of the Northwest Board of Realtors, spent 19 years with United Air Lines as an instructor of public contact people. He managed and taught all in-flight service personnel and was responsible for all emergency procedures training as a flight operations administrator.

Hinckley moved into real estate four years ago, joining Robert L. Nelson Real Estate of Elk Grove Village. During his tenure with Nelson, he first sold for two years and was then appointed office manager. Shortly thereafter, he was made vice president of personnel. He developed a real estate sales training program while holding this position and has also developed and taught training programs in youth leadership for church groups.

Hinckley and his wife, Judith, reside in Elk Grove Village.

First policy issued

A press party was held recently to celebrate the issuance of the first 10-year warranty policy presented by the Northern Illinois Home Builders Association Consumer Protection Corp. This program is sponsored by the NHBPA and is available to all Builder Members of the Association.

The recipients of this first policy were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wright of Wheaton, who recently moved into the third new home they have purchased from Joe Keim Builders, Inc.

Brooks urges repeal of RESPA

A savings and loan executive recently urged the Senate Banking Committee to repeal the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974 because it has added major operational problems and costs for lenders while creating unneeded delays for home borrowers.

Edwin Brooks Jr., of Richmond, Va., said a survey of nearly one-fourth the membership of the United States League of Savings Associations indicates that the RESPA disclosure rules have increased the waiting period from loan application to loan settlement by an average of 11.5 days — with some savings and loan associations reporting a three to four-week delay. Man hours have been increased 50 per cent, while processing costs have been upped an average of $35 per loan. Brooks is vice chairman of the Legislative Committee of the U.S. League, whose 4,600 members represent 98 per cent of the assets of the savings and loan business.

"We cannot help but conclude that RESPA is failing in its purpose (to hold down closing costs) and is a disservice to both consumers and home lending institutions," the thrift industry executive said.

"As someone has noted, this may well be one 'sunshine law' which has resulted in 'sunstroke.' Therefore, we recommend that Congress simply repeal the Act."

If Congress is unwilling to repeal the statute outright, Brooks added, it should suspend the most bothersome RESPA sections. He said the 12-day waiting period between advance disclosure and settlement should be significantly reduced — preferably to a 24-hour period.

He also called for a change to the section which requires lenders to collect and disseminate information over which they have no control and uncertain knowledge.

Brooks also recommended that the RESPA uniform disclosure statement should be simplified and combined with Truth-in-Lending disclosures. The statement should be limited to items over which the lender has control or knowledge, and the present duplication of entries on the two forms should be eliminated.

The U.S. League official raised a number of questions to the proposal by Banking Committee Chairman Sen. William Proxmire for lenders to absorb certain closing costs.

"By permitting a recapture of costs through interest rate adjustments, the borrower — depending on how long he keeps the loan and the property — may have a greater dollar cost than if he had paid the closing costs at time of settlement," he pointed out.

Jack's names $100 winners

Fabulous $100 shopping sprees were won by Dan Draus, Mt. Prospect, M. Chiovane, Mt. Prospect and Wayne Miller, Mt. Prospect, during Jack's Men's Shop Mystery Discount Spectacular.

The Mystery Discount Spectacular is a unique, once-a-year promotion by Jack's Men's Shop located in Mt.

Prospect Plaza during which they mail out a sealed envelope to preferred customers containing a discount card worth 5 per cent, 10 per cent, 15 per cent or 20 per cent. The customers bring the envelopes to the store to find out how much they will save . . . or if they are one of the lucky winners of a $100 shopping spree.

Hampton Court Condominium ARLINGTON HEIGHTS-DOWNTOWN

You're Beautiful

The seasons change, but the loveliness lingers at this in-town development with a restful country flavor. There is a feeling of ambience and freedom as you stroll on the walkways of Hampton Court amid acres of flowers, shrubs, evergreens, crab apple and oak trees. The striking low-rise structures are so spaced that fresh air, brightness and greenery are the order of every day.

And the apartment homes are superbly spacious and comfortable — like a home should be. Separate dining rooms, eat-in kitchens, plentiful closet space, bay windows and new carpeting give just a taste of the inviting features.

Remember, too, that you can walk to all the conveniences of downtown Arlington Heights — the premier northwest suburb. The Chicago & North Western station, excellent shopping, theatre and library are only a few blocks away.

Richard Impey honored

W. Richard Impey, of Gallery of Homes Northwest, was honored at the recent Silver Anniversary Convention of the Gallery of Homes, Inc. as "one of the nation's top ranked real estate brokerage operations."

This recognition is for Gallery of Homes outstanding performance in the Gallery of Homes International Relocation Service, a referral network that will assist more than 28,000 transferring families in 1975.

Accepting the award for the Gallery of Homes Northwest was June Gillilan, manager of employee relocation.

Presentations were made at convention headquarters in San Francisco by professional sports star Kyle Rota Jr.

Sales associates Beth Walther and Joan Doyle from the Gallery of Homes Northwest also attended the convention and were on hand for the presentation of the award.

Over 600 Gallery affiliates from throughout the North American Continent attending the twenty-fifth Anniversary Convention viewed the first live network telecast of the Gallery of Homes advertising campaign on the N.B.C. "Today" show.

Castady named top Bolger leader

George Castady, sales associate for T. A. Bolger, Realtors, Elk Grove office has been named "Sales Leader of the Month" for seven consecutive months. He also leads all four Bolger offices for the year with $1,900,000 in sales volume.

Castady began his real estate career 18 months ago and presently lives in Elk Grove with his wife, Jeannette and their three children.

Elk Grove space leased

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates reports the leasing of 16,000 square feet in the one story building at 1099 Touhy Avenue, Elk Grove Village to Nutrex International. Nutrex will use the facility as a warehouse operation for replacement parts to the after market auto industry.

Vernon F. Schultz of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates represented Nutrex and James H. Dana, also of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, represented the lessor in the lease transaction. Both parties were represented by house counsel.

Tips on plant care

The nation's indoor plant phenomenon is exceeding all expectations, with burgeoning sales of plants for homes and offices soaring ever upward.

So observes Joseph P. Sullivan, president of Estech, Inc., the chemicals subholding company of Esmark, Inc., Chicago.

Sullivan notes that some retail chains report sales of house plants climbing by as much as 35 per cent in each of the past three years. "It is largely an urban trend, with many of those who buy the indoor plants living in apartments without growing space outdoors."

"Of course, a great number of people with yards are also delighting in 'interior landscaping,'" he states.

Sullivan further reports that sales by his company have been up considerably in every region of the country.

"Whether a plant is chosen for home or for the office," Sullivan says, "picking the right one and giving it proper care are very important."

He offers a few hints to those just beginning to raise indoor plants:

- Use either a clay or plastic pot but, before setting the plant in it, cover the hole or holes with a piece of broken pot. Firm your already moistened commercial potting soil lightly around the roots.

- Give plants liquid or soluble plant food monthly during the summer seasons of spring, summer and fall; feed them little, if at all, in winter. It is best to apply the food when the soil is still moist from their last watering.

- Watering requirements vary among plants and size of their pots. In general, allow the soil to become fairly dry before watering, then soak the soil ball to its center.

- Most plants prefer bright light but not direct sunlight. If flowering plants are poor bloomers and have dark green foliage, gradually move them into brighter light. If a plant's foliage turns light green or yellowish, give it less light.

- If pests are noticed, spray foliage lightly every week with an insecticide especially for houseplants. If they are a problem, isolate the plant and spray twice a week until insects are gone.

- If a plant's lower leaves die one at a time, it is probably rootbound and needs a larger pot. If edges and tips of leaves turn brown, the soil is being allowed to get too dry or the air lacks humidity. However, if these are not culpable, fungus may be to blame — destroy the infected foliage and spray with a fungicide.

"There are many more handy tips which you can get from your nearest nursery — and it is fun to learn. Regardless of the number, size or type of plants you choose, you are joining a new-found pastime that is definitely here to stay," Sullivan concludes.

Building sold

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates reports the sale of the one story building containing 24,000 square feet located at 100 Kelly St., Elk Grove Village to Overhead Door Company, who exercised their option to purchase the property.

Donald W. Schaumberger of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates was sole broker in the $333,000 sale transaction. Curtis, Marks, Katz, Walker & Blatt represented the seller.

Classes offered

The Continental Cooking School, 1144 S. Elmhurst Rd., Countryside Court, Mt. Prospect, has begun its second full semester since opening in February. The school has added many new courses to its program.

Continental's two week courses will include baking, hors d'oeuvres, salads, a special seafood course, and an introductory sample course. Six week courses available are: intermediate gourmet methods, advanced gourmet cooking, introduction to classic cooking, and cake decorating.

Master Chef Eugene Kretz, winner of countless gourmet awards both in the U.S. and Europe and head chef and meal planner for President Ford's recent Palmer House banquet, will conduct the classes.

Those interested in more information or wishing to register should visit the school or call 593-3020.

Leasing reported

Bennett & Kahnweiler reports the leasing of a 6,000 square foot building located at 51 Joey Drive in Elk Grove Village to Thomas and Betts Company. The new tenant will use their newly acquired facility to accommodate additional warehousing requirements.

Vernon F. Schultz of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates was the sole broker in the lease transaction. Thomas and Betts was represented by house counsel. The attorney for the lessor was John Morreale of John F. Morreale, Limited.

With the symbols of civilization rising behind them, cross country runners from Palatine and Fremd take flight at Union Oil in Schaumburg.

Prospect, Conant runners collide at Knight layout

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross Country Editor

Those sounds coming from the cross country camps at Prospect and Conant early this season were unmistakable.

They were sad tunes. The dirge droned dully for the Knights and Cougars.

Conant coach Jack Ary thought he would have a real powerhouse outfit this year — until a top sophomore moved away, a key junior got hurt, and his best harrier developed an ailment that put him on the sidelines for the duration of the season.

Things were equally dismal for Prospect coach Joe Wanner. His best sophomore moved out, too. An injury to his No. 1 junior before the campaign started forced undue pressure on a couple of untested sophs.

Still, Wanner's squad has been able to put together a decent record. Led by senior standout Bill Hrbek, the Knights have compiled a 4-0 log in the Mid-Suburban South and eagerly await next Tuesday's confrontation with Hoffman Estates, also 4-0.

First, though, they must face Conant today at Prospect. And Ary's Cougars are not the same decimated squad of three or four weeks ago. Junior Dan Cummings and sophomore Bill Baird give Conant a strong nucleus at the front. Injured junior Jeff Krautwurst is back and healthy, though the long layoff has affected his sharpness.

Conant's record is 1-3 in Mid-Suburban League meets.

"I think Conant will be tough," said Wanner. "I'm sure they'll be tough after seeing how they beat McHenry."

The Cougars tamed McHenry, 23-32, Tuesday as freshman Ben Applebeck joined the varsity for the first time and scored an impressive fifth-place finish in a three-team meet. Where Applebeck runs — varsity or soph — could make a difference against Prospect.

"Applebeck has really been running tough," said Ary, who can't wait to use him in districts Oct. 18. Until then, though, the Cougar freshman will probably run at the lower level.

Pat White, the injured Prospect junior, will return to the races today, but Wanner won't count on him yet. His two other top juniors, Matt Lawson and Jack Pittman, and the key sophomores, Mark Smith and Dave Hayes, have picked up the load.

"Hayes has been coming along real good," Wanner said of his key fifth man. "He's running as good as Pittman three weeks ago. And Pittman has improved as much as Hrbek."

Hrbek may be the most improved runner in the league, especially in light of his third-place effort at the Addison Trail Invite last Saturday where he was just nine seconds behind winner Darryl Robinson of Forest View.

"I'm not going to look ahead to Hoffman," said Wanner, "but you really can't help it. On the other hand, if we can't beat Conant, we can't beat Hoffman, either."

In other meets today, Arlington (2-2) is at Buffalo Grove (1-3), Schaumburg (1-3) is at Forest View (2-2), Fremd (4-0) is at Wheeling (1-3), Hershey (2-2) is at Palatine (3-1), Elk Grove (0-5) is at Hoffman, and, in a nonconference tilt, Rolling Meadows will host Cary-Grove.

Robinson's personal string of 11 meet victories was snapped Tuesday when Mundelein's Dan Skarda beat him in a dual meet at Lakewood Forest Preserve. The Forest View junior was outkicked in the last 200 yards.

CLOSE FINISH. Palatine's Tony Vargas reaches the chute just ahead of Dean Elleman of Fremd in recent cross country struggle between the two powerhouses at Union Oil. It was Elleman's performance in passing two Palatine harriers over the last 100 yards that gave Fremd a 27-28 win. Vargas placed fifth over-all and Elleman was sixth in crucial meet. ## Streakers...football style...in prep ranks

Advance sale of tickets for Bison-Huskie game

Advance sale of tickets for Saturday's Mid-Suburban League game between Hershey and Buffalo Grove is being held at both schools.

Tickets will be available through Friday for the showdown on the Buffalo Grove field. Gates will open at 11:30 a.m. Saturday with the preliminary game set for 12 noon.

Tickets are 75 cents for students with identification and $1.25 for adults.

Saturday's North Division features between the Bison and Huskies will be broadcast over WWMM-FM (92.7) starting at 2 p.m. with Bob Frisk and Bob Houghton at the microphones.

All breed dog show on Sunday

Skokie Valley Kennel Club is holding its 36th annual all breed dog show on Sunday, Oct. 12, at Arlington Park Race Track. In the convention and exhibition hall. Show hours will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Heading the entry for the individual breeds are the Irish Setters with 106, Great Danes, 81, Afghan Hounds, 81, Doberman Pinschers, 80, Siberian Huskies, 57, Alaskan Malamutes, 52, etc.

Admission is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12.

Long winning streaks, especially in high school sports, are something special.

When it comes to football, Prospect holds this area's record. Between 1969 and 1981, the Knights rolled up 18 straight.

Elk Grove, the state's mythical champion in 1972, just missed equaling Prospect's total between 1971-73 with 17.

But both fine streaks pale by comparison to the Illinois state record — 64 wins by Pittsfield (1966-73).

Now another southern Illinois school is methodically moving into contention. The Decatur St. Teresa Bulldogs will be seeking their 40th straight victory this weekend.

St. Teresa captured the Class 2A state title last year and currently ranks No. 1 among 3A, 2A and 1A teams. Coach Ed Boehm (who took over the streak from Dick Munn in 1974) has seen his team outscore five opponents so far this season 190 to 19, including wins over Class 4A and 3A teams.

"It's more important to me to win the conference and then go on to the state," said Boehm, who likes the streak but wants to keep it in proper perspective.

Streaks are great but there's more glory to have a shot at the state championship. Being the Big Okaw Valley Conference champ guarantees such a berth. Besides, long winning streaks are probably a thing of the past because the state tourney will bring together super teams that don't normally meet.

"I'll tell you what's great about the streak — when you're on top, people really become involved in a winning program," said Boehm. "It brings kids to the school."

Unfortunately, such victory strings

Paul Logan

Associate Sports Editor

can also make enemies. They label the parochial coach as a recruiter.

"I've heard that so much I'm completely sick and tired of it. Would you go out and give a scholarship to a 13-year-old kid? You never know how a kid's going to develop."

Still, it's quite an advantage to be the only Catholic high school in a city of 85,000. Boehm admitted there were quite a few Protestant players in this co-ed school of 600.

Later this season, St. Theresa will play Monticello. Fred Erickson is the head coach there. Several years ago he had a hand in Pittsfield's successful string, having held the assistant's job most of the way and guiding one perfect season himself.

Erickson said that Coach Don "Deek" Pollard (who stayed at Pittsfield until he had broken the Marengo state record of 63 straight) had several reasons for success. Pollard used weight training techniques before most of the other small schools and he worked his teams harder.

Pittsfield (located about 20 miles east of the Mississippi River about halfway between Quincy and St.

Louis) also "made some enemies along the way," according to Erickson.

"The Midwest Conference disbanded after our fourth year of success," he recalled. "It got a little harder after that. We only had the streak left to keep us going (as an independent)."

It appears at least one school — Arcola — is leaving St. Teresa's conference next year. Arcola's been outscored 205 to 0 over the last four years!

Erickson admits its tough competing with this Decatur powerhouse, especially since Monticello's population is only 3,219.

Besides having to go against fine athletes and a great tradition, Erickson and his fellow Okaw Valley coaches are up against another obstacle — an English teacher.

"We do have a nun down here that goes to the chapel to pray everytime we have a ball game," said St. Teresa's coach of the school's secret weapon — Sister Marie. "As I hear it, she heads for the chapel when the game begins and stays there until the game's over."

Last year St. Teresa had two close calls. The Bulldogs won 29-20 although Tolono outgained them in total offense. And in the playoffs, they trailed for the first time ever at halftime, 3-0, against Gillespie before winning 20-3. Maybe Sister Marie was the difference.

They'll meet Tolono this weekend with the winner probably advancing to the playoffs.

The streak doesn't bother Boehm yet because "right now we're so far away from the record. That's quite a few more ball games (25 to be exact) to win."

Another perfect season and St. Teresa will have 49 in a row. At that point, this 25-year-old coach will have to start thinking more about it. Erickson remembers the tensesness at Pittsfield:

"The pressure was building up each year that we won. Each year he (Pollard) thought we should work harder."

Pittsfield's streak ended in September of 1973. The week after recording its 46th shutout, Pittsfield was blanked (12-0) by Winchester, a team that had provided seven losses over the years.

Jefferson City (Mo.) High School finally lost after winning 71 straight (1958-66) — a national mark.

So did Bedford County (Tenn.) Training School's National unbeaten string of 82 (1943-50), including four ties.

Despite Sister Marie's efforts, St. Teresa's record will end, too. But it will be fun to see just how long it will continue.

Sports World Black Hawks tie in NHL opener

Rick Middleton, the Rangers' leading exhibition scorer, banged in a rebound on a power play midway through the third period Wednesday night to give the New York Rangers a 2-2 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks in the 50th National Hockey League season opener for both clubs in New York.

Middleton, who scored eight goals in the Rangers' 10 exhibition games, knocked in the rebound of Rod Gilbert's shot 25 seconds after he was held by John Marks to create New York's man advantage.

World Hockey Association referee Bobby Sheehan's breakaway goal at 5:30 of the final period had given the Hawks a temporary 2-1 advantage.

Taking a pass from Phil Russell at mid-ice, Sheehan, who played for Edmonton last season, skated in alone on the left side and deked Ranger goaltender Eddie Giacomin and slipped the puck into the lower right corner.

Although the Rangers kept the pressure on thereafter, outshooting the Hawks 16-9 in the period, Ivan Boldirev put in a Dick Redmond rebound at 18:44 on a power play.

Reds are made Series favorites

Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook Wednesday installed the National League Champion Cincinnati Reds as 5-6 favorites to win Saturday's opening game of the 1975 World Series against the American League champion Boston Red Sox.

The Racebook also made the Reds 2-3 favorites to win the best-of-seven Series, even though the first two games will be played in Boston's Fenway Park with its "Monster" greenwall fence in left field.

The Reds arrived home in Wednesday's pre-dawn hours and were greeted by an exuberant crowd, estimated at between 5,000 and 7,000, who already had been partying for several hours.

The Reds' plane from Pittsburgh landed at Greater Cincinnati Airport about 3 a.m. and the players and many of their wives were taken by bus to downtown Fountain Square, where the mostly youthful crowd had been impatiently waiting for four hours.

Although police generally tried not to interfere with the noisy celebration, there were 20 arrests on charges including disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and assaults on police officers.

Many of the Reds' players were introduced to the crowd and, in a series of brief comments over a public address system, the tired players acknowledged it was "great" to have beaten the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League playoffs.

The Reds were given the rest of Wednesday off. The team will work out at Riverfront Stadium Thursday and fly to Boston Friday. Fountain Square had been designated the official "welcoming home" spot for celebrants in order to avoid a mob scene at the airport.

The crowd, at its largest when the ballplayers showed up, began wandering away shortly after the player introductions ended at 4 a.m.

They left behind a mess of cans, bottles and paper to be cleaned up later Wednesday.

Street cleaners may have been rooting for the Pirates.

JOHNNY BENCH exhorts Cincinnati fans — more than 5,000 of them — who greeted National League champion Reds on arrival back home Wednesday.

Tiant will open for Red Sox

In coffee shops and on the subways, the Red Sox were almost the only topic of conversation Wednesday — overshadowing Boston's school integration problems and the state's budgetary mess.

The Red Sox announced that Luis Tiant, ace of the mound staff, would open the 1975 World Series at 1 p.m. Boston time Saturday against the Cincinnati Reds. Tiant, 33-14 for the year, scored an opening game victory over the Oakland A's in the American League playoffs last week.

The boisterous fans who haunt Fenway Park forgot busing and budget problems Wednesday and swarmed to the airport for a huge pre-dawn welcome for their team as enthusiasts began building for the Red Sox' first World Series triumph since Babe Ruth belted pinch them to victory over the Chicago Cubs, 4 games to 2, in 1918.

But the team members were subdued when they arrived at Logan International Airport to the cheers of 3,000 fans, some of whom had waited there all night.

Wary from the night game, celebrating, and cross-country flight, the players quickly filed out of the plane and left for their respective homes.

"Everyone's home sleeping," a Red Sox spokesman said. "They're all in bed."

But, their fans weren't. Lining up to buy the remaining few bleacher seats for the World Series.

Milo Hamilton headed here?

Milo Hamilton, the voice of the Braves ever since they came to Atlanta 10 years ago, was cut Wednesday from the team's broadcast roster.

Braves President Daniel Donahue praised Hamilton's ability as a play-by-play announcer but said "the Braves are trying to change their image both on and off the field."

Hamilton was helping broadcast Chicago White Sox games before the Braves signed him in 1966 when they moved to Atlanta from Milwaukee.

Hamilton, who insisted "the Braves never told me what to say," stirred up several controversies over his decade of broadcasting in Atlanta. He got into a feud with Hank Aaron at one point by questioning whether Aaron was playing as hard as he could.

A more recent controversy involved a Hamilton attack on Atlanta fans for not turning out in bigger numbers at Braves baseball games.

According to one report, Hamilton had planned to take a job in St. Louis as an announcer for the Cardinals, for whom he has also worked in the past. However, an opening there went instead to Bob Starr, and Hamilton suddenly finds himself without a job.

Of course, there is an opening here in Chicago with the White Sox — that is, if Harry Caray isn't rehired by new owner Bill Veeck.

Hamilton, a former disc jockey for radio station WIND, has made no comment concerning the White Sox or Caray.

Randhurst Arena names director of figure skating

Simpson will head Randhurst's professional skating staff and direct the arena's extensive skating instruction program.

A member of the Professional Skater's Guild of America for the past 18 years and certified a Master Professional by the PSQA, Simpson has operated and administered summer figure skating schools annually since 1961.

He was most recently director of the Winnetka Ice Arena Figure Skating School, which is sponsored by the Skokie Valley Figure Skating Club. Over the years, students studying under his direction have won seven gold medals, the highest award granted by the United States Figure Skating Association.

Simpson was also formerly assistant winter sports director at Grossinger Resort Hotel in New York, before becoming skating director for the Brown County Area in Wisconsin. In the latter position, he organized, structured and taught classes for the City of Madison, Milwaukee County Parks Commission, Wilson Park Ice Arena, the Brown County Arena and other rinks.

In announcing Simpson's appointment as director of figure skating, Dunn remarked, "His diversified experience and outstanding professional achievements should be of great benefit to all our figure skating students."

Simpson and his wife Rainee presently live in Prospect Heights with their two children, Jason, 2½ years old, and Justin, 9 months.

Palatine sets registration for youth hockey season

Registration for the upcoming Palatine Amateur Hockey Association season, which is co-sponsored by the Palatine Park District, is being accepted

Monday through Saturday at park district offices, 282 E. Palatine Rd.

Youngsters may sign up from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. daily, except on Saturdays when offices are open from 9 a.m. until noon.

Normal tuition is $55 for residents, excepting those in the miles program who will be charged $30. The second boy from each family will be assessed $5 less.

Non-Palatine Park District residents may also join, but at a slightly higher cost of $60. The program is designed for boys from seven to 16 year old.

Tuition pays for 25 hours of ice time, a jersey and insurance, dental included.

Practice sessions will begin next week. Persons with additional questions should visit the park district office or call them at 359-0333.

Writers honor two amateurs on golf scene

Desiree Alley of Waukegan and Jay Haas of Belleville have been selected as Illinois Amateur Golfers of the Year by the Chicago chapter of the Golf Writers Assn. of America.

Alley was surprise winner of the Illinois Women's Amateur and a prominent competitor in Chicago area junior events. Haas, winner of the first writers' award a year ago, repeated off his victory in the NCAA tournament, his runner-up finish for the second straight year in the Illinois Men's Amateur and his repeat low amateur status in the U.S. Open.

Others receiving votes in the women's balloting were Char McLearn of Barrington and Lois Drafke of La Grange. Kathy Sharpenter of Evanston was winner of the award in 1974.

Barrington's Gary Hallberg, Chicago's Lance Ten Broeck and Northbrook's Phil Kenny received support in the men's voting.

Hawk harriers tip Wright JC

Harper's cross country team came up with a narrow 26-33 victory over Wright Junior College Wednesday afternoon at their Palatine Hills course, throwing the NAC dual-meet standings into a jumble.

The Hawks won their third dual meet against just one loss, handing Wright its first loss in the process. Harper, Wright, and Triton each have one loss in NAC duels, although an earlier Wright victory over Triton may be in jeopardy because of a possible ineligible runner.

In Wednesday's meet, Harper's Rich Reithal and Wright's Henry Amazaga staged a dramatic battle before Amazaga finally gaining the upper hand in the last half-mile. The Wright harrier covered slightly less than five miles in 25:31.

Reithal (25:42) paced the Hawks with his second-place finish. Following him into the chute were Harper's Steve Erickson (25:59) in third and teammate Bob Borucki (26:15) in fifth.

Other Hawks were John Messinger in seventh place, Dennis Fagan in ninth, Dave Adler in 10th, and Mike Hommowun in 11th.

PACKERS 27, CARDINALS 6

The hard hitting Packers struck early behind signal caller Mike Matella and the blitzing defense of Vic Cito and Ang Tiel. The Pack scored on a 12-yard punt. Cito's 6-yd. plunge and a beautiful pass reception by Byron Alberts. Matella kicked for the extra point. The Pack's defense of Dan Black, Dan O'Connor, Joe Iacino and Steve Prochell provided a Job Fisher interception and sack. The Cardinals TD scored by Brett Stanley was set up by a 70-yd. punt return by Mark Fasenacht. Jesse McCormick, Steve Avers and Paul Weisenstein played well at defense.

The Colts QB Scott Frazier directed the team to four TD's in the first half as Mike Schmidt scampered around end with Mike Kots adding the extra point. Frazier threw two TD passes to Tony Conlin and took one in himself. The final score was a pass from Jeff Kozol to Jeff Zender. The offensive line played great with outstanding blocking from John Lesiak, Kevin Jackle, Lee Jurka, Bruce Shaffer and Phil Schulz. The Colt defense was led by John O'Brien, Joe Johnson, Dave Cusiale and Mark Bulaw.

GIANTS 6, BEARS 0

Joe Napolitano's 65-yard run sparked the Giants to a win over the Bears. Jeff Miller recovered a fumble and ran well as the "white" offensive unit just missed scoring as time ran out. Napolitano, Phil Trapp, Tom Wojcikiewicz, Tom Holland, Tim Quirk, Steve Flickinger and Steve Krasnowski anchored the usual tough defense. The Bears played inspired football. The Bears had a TD called back on a third down sweep for the winning score. The Colt defense was scored upon for the first time this season. An excellent game effort was turned in by halfback Ken Galt who scored the Colts third quarter TD. Robert Anderson making a sensational of a Tom Maloney pass was tackled by the Colts yard line setting up the score. In this hard fought defensive battle, Dave Beida, Bill Anderson and Ken Vanisiel. The Bears took another loss, although they did a fine job of moving the ball. Greg Fuchs did an outstanding job of running, supported by Ken Laurien and Mike Shrader. The tackle by Brad Arnski added by Tom Ray and Norman Collier got the Bears on the board with a safety.

STEELERS 33, COWBOYS 10

Steeler blocking led by Doug Falcone, Jim Cowan, Steve Brown, Jim Blandell, Tim Schroeder, Pete Parsler, Brian McLeod and Jeff Blak allowed Bob Nielsen and John Payne to run for three TD's and Ed Wallace to throw a fourth quarter TD pass. Jim Lonsowski, Ricky Lake, Brian Hopkins and Todd Lowry all picked up good yardage. The Cowboys blocking of Ron Henneman, Kirk Block, Frank Gorman and Bob Galloway along with the running to Tom Gray helped Steve Hudnich and Tom Heavens in his paydirt. Jeff Frazier recovered a fumble in the end zone to add another Cowboy score.

FALCONS 19, RAMS 3

The Falcons rebounded after two straight losses and showed their offensive power. Jim Frenk scampered 55 yards for the score while Ken Palsley and Scott Burton added with 10 and 7 yards. The extra point was scored by Palsley. The Falcon defense stiffened and shot the Bears with some blocking and tackling, especially Tim Carlin, Jim Hunyady, John Purgalski and Ken Vanisiel. The Rams took another loss, although they did a fine job of moving the ball. Greg Fuchs did an outstanding job of running, supported by Ken Laurien and Mike Shrader. The tackle by Brad Arnski added by Tom Ray and Norman Collier got the Rams on the board with a safety.

EAGLES 23, REDSKINS 0

Eagle halfback Blanton danced through the Redskins defense on a 51 yd. TD run, as the team coasted to its fifth win. Doug Wolf blasted on two TD's of 8 and 10 yards while Pat Ruane with bruising power scored on a 5-yard sweep. The extra point was by Brad Kay. It was the outstanding defensive play of Ed Carlin and Bob Grasse. Joe O'Brien, Ed Carlin and Mark Zielinski, with fumble recoveries by Dan Kilroy and Rick Saccons that gave the offense good field position. The Redskins did not submit a game report.

JETS 13, VIKINGS 0

Homecoming went well for the Jets in a determined win over the Vikings. Chad Sprinkman and Mike Haterpe scored the TD's and Ken Zielinski popped in the extra point. The Jet defense of Frawitt, Keleisen, Franzen, Laufenberg, Illib and Maher were sparkling. The Vikings did not submit a game report.

BROWNS 24, 49'ers 0

The Browns scored their first victory of the season and it was a superb one. Behind the offensive blocking of John Bentall, Scott Wexler and Jim Ville, the team rolled up impressive yardage as the TD's were scored by Pat Ruane (14 yards), Todd Matthews (15 yards), Bob Brownman (17-yard pass) and Tim Barrett with two QB sneaks. The defense was led by Dave Stewart, Dave Baily and tough Tim Phillips who scored a safety.

SPARTANS 14, BOLLMARKERS 0

In a battle for the top spot in the National League the Spartans with a diversified attack beat the Bollmarkers. TD plunges by Bert Knut and Mark Pedovich clinched the Spartan drives. A safety by Dan Dekoster put the game out of reach. Tough defensive play by Kevin Evans, Keith Boren, Jim Skopa and Ken Mathias held the Bollers scoreless. Bollmarkers Dan Gorney, Craig Michaelson, John Rafferty, John Verette, Jerry Buchanan, James Ed Bason played tough offense, while Dan Golec, Jim Arredia, Joe Burdall rushed for good yardage.

TIGERS 6, DUCKEYES 0

The Tigers chalked up their first win when Tony DeLuca blasted off tacks for a 31 yd. TD. Dan Manganis, Rick Ziel, Joe Orando, Mike Muehlbauer, Scott Skippie, Steve Jurazek and Kurt Palsley were good on defense. John Leon made the defensive play of the game in stopping the late Duckeye drive. The Duckeye offense looked good and gained sizable yardage but could not score. Dave Joslock, Bill Anderson and Mike O'Brien were hard runners. Mike Baron completed three passes for 25 yards. Line blocking was excellent by Dave Wehner, Mark Guzman and Phil Bonk.

WOLFKENES 23, BEUVINS 0

The Wolves played a superb game on offense and defense to remain in a first place tie. Outstanding blocking led the way to TD runs by Jim Wilcox, Mike Olandese, Craig Moburg and Kevin Jim Polok. Wilcox, Moburg and Bill Steinmetz scored extra points. Fullback Mike Seren had big gains as the offense drove through the Bruins. Pass receiving by Al Frazier and the running of Gary Gelfand were the only offense the Bruins could generate. Defensive standouts were Coryl, Friedman, John Walsh, Mike Davidson and Nino DiSilio.

ILLINI 8, HAWKEYES 0

The tough Illini defense set up both scores when Chris Boyd batted off tackle for the TD after the Illini recovered a fumble on the kickoff. Bob Mathias blocked a punt and made a tackle in the end zone to notch a safety. Richard Schute, Randy Strandquist, Steve Trachsel and Matt Boye were standouts on defense. Early mistakes cost the Hawkeyes. Terry Platt, Ken Petersen, Dan Keeler recovered fumbles. A fumble recovery by Ed Carlin was turned into a 55-yd. TD run. Tony Beres led the defensive unit in tackles with assistance from Mike Dolan, Greg Weaver, Brett Fichle and Tim Sedepoulos.

BADGERS 12, GOPHERS 0

The Badger defense led by the powerful running of Steve Barker, Marty Doyle, Kevin McInnes and Todd Pedro, had 100-plus yards rushing and a 12 point lead at the half. Steve Barker's first TD was set up when the defensive giant Tom McNeely stole the ball from the Gopher quarterback, and rammed 15 yards. Barker's second TD came when he bulldozed through the Gopher secondary. Todd Pedro added the extra point. McNeely and John Graham led the defensive charge with a safety. Defensive stars were Bob Pelikan, Dave Grant, Joe Peabody and the duo of Andy Boba and Scott Pedro. Although Gopher defense led by Bob McInnes, Mickey Traque, Kevin Neal and Scott Huska sparked the team, but it was not enough in spite of Pat Givoni's fumble recovery and Gary Krawchuk's running.

HOOBIES 18, WILDCATS 0

The Hoobies scored twice on the Wildcat defense. Fullback Mike Kellner had a fantastic day when he scored on two accepts and added a third with a pass interception. QB Rich Behnke showed good ball handling as he directed the team to victory. The second offensive back field of Steve Gorman, Brad Davis and Brian Grady made several good gains. With fine Wildcat pass blocking Jules Charpentier was able to complete 10 passes one of them for 25 yds. to Mark Variano. Mike Niederich, Dan Molten and Brian Allergren played a good offensive game. Bob Wolf, Dan Critton, Tom Gergin, Steve Karsa, Dave Larson and Andy Axelrod all were defensive standouts.

Buffalo Grove

Both the Bills Lightweight and pee wee teams remained unbeaten thru five league contests and have commanding holds on first place in their respective divisions of play.

This weekend the Light and heavy teams travel north to Graylake High School. Kick-off is set for 12:45 p.m. — Lightweights and 2:00 p.m. for the Heavies.

BILSON 20, FLAMES 6

The pee wee Bilsons notched their third win of the season and moved into second place. The Bilsons shut out the North Chicago Flames 20-0 at Stevenson High School. Halfback John Sykuta scored first from 18 yards away. Then in the second quarter back Kevin Luthringhausen went in from the eight giving the Bilsons a 12-0 lead. Back Joe Molloy set up the third Bilson TD in the third quarter on a 45-yard run to the Flames three. QB Brett Hardt went in for the score. The defensive play of Steve McShane, Bill Buehler and Mike Sykuta held the Flames to just two first downs and a total of 22 yards rushing.

AMERICAN 6, SQUIRRES 6

The Buffalo Grove Americans Wildcat team battled to a 6-6 standoff with the Schaumburg Squirrels at Schaumburg. QB Kevin Burke scored the lone American TD on an 18-yard keeper late in the fourth quarter. The defense, played by Kevin Mark Kirby and Mike Quinlan limited the Squirres to just 41 yards rushing. But a 10-yard pass played in the game set up the Squirres only TD.

PEE WEE BILLS 60, COLTS 0

Halfback Bobby Solis, playing his finest game of the year and winning the player of the game award, scored a pair of TDs as did QB Mark Loeffler in leading the Bills to a 60-0 rout of the Graylake Colts. Solis scored two TDs in the first half, but Loeffler ran one TD for 18 yards and the other for six. Mike Emerson went over from the 10 yard line for the third Bills TD. Just before halftime, back Steve Hancock scored from the 18. In the second half, back Jim Galkowski scored from the 16 and fullback Jim Burnett ran 24 yards for the Bills' ninth TD. On defense the Bills held the Colts to minus 21 yards rushing and back Joel Fish scored the Bills' initial TD on the third play of the game.

BILLS LIGHTWEIGHTS 21, TROJANS 6

Halfback Dean Nelson scored a pair of TDs on runs of 11 and 17 yards in leading the Bills to a 21-6 win over the Cary Grove Trojans. Back Mario Kroll scored on a 10-yard reverse in the first quarter as part of the Bills 19 first half points. And QB Kevin Burke overcame the risk of a 20-yard pass on the final TD drive of the day. Center and middle defensive guard Kevin Gurley played his finest game of the season leading the defensive "ring of fire" with 14 tackles. Dan Triplett and Jeff Liljeborg were standouts on the defense that held the Trojans to just one first down and 16 yards total offense.

BILLS HEAVIES 14, TROJANS 6

In an exciting come-from-behind win, the Bills Heavies remained just two games behind league-leading North Chicago on an impressive 14-6 win over the Cary Grove Trojans. Defensive back Don Thorp intercepted three Trojan passes and one of them back 18 yards from the first Bills' TD. Then it was Thorp who caught the go-ahead extra point from QB Kevin Burke. Fullback Amie Richter scored from the four yard line with five minutes remaining to put the game out of reach. The Bills defense started slowly, but in the second half when they caught fire, they held the Trojans in two first downs and 18 yards rushing. The running and defensive play of Randy Labrman kept the Trojans in the hole throughout most of the contest. End Joe Furmanski caught three passes for 47 yards and Iaco Hove Golden were outstanding defensively.

Arlington High to host girls swimming district

Arlington High School has been chosen to host one of 10 district meets later this month in the IHSA's first state swim championship series for girls.

Six of eight Mid-Suburban Conference schools will participate in the Saturday, Oct. 25, District meet at Olympic Pool.

In addition to the host Cardinals, other MSC schools present will include Forest View, Horsey, Elk Grove, Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Other local schools will be Sacred Heart, Maine West, Palatine, Fremd and Conant. Dundee, York, Proviso West and West Leyden complete the field.

MSC members Buffalo Grove and Wheeling are being sent to the Highland Park District meet, also on Saturday, Oct. 26.

Qualifiers from district meets at Arlington, Highland Park, DeKalb, Kaneo Eastridge, Lincoln, Downers Grove North, New Trier West, Rock Island, Oak Forest and Quincy will funnel into the Oct. 31-Nov. 1 state championship meet at New Trier East.

Twenty-seven states conducted sanctioned girls swimming championships last year. Illinois was not among that group.

Many IHSA schools participated in a special invitational hosted by Glenbrook South, Maine South, New Trier East and the host GBS Titans were top finishers in team scoring.

State records will be officially established at the New Trier East hosted finals. Fastest clockings from last fall's statewide invitational are shown below. Current national records are listed in parentheses:

200 Medley Relay — 2:02.932 (1:51.183); 200 Freestyle — 2:06.090 (1:50.25); 200 Individual Medley — 2:16.848 (2:06.91); 50 Freestyle — 25.994 (24.096); 100 Butterfly — 1:02.643 (57.67); 100 Freestyle — 57.190 (52.2).

500 Freestyle — 5:21.178 (5:01.23); 100 Backstroke — 1:05.581 (59.46); 100 Breaststroke — 1:13.454 (1:07.582); 400 Freestyle Relay — 3:58.673 (3:33.7). The best state diving mark was a 338.20 last year. No national record is listed.

Experts speak out

Kind of day care is the question

by ELEANOR RIVES

Experts in the field of child development differ in their views of the advantages or dangers of day care for preschool children.

But two factors are obvious to all of them. One is the enormous increase in the number of working mothers in America. The other is their insistent demand for day care for their preschool children.

Mitzi Andalman, child development coordinator at Harper Community College, points out that, historically, day care has always become important during periods of social disorganization — depressions, war periods, whenever society seems to be on shaky grounds.

"THE GROWING interest in day care simply reflects the changes taking place in our society," she said.

Edward F. Zigler, former director of the office of Child Development, U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, says that women work for two reasons: because of financial necessity, and as an avenue of self-actualization.

"Most everyone will agree that every working mother's child has a right to a day care environment conducive to his optimal growth," he states. "And every working mother has a right to the peace of mind that such an environment for her child provides."

SAYS DR. SEYMOUR Metrick, head of pediatrics at Lutheran General Hospital: "As a pediatrician, I have mixed feelings about the increasing numbers of preschool children being cared for in day care centers. In these times, many mothers must work of necessity. It is unfair if we don't make it convenient for them to do so."

Of the woman who works simply because she wants to, or because she is well educated and qualified in a particular field, he says, "Should we take away her right to pursue what she can do very well? We might even be handicapping her as a good mother. Maybe day care is better than exposing a child to a mother who feels trapped and miserable and may take out her bitterness and frustration on the child in subtle ways."

THE IDEAL situation for a child, according to Dr. Metrick, is to have a mother who enjoys the homemaker role, loves to be home with her child, provides peers for him from age 3 on, and gives him educational stimulation.

"But this seldom happens," he says.

He cautions that parents must be extremely careful in deciding with whom they are going to leave their child. "Pet owners go to more trouble finding the best veterinarian than parents in finding the best sitters," he said. He suggests that large community hospitals take the responsibility of providing quality day care centers — registered, inspected regularly and run by professional people.

TRAINING PEOPLE to work specifically with young children is a fairly new educational trend, one of the most important careers in the field of child development, according to Harper's Ms. Andalman. It is gaining impetus at colleges and universities across the country. As it produces more highly qualified persons in what is becoming a recognized profession, it will also increase the prestige and salary level of day care personnel.

She, too, points out the importance of being highly selective when choosing a day care setting, and would hope, except in emergency situations, that the child would not be under three years of age.

Finding proper infant care, should this be necessary, demands extreme caution, and Ms. Andalman prefers an institutional setting where more than one adult is involved rather than a home sitter.

"A BABY can't tell you how he has been treated," she said. "In some cases, infants have been neglected, even brutalized, by incompetent sitters. In one extreme instance, a neighbor discovered an irate sitter angrily submerging a 6-month-old baby in ice water to punish him."

Dr. Dennis Lambert, psychiatrist and director of clinical services for children at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, feels that a child below the age of 3 needs a protective, maternal, giving type of person on a one-to-one basis and would hope that something could be worked out with a relative or live-in babysitter.

"Among child psychiatrists, three months to one year is considered crucial in the mothering experience of a child," he explained. "Separation from a mothering figure during that time can have detrimental effects on the basic trust relationships the child will have as an adult."

HE SUGGESTS that children under two years old may have negative psychological effects from even partial separation from their mothers. "In a day care center, children under 2 go through a major separation problem every day," he said.

From 2½ to 5, however, the child has an intellectual awakening and curiosity that should be stimulated and fostered. If a mother's time is limited, a day care center might provide the exploratory, creative kind of preschool education the child needs.

By the time he reaches four years old, the child needs experience interacting with children his own age. If playmates are not available, Dr. Lambert strongly advises nursery school placement at this time, avoiding custodial type centers and seeking centers that provide many avenues of exploratory, interrelating types of learning.

DONA FOWLER, administrator of the Elk Grove Township Community Day Care Center, goes a step further and suggests that parents demand, not just seek, quality day care and accept nothing less.

"We provide support for the child and family not only from the center but from the complete community. Should the child have an emotional problem, we refer the parent to the proper agency. If a parent is having divorce problems, we contact a social worker for help, support and knowledge."

The center has classes on how to be an effective single parent, on healthful nutrition. It offers advice in job training and placement, helping mothers to get off welfare and maintain their dignity. It includes men in its personnel to provide father images for the children.

"PARENTS ARE not aware that they should request these services of a day care center, that this is quality care," said Ms. Fowler. "It is the duty of the center, by providing such quality care, to relieve the mother of the horrendous guilt feelings of having to be separated from her children."

Day care is here to stay. The question, then, is the kind of care. Most experts would agree it should be the highest quality possible.

The real measure of today's day care won't be fully known until today's day care children are adults.

Mitzi Andalman: A response to a changing society.

Dr. Seymour Metrick: His feelings are mixed.

Choosing a center: pick what's right for the child

by KAREN THOMPSON

The majority of educators today agree that the first six years are the most vital in a child's development.

Parents must play the major role in that development, but to help a child mature to the fullest level of potential, participation with other children in an organized program can be of immense value. Day care is one form. Sylvia Cotton, president of the Day Care Crisis Council of Chicago, describes day care this way: "Day care, by good definition, is an extension of a child's home needs. It also provides an alternative for the working mother."

WHEN PARENTS (or parent) find they require day care for their child, how do they select a center? The type chosen depends upon several factors: personality and abilities of the individual child, wishes and needs of the parents, kind of teaching personnel available, expertise of the administrative staff and basic philosophy of the individual center.

Centers vary just as do the children they serve.

"Parents must trust their own judgment," advises Rosa Foster, supervisor of the Group Day Care Licensing Division of the Department of Children and Family Services. "They have the right to look over many centers, and should, before choosing the one that is best for their child."

MARILYN OLSON, administrator of the Early Learning Centers, agrees. "It is important to stress that parents visit many schools before choosing. It makes a great deal of difference as each center has its own philosophy."

"Psychologically, it's very hard for a child to leave mother," Mrs. Olson said. "She has been the center of his life and there are strong physical and emotional attachments. Children must learn to trust their teachers as they do their mothers and for that reason there must be a consistency."

Day care experts agree that the ideas of the center should be consistent with the child's home life. If parents are rather strict at home, they should seek a center that has a more rigid schedule.

ACCORDING TO Rose Foster, "You get a certain feeling when you walk into a center — that the children are comfortable and happy or not. You can tell a lot about a center by the emotional climate or tone."

Morning is the best time to visit a child care center, if you can't spend the entire day. Follow your child through the day and try to put yourself in his place.

Look at the children's faces. Are they absorbed in play? Are they talking, moving about, learning from each other?

Children need space for running about freely, for active play. They also need space where quiet play can go on undisturbed, both indoors and out.

A good school or center provides appropriate and sufficient equipment and play materials — large apparatus to foster physical and motor development and imaginative play. Picture books, clay, paints and crayons stimulate the child's initiative and self-expression. Drums, tamborines and bells provide musical experiences.

Instead of being shown or told what to make, children should be encouraged to use materials creatively. For this reason, coloring books, workbooks and dittoed sheets are frowned upon as they stifle the imagination.

Observe the teachers. Do they talk to the children as though they are someone important? Are there enough teachers both to build the group and to take care of individual needs? Do they give help and guidance to a child when stopping undesirable behavior?

Diane Lawrence, director of the Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, explains that center's approach to discipline. "Our rules are very simple and the children all know them. The ability to make good decisions will be necessary all through life. We teach the children to take responsibility for their actions but never to feel guilty about them."

There should be a smooth transition between activities. "The one thing children do least well is wait," said Mrs. Foster. "Children don't have to line up to go to the bathroom or get a drink. A program can't be so structured that every child is doing the same things at the same time. They must have alternatives."

The same is true for supervision, she said. "There is a big difference between snooping and supervision. A good teacher can be thoroughly aware of what's going on in the room without breathing down the little ones' necks."

Notice the daily routines. What meals and snacks will your child be served each day? Will he be comfortable at nap time?

"A comfortable atmosphere and lots of choices are two marks of a good center," according to Rose Foster. "You can program children, but that's not the path toward good learning. Children need regularity but without over-stressed routines and rigid programming."

Consider your part in the center's operation. Children are closely linked to their mothers and fathers. Parents needs must be met also. Many centers have parents groups that meet to discuss problems and ways to solve them.

"There must be a two-way street of communication between center staff and the child's family," said Mrs. Ol-

Former co-workers marry

Two years ago Herbert Betts Jr. introduced his sister, Suzanne, to a co-worker at the Woodfield Marshall Field's store, and this year Suzanne and her former working partner, Todd Alan Javor, were married.

Suzanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Betts, Arlington Heights, and Todd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Javor, Barrington.

The 4 p.m. ceremony was held Aug. 24 at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights.

Suzanne's sister, Deborah, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Marsha Morrow, Palatine; Lydia Moore, Wheeling; Caren Betts, her sister-in-law from Palatine; Jeanie McCarthy, Park Forest; Alyce Heck, Schaumburg; and Melody Larsen, her cousin from Northbrook.

The bride's 5-year-old cousins, Becky MacPhail, Elgin, and Jeffery Wollgram, Mount Prospect, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

THE GROOM CHOSE his brother, Tim, as best man, and as groomsmen were William Mohr, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Suzanne's brothers, Herbert Jr. and Thomas; Marty Javor, Todd's brother; Robert McCarthy, Park Forest, and D. Roy Carlo, Round Lake.

A formal dinner reception for 250 guests followed at Casa Royale in Des Plaines. Among the guests was the bride's great-uncle, Malsie Fraser, who came from Glasgow, Scotland, for the wedding.

Suzanne is a '73 graduate of Prospect High School and worked at Allstate Insurance Corp. in Northbrook before her marriage.

Todd, '73 graduate of Barrington High, is completing his education at Embury Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, where he and Suzanne are now living.

Bridal pair in Sycamore

Melanie Dale Sowka of Palatine is making her home in Sycamore, Ill., as the bride of John Michael Diedrich. They met at the University of Illinois, where Melanie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sowka, graduated this year and John last year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Diedrich, he is associated with Diedrich Sycamore Farms. Melanie is self-employed as a jeweler.

They were married Sept. 6 at noon in St. Philip Episcopal Church, Palatine, then toasted at a buffet luncheon for 100 at The Barn of Barrington.

MELANIE DESIGNED and made the gold rings she and John exchanged during the service. She wore a gown her mother made of off-white cotton gauze and lace and complemented it with baby's breath in her hair. She carried a bouquet of apricot rosebuds and baby's breath.

Her attendants were all her sisters-in-law. Amelia Louise Kent of Marshall, Wis., was matron of honor; Rebecca Jo Sowka, Elgin, Jean Diedrich, Atlanta, Ga., and Susan Diedrich, Sycamore, were bridesmaids. All were gowned in apricot with beige floral trim and carried tall mums, apricot rosebuds and baby's breath.

Three of John's brothers were in the wedding party. Steven as best man and Dave and Joseph as ushers, along with Clifford Sowka, Elgin, Randall Kent, Marshall, and Michael DeFrank, Skokie.

The newlyweds spent 18 days on a camping trip out West before settling in Sycamore.

Melanie is a '71 graduate of Fremd High School.

Not all bargains at redemption center

The day you take your green stamps in to the redemption center is not the day to forget about comparison shopping. Careful selection of redemption merchandise can save you money.

Three years ago The Herald published a two-part report on S&H green stamps in which we noted that the merchandise in stamp redemption centers was priced no higher, based on $3 per book, than in retail stores.

Today, however, the picture seems to have changed. Many of the items in S&H's 1975 Idenbook are priced significantly higher than what the same items cost in various stores.

FOR EXAMPLE, a Hoover upright vacuum cleaner will set you back 27½ books, or $82.50. At Goldblatt's, the same vacuum is priced at $89.95, and is frequently on sale there and elsewhere for still less.

A Sunbeam 12-speed mixer is priced at 22½ books, or over $66. At Polk Brothers this appliance costs $32.95. Eve Wieboldt's which gives S&H stamps, sells Sunbeam mixers under the S&H catalogue value.

A Rival Crockpot is listed for 9½ books, or more than $27. At Goldblatt's, it sells for $18.99. Proctor-Silex's two-slice toaster sells for $11.09 at Treasure, but goes for 6½ books, or $19.50 at S&H.

Campers can get a Coleman two-burner stove for $24.99 at Sears, or $19.99 at Korvette's. At the S&H center, it goes for 11½ books, over $33. (Even a larger model stove sells for less — $27.99 — at Korvette's). The Coleman one-mantle lantern is set at 10 books, or $30 at S&H. You can buy it at Sears for $16.99, and you can get a two-mantle lantern at Korvette's for $19.99.

THE S&H book offers several Kodak "Hawkeye" cameras. According to a salesperson at Skrudland's Camera, in Palatine, this is a strictly promotional line made by Kodak for bank giveaways and the like. It is not sold retail. But a comparable Instamatic sells for $14.65 — while the "Hawkeye" Instamatic at S&H will cost you 7 books, or $21.

by Monica Wilch Perin

Even though you're paying no cash for stamp redemption merchandise, the foregoing are poor deals, since you can get a full $3 value per book on other items. And you might as well get full value, since you had to spend $120 for each book of stamps you saved.

If you redeem your books for cash — an option the federal government required S&H to offer — you get $2. But even at that rate, you could cash in your books, buy some of the foregoing items in retail stores, and still have money left over.

According to S&H public affairs director, Chet Stevens, the values assigned to redemption merchandise are based on average retail prices. "Inflation has affected us all," he said.

Alexian Brothers volunteers honored

The gift of time given by more than 200 adult volunteers at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, was recognized at a recent awards luncheon in the hospital cafeteria.

Beatrice La Vezzi, Itasca, received a pin to mark 3,000 hours of volunteer service. She is the second volunteer to reach 3,000 hours. Receiving 2,500 hour service awards were Gloria Daugherty, Elk Grove Village, and Virginia Ledl, Roselle. Pauline Stichter, Addison, was honored for 2,000 hours' service. Accumulating 1,500 hours were Mildred Meckling, Itasca, and Jean Wilson, Schaumburg.

In addition, eight volunteers received pins for 1,000 hours, 14 for 500 hours, 20 for 250 hours and 39 for 100 hours.

Among those earning awards were three men, relative newcomers to the Volunteer force. Frank Augustine, Bensenville, and Walter Menard, Elk Grove Village, received pins for 250 hours, and Leslie Tenbrink, Rolling Meadows, was given a 100 hour award.

Adult volunteers have contributed a total of 225,000 hours to the hospital.

Series to examine 'singles' lifestyles

"Communities For Living," a four-part series on the evolution and lifestyles of the contemporary "apartment complex" will be co-sponsored by MONACEP and Forest Hospital Foundation, Des Plaines.

On Oct. 14 and Nov. 11, the series will focus on "The Young Single Scene," beginning at 8 p.m. in the recreation center at Fairway Trace Apartment Complex, 9700 Sumac Dr., Des Plaines.

Jeanne and Biff Doolittle, faculty members at Oakton Community College, will introduce the approach of transactional analysis as a method of viewing social interaction at Tuesday's session. The November program will be led by social therapists from Forest Hospital demonstrating ways of exploring the young single life.

A season ticket for the four programs is $7, single admission is $2. All fees are half for senior citizens. Information 627-8311 ext. 362.

Des Plaines LWV salutes 9 members

During October the Des Plaines League of Women Voters salutes nine members who have contributed 43 years of volunteer service to Des Plaines through LWV. They are Sue Burns, Evelyn Cooksey, Mary Cullen, Joan DiLeonardi, Gittel Hunt, Elaine Johnson, Mary Kinser, Kathy Luckritz and Janet Wright.

Their interests include land use, women's issues, local government, human resources, publications, presidential powers, housing and observing governmental board meetings. Some also attend school, work or are involved in professional associations and other groups.

African violet growers say no water on leaves

Dear Dorothy: My African violets aren't doing well. Do you suppose it would help if I started misting them?—Susan Hillbert

It's the one thing successful growers of African violets say not to do. They say water should never get on the leaves. The recommended care is (a) a good fertilizer for leaf growth, (b) another to spur blossoms, (c) the proper kind of indirect lighting and (d) a long-neck watering can so the leaves are kept dry.

Dear Dorothy: From time to time I read in your helpful column about people who have problems with cat-accident odors. A friend's cat was in our home some months ago and had an accident at the head of my bed. Even after thorough cleaning and sprinkling with cat-box litter, the smell remained. In desperation, I dumped a pound box of baking soda on the spot and let it stay for a week. After the area was vacuumed there was no odor and it hasn't returned. —Mrs. James Pullman

Dear Dorothy: I need a hook and eye to hold a panel in place on my dress. I think it will be less noticeable to use a thread catch. Can an amateur do this?—Marjane Webster

No problem. Attach a thread securely at the proper spot and go back over it with either a blanket or button-hole stitch, giving it the body it needs. Be sure to attach the thread well on both sides.

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Edith Walter served some wonderful shrimp and shared her method happily. She uses a proportion of one can of beer to each pound of shrimp, using a large pan so the beer can't foam over. It is cooked two and a half minutes, then taken out to cool. Yummy.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes hints and questions. If a personal reply is required, write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Two college math students add up to Sept. 6 marriage

A college math class added up to romance and marriage for Robin Aline Fogarty, daughter of the Thomas J. Fogarty, Rolling Meadows, and Bruce D. Obendorf, son of the Kenneth Obendorfs, Polo, Ill.

The ceremony took place September 6 at 4:30 p.m. in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights.

For her wedding Robin chose an ivory organza and lace gown and made her own veil of lace and ivory illusion. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses, carnations and baby's breath.

HER SISTER, Diane, was maid of honor and wore an apricot gown and bolero jacket trimmed in ivory lace. Her flowers were apricot and ivory daisies with ivory baby's breath.

Robin's cousin, Deborah Callahan, Mount Prospect, and her sisters, Rebecca and Allison, were bridesmaids. They wore the same style dresses as the maid of honor's in yellow and carried bouquets of yellow and ivory daisies and baby's breath.

Five-year-old Susan Obendorf, the groom's sister, was flower girl. She wore an apricot gown and bolero trimmed in ivory lace.

DANIEL KAVANAUGH, Polo, was

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Obendorf best man. Also serving the groom were his uncle, David Isley, Lombard; John Douth, Polo; and his brother, Steven.

A reception for 250 guests followed at the Arlington Heights Elks Club. The couple then left for a honeymoon in Florida.

Robin is a graduate of Forest View High School and Western Illinois University in Macomb. Bruce is also a graduate of Western Illinois and is an accountant in Morris, Ill., where he and Robin are living.

Drying roadside weeds

Drying flowers is really preserving memories of places you've been, of fun-times you've had, of special moments shared with a special person.

Drying plants can be as easy as plucking beach grass, wheat or Indian corn from a harvested field, or it can involve the trouble of using a drying agent to retain delicate colors and shapes.

The possibilities for dried material arrangements are endless — in addition to flowers, grasses, and weeds, consider interesting seed pods, colorful berries (like highbush cranberry), nuts and crooked, artistic branches.

SOME OF THE easiest material for arranging in floor pots include tall shrubby branches and such favorites as staghorn sumac (don't confuse it with poison sumac — the red fruiting bodies of staghorn fruit on terminal branches, poison sumac on lateral branches), witchhazel, hydrangea, yarrow, teasel, cow parsnip and milkweed, among others, which require no special drying technique because they air-dry naturally.

(If you use milkweed, be sure to remove the seeds inside the pods, to avoid a shower of white, frothy floss "feathers" in your living room some dry, late autumn day. Caution on using cattails too. In picking cattails from the wild, be sure to give the tails a dousing with hair spray to avoid shattering as they dry out.)

Ferns, lacy and lovely, should be pressed between newspaper pages under weights for two to three weeks to avoid curling.

ANNUALS AND perennial flowers such as marigolds, daisies, roses, delphiniums, zinnias, calendulas and bachelor's buttons can only be used if preserved by burying in a drying agent that removes the natural moisture but retains the color. Silica gel, sold in nurseries and garden centers under the trade name of Flower Dri, is most often used, but it is expensive. Consider borax powder if you're on a budget.

Cut off the stems, leaving only one inch of stem attached to the flower. Use only blooms in peak condition. Put a piece of florist's wire into the heart of the flower, hairpin fashion to serve as a strong, artificial stem. Next plunge the flowers into two inches of drying agent that has been spread in a large, deep cardboard box. Remember to insert saucer-shaped blooms face-down and fluffy flowers face-up.

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

FINISH BY coating in and around the flowers and petals with more silica gel or household borax, putting enough powder on top of the flowers to keep out air. Flowers are ready when crisp; overdried, they fall apart. So include an accessible test flower in the box that you can check every three or four days.

Oak leaves, nice fillers in all fall table arrangements and centerpieces, as well as trailing ivy, holly, magnolia, galax leaves, can be preserved by giving them a glycerin (from the drugstore) and water treatment. Single leaves are submerged in a 50-50 mix of glycerin and water. Tree foliage (ferns, too) can get a two to three-week drink of two parts glycerin to one part water. Split and crush woody branch ends before immersing in about five inches of the glycerin-water mixture.

Some creative readers may be interested in making baskets from autumn weeds, using such ordinary materials as Queen Anne's lace, iris leaves, ivy, clematis or wisteria stems. I call your attention to the September issue of Organic Gardening magazine, which covers that subject.

Honeymoon in Jamaica

After a honeymoon in Jamaica Ralph L. Rinesmith and his bride, the former Karen L. Johnson, are residing in Elk Grove Village. Son of the R. Rinesmiths, Elk Grove, Ralph and Karen, daughter of the Vincent Johnsons, Villa Park, were married Aug. 30 in Queen of the Rosary Church, Elk Grove.

The 5:30 p.m. double ring service was followed by a reception for 140 at Plentywood Farm, Bensenville.

Karen chose her sister, Kathleen, as maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Lynn, and Barbara Himes, Villa Park, as bridesmaids. John Micek, Jacksonville, Fla., was best man, and ushers were Robert Kellerman, Rolling Meadows, and the groom's cousin, Kevin Koons, of New Jersey.

A '74 graduate of the College of DuPage, Karen is employed in Elk Grove by Barwick Carpet Distributors. Ralph, a '73 graduate of Western Illinois University, is data process manager of Wedron Silica, Park Ridge.

Elmer Redkers wed 50 years

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Redker of Hoffman Estates celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary of Sept. 19 at a dinner party the next day, a Saturday, at Villa Olivia Country Club. Forty friends and relatives from the Midwest and as far as Arizona and California attended.

Elmer and his wife, Emma, have lived in Hoffman Estates for 17 years and have their three children and eight grandchildren all living nearby in the village.

Edward is their son. Their daughters are Irene (Mrs. Richard Umbach) and Helen (Mrs. Alex Johnson).

THE ANNIVERSARY pair were married in Chicago where they lived until moving to Hoffman Estates. After retiring from Bell & Howell in Lincolnwood several years ago, Elmer volunteered his services to the village of Hoffman and was immediately put to work. He held various positions, culminating in the office of treasurer from 1970 to '73.

Philoptochos lunch Tuesday

The Women's Philoptochos Society of St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church, 2350 Dempster St., Des Plaines, will have its "Pledges 'n Promises" luncheon in the Social Center Tuesday beginning with a fellowship hour at 11:30 a.m.

Proceeds go toward the Society's pledge of $10,000 for a mosaic of the Platerina (Icon of the Virgin Mary) which artist Sirio Tonelli will design for the church. The entire iconography will cost $350,000.

Mrs. Dan Pastorello, Arlington Heights, is chairman of the luncheon. Among committee members are Mrs. Andy Adams of Palatine, Mrs. George Bolger of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Chris Lordola, Des Plaines.

Tickets at $3.50 can be reserved by calling the church office, 827-5510 or 827-5519.

Prospect Juniors seek used books

Used books are needed by Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club for its sale at Randhurst Nov. 7-9.

The Juniors have been holding used book sales to benefit the Mount Prospect Public Library for the past several years. Proceeds from previous sales have purchased an 8 mm sound projector, art prints and books for the visually handicapped.

Donations for the sale may be dropped off at the Mount Prospect Library.

IT'S POPCORN

Wise old Benjamin Franklin had a lot to say in his day about the importance of frugality. Certainly in those early days popcorn (or parched corn, as the colonists called it) made an economical and nutritious treat. And the same idea holds true today.

No matter how you serve this whole cereal grain — as plain as Pennsylvania Prudence would have offered or as fancy as our first ambassador to Paris (Ben Franklin) might have been inspired to prepare — popcorn costs only pennies per generous serving.

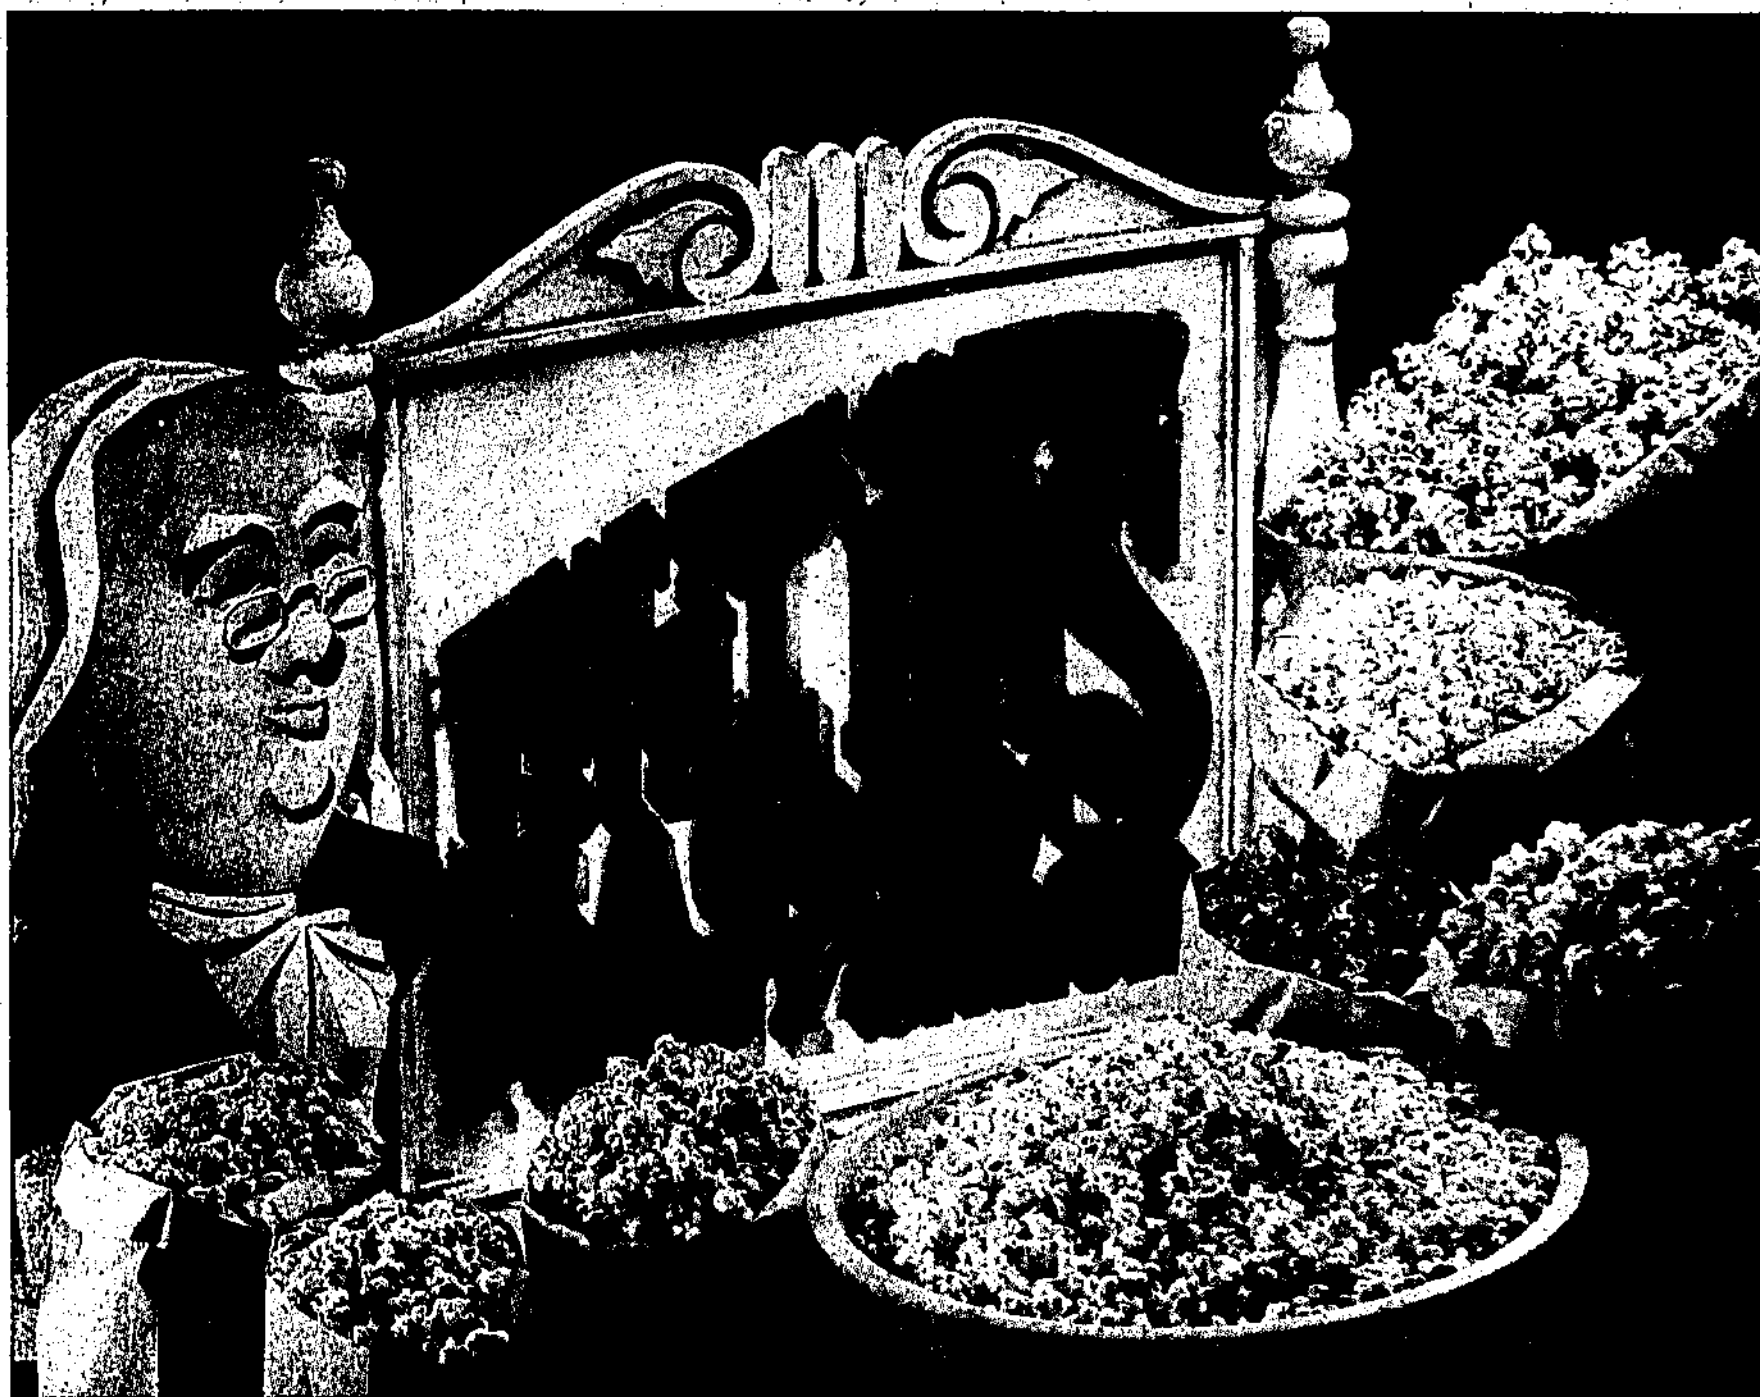

Costs per one cup serving range from about four cents for the pink Colonies' Choice Popcorn to about 20 cents for the Shoofly Snack. And "just plain popcorn" will cost about a penny a two-cup serving.

So that all these popcorn treats will taste their very best whenever they are served, it's important to know the secret of perfect popping.

With an electric popper, follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. If you have lost or misplaced them, however, ½ cup of popcorn added to 3 tablespoons of popping oil is about right for 3-quart poppers; for 4-quart poppers, use ¼ cup oil and ¾ cup popcorn kernels. Put the oil into the popper first; then add the kernels. To make sure all kernels are in contact with the oil, give the popper a little shake before you start popping. Pop in cooking oil, or a specially-designated popcorn oil. Do not pop in butter because it will smoke or burn at the high temperatures necessary for good popping.

For top of the range popping, in a heavy saucepan or skillet, first warm the pan. Then pour in ¼ cup oil. Try a few kernels in it. When they "spin", you are ready to pop; so pour in enough kernels to cover the bottom of the pan. Cover and shake gently over the heat and let 'em pop!

NOTE: 1 ounce of unpopped popcorn kernels (2 tablespoons household measure) makes approximately 1 quart of popped corn.

COLONIES' CHOICE POPCORN

- 3 quarts popped popcorn
- ¼ cup melted butter
- ½ cup strawberry-flavored drink powder
- 2 tablespoons malt powder*

Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over popcorn; toss. Combine strawberry drink powder and malt powder; sprinkle over buttered popcorn and toss well to coat evenly. Makes 3 quarts.

* One-half cup chocolate-flavored malt powder may be substituted for the combined strawberry drink powder and malt powder.

DELEGATES' POP-POURRI

- 1 can (2 ounces) flat anchovies
- ¼ cup butter
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- ½ teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning
- 3 quarts popped popcorn
- ½ quart small crisp nibbles (croutons, canned fried onion rings, cereals, etc.)
- 2 tablespoons grated Romano cheese

Drain anchovy oil into a small saucepan. Chop one half of anchovies* very fine (reserve remainder for use in salads if desired). Add chopped anchovies to saucepan with butter, garlic powder and pepper. Heat over low heat to melt butter. Combine popcorn and crisp nibbles. Pour anchovy/butter mixture slowly over combined crisp snacks, tossing to mix. Sprinkle with cheese and toss again. Makes approximately 3 ½ quarts.

* To prepare Delegates' Pop-Pourri for a large crowd, use ALL anchovies and oil from one 2-oz. can and double the other ingredients including popcorn and crisp nibbles.

MINUTEMAN'S MIX

- 3 quarts popped popcorn
- ¼ cup melted butter
- 1 package dry salad dressing or dip mix*
- Salt as needed

Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over it and toss. Add dry mix and toss well. Add salt if desired, and toss again. Makes 3 quarts.

AMBASSADOR'S MUNCH

- 2 ½ quarts popped popcorn
- ½ cup shredded coconut, toasted
- 1 can (12 ounces) orange carbonated beverage
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup light corn syrup

Combine popcorn and shredded coconut. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a 2-quart saucepan, combine orange beverage, butter, sugar and syrup. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring until sugar dissolves. Boil mixture until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer). Place warm popcorn/coconut mixture in a large bowl. Slowly pour orange glaze over popcorn, stirring until well coated. Spread in a 15 ½ x 10 ½ x 1-inch buttered jelly roll pan to cool. Break into pieces to serve. Makes 2 ½ quarts.

COUNTRY KITCHEN POPCORN

- 3 quarts popped popcorn
- ¼ cup butter
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup water
- 2 cups cut-up spearmint leaf candies
- Green food color

Keep popped popcorn warm in a 250 degree oven. In a 2-quart saucepan, combine butter, sugar, syrup, water and cut-up spearmint candy. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Continue to boil mixture, stirring occasionally, until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer). Note that the spearmint candy will not melt completely. Add 1 or 2 drops of green food color, if desired. Place popcorn in large bowl. Slowly pour green syrup mixture over popcorn, stirring until evenly coated. Turn out onto a lightly-buttered 15 ½ x 10 ½ x 1-inch jelly roll pan to cool. When completely cool break into pieces. Makes 3 quarts.

SHOOFLY SNACK

- 2 ½ quarts popped popcorn
- 1 cup nuts (peanuts, walnuts, or pecans)
- ½ cup butter
- 1 cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
- ¼ cup dark molasses
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon water

Combine popcorn and nuts. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a 2-quart saucepan, melt butter. Stir in brown sugar, molasses, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and water. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Boil mixture to hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer). Place popcorn/nut mixture in large bowl. Slowly pour molasses glaze over popcorn and nuts, stirring to coat. Spread in a buttered jelly roll pan, 15 ½ x 10 ½ x 1-inch, and return to a 250-degree oven for 20 minutes, stirring once after about 10 minutes. Cool. Break into pieces. Makes 2 ½ quarts.

COBBLESTONE CRISP

- 2 ½ quarts popped popcorn
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup candied cherries, cut up OR mixed candied fruit

Prepare a lightly buttered bowl to use for mixing confection. Keep popped popcorn warm in a 250 degree oven while making glaze as follows. In a 2-quart saucepan, melt butter, coating sides of pan. Add corn syrup, sugar and salt. Cook over medium heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Continue boiling, stirring occasionally, until mixture reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on candy thermometer). Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Put warm popcorn in buttered bowl. Mix immediately with candied fruit. Pour hot syrup slowly over popcorn and fruit, tossing to coat. Turn out onto a buttered jelly roll pan, 15 ½ x 10 ½ x 1-inch. When completely cool break into pieces. Makes about 3 quarts.

Gourmet features steak, apple crisp

Old-fashioned smothered steak takes on different taste ingredients in this recipe and since beef round continues to be economical at the meat counter, try this flavorful cut.

To serve 4 you'll need 1 to 1½ pounds of round, cut about ¼-inch thick. Divide into serving pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper and lightly with flour. Pound both sides to break down sinews.

Put enough shortening or bacon drippings into a large skillet to coat well. When skillet is hot brown steak pieces on both sides and remove to a platter and keep warm.

Slice about 6 large mushrooms (or half a green pepper cut into thin slices) into the skillet and sauté gently about 5 minutes. Return meat to skillet and cover with a mixture of 1 can cream of mushroom soup and 1 cup milk. When this is heated through add 1 ounce dry red wine, cover and put into a 350 oven for about 40 minutes, or until beef is fork tender.

For a delightful dessert try this apple crisp. We made it with some Stayman winesap apples, undoubtedly one of the finest of tart apples for cooking.

Peel, core and slice thinly 2½ cups of apples. Grease a 10 x 6 x 2 baking

Herald food price survey

Beef is expected to be plentiful through October, when seasonal highs normally occur. According to the food marketing alert of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, beef output is an anticipated 10 per cent greater than the 1972-74 average for this month.

Supplies of whole chicken fryers are only adequate, as indicated by the USDA, but in a Monday price survey of five area chain markets, prices showed slight decreases from last month, with a range of 48 to 75 cents per pound.

Apples, a record crop this year, are beginning to drop in price in some stores, making for some exceptionally good buys. In Jewel, Delicious apples retailed for 29 cents a pound compared with 35 cents a pound in October 1974.

Cranberries are also moving into the market with a near record crop reported by the USDA.

At Jewel pork continued to climb in price for the second consecutive month, up 10 cents a pound from September and 40 cents from August. Other red meats increased this month also.

Meat prices at National held from last month with some cuts showing minor decreases. Eggs finally declined 10 cents after climbing for several weeks, but Folger's coffee jumped almost 25 cents from the September survey.

At Butera pork and beef both showed higher prices than last month, but overall dairy prices went down a few cents. Eggs were only 69 cents a dozen compared to September readings of 80 cents.

Chicken was only 48 cents a pound at A&P, 21 cents lower than last month and lowest of the stores surveyed Monday. Other meat prices showed marked decreases also. However, eggs were up five cents from September and other dairy prices also increased. Acorn squash was a good buy at 15 cents a pound and apples dropped more than 30 cents a pound from September's survey.

In general, prices for all store departments held steady or dropped from last month at Treasure Island. Eggs were down 20 cents and retailed at 59 cents a dozen, lowest of the five stores surveyed.

dish and arrange the apple slices in it. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice.

Mix ½ cup brown sugar, packed, with ½ cup fine graham cracker crumbs (or ½ cup all-purpose flour), ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, and ¼ cup soft butter or margarine. Work until mixture is crumbly. Spread this over the apples.

Bake in pre-heated 375 oven for 25 to 30 minutes, until apples are tender. It's best served warm with cream, but may be cooled and topped with vanilla ice cream.

Oily decrease

High retail prices for salad and cooking oils have led to a decrease in usage of four per cent. The federal government expects this figure to increase to six per cent or more by the end of the year, according to the Cornell University Consumer Education program.

Consumers often can save money by buying larger bottles of oil or trading down from olive oil, the most expensive, to corn, soy or mixed vegetable oils. Peanut and safflower oil are cheaper than olive oil, but more expensive than corn, soy and mixtures.

HEY, OATMEAL EATERS, HAVEN'T YOU HEARD ALL THE TALK ABOUT MAYPO?

It was the big nutrition story here last winter: Maypo, the only oatmeal fortified with 7 vitamins and iron. Food editors were writing about it. People were talking about it. Maypo was disappearing from the shelves. Now it's your chance. Grab a box of Maypo, the oatmeal with the good taste of maple, and see why so many more mouths are saying: I want my Maypo!

Flavor abounds in spicy roast

by LOIS SEILER

Perfect for the nippy fall and winter months ahead is Spicy Pork Roast, a specialty of Gail Langdon, Hoffman Estates.

Gail prefers a rolled pork roast because it is easy to slice, although a pork loin will do nicely. It is rubbed with the complementary flavors of coriander and garlic, and then coated with a spicy glaze during the last half hour of roasting.

Her husband, Bob, and children, Marie, 5, Mary, 8, Barry, 10, Chuck, 12, Dawn, 13, and Bob, 15, enjoy the sweet-sour glaze so much that Gail doubles the recipe, serving it in a little pitcher for everyone to help themselves.

As accompaniments she recommends a tossed green salad and Italian Rice. Like many cooks, Gail finds rice much more convenient to serve than potatoes and more appealing in flavor. Peas and mushrooms add interest to her recipe, while onion, garlic, chicken broth and vermouth contribute to its savory taste. A generous topping of Parmesan cheese gives extra zest. Moist and tender, this rice dish is also excellent to serve with roast beef.

Because pies are her husband's favorite dessert, Gail bakes them at least once every week. For this meal she suggests a Cranberry Apple Pie. The crust recipe is foolproof, and the filling is a harmonious blending of cranberries and either canned or fresh apples. The two fruits remain separate and distinct in the pie, giving a two-color effect. More tart than sweet, this delicious pie is also ideal for a holiday turkey dinner. It may be topped with ice cream, if desired.

A recipe clipper, Gail's file is filled with hundreds of recipes and these rank among her favorites. During the summer months she tends a large garden, growing ample vegetables for her family's needs and freezing and canning the remainder. Hospitality chairman for Plum Grove PTA, Gail also works part time at Zappone's Restaurant.

SPICY PORK ROAST is a favorite of Gail Langdon, Hoffman Estates. Coriander, garlic and a sweet and sour glaze combine for a unique taste.

Stir in vinegar, water and soy sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Brush roast with glaze the last 30 minutes of roasting. Spoon out glaze from pan and serve in a little pitcher. (Glaze recipe may be doubled.) Serves 6 to 8.

ITALIAN RICE WITH PEAS AND MUSHROOMS

1½ cups regular rice
1 medium onion, finely-chopped
1 small clove garlic, mashed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound fresh mushrooms, coarsely chopped
¾ cups chicken broth
¾ cup dry vermouth
1 package frozen peas, cooked and drained, or 1 8-ounce can peas, drained
Grated Parmesan cheese
Lightly brown rice, onion and garlic in butter. Stir in salt, pepper and mushrooms. Add broth and vermouth and cook to boiling. Cover, reduce heat and simmer about 30 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir in peas, heat through, turn into serving dish and top generously with Parmesan cheese. Serves 8 to 10.

CRANBERRY APPLE PIE

1 to 1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon grated orange peel
2 cups cranberries
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons water
3 cups (about 1 pound) thinly-sliced pared apples or 2 cans pie apples, drained
In saucepan, mix sugar, tapioca, cinnamon and peel. Add cranberries, honey and water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and cranberries begin to burst. Remove from heat; add apples and cool while making the following pastry:

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup vegetable shortening (Crisco)
¾ cup cold water
Combine flour and salt. Cut in Crisco with pastry blender until mixture is in coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with cold water, toss with fork. Press pastry into a ball.
On lightly-floured board, roll out half the pastry. Place in a 9 or 10-inch pie plate. Trim ½-inch beyond edge. Add filling and roll out other half of dough and make a lattice crust for top.
Bake at 400 degrees about 45 minutes or until crust is brown. Serves 8. Top with ice cream, if desired.

A squirt of lemon

When a recipe or a drink requires just a drop or two of lemon juice, use a toothpick to poke a hole in a softened lemon, and squirt the juice from the hole. Soften the lemon first by rolling it on a hard surface to break the inside juice sacs. Replug the hole with the pick and refrigerate for future use.

Not all lost on fad diet is fat

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB
(Fifth of six parts)

Nothing demonstrates the public's preoccupation with being overweight so much as the recurrent enthusiasm for reducing diets and other weight-reducing fads. A high proportion of the population in industrialized nations has good reason to be preoccupied with obesity, since it is often a major health hazard.

The public gullibility for weight-loss gimmicks indicates the recurrent desire to get something for nothing. This is the basic reason for the astonishing popularity of diet programs, such as Dr. Atkins' "Diet Revolution," which promises to give you the capacity to "stay thin forever" while eating as much as you want, or its remarkably similar predecessor, "Calories Don't Count." The latter led its author, Dr. Herman Taller, into legal difficulties.

It's true you can lose weight on many of these diet fads, but weight loss alone is not necessarily desirable. If weight loss alone were the only goal, you could solve that problem with an advanced case of tuberculosis, disseminated cancer, or uncontrolled diabetes. Your doctor understands very well how to induce weight loss. The problem is to induce weight loss while preserving the health of the individual.

THE LOW carbohydrate, high protein diets are nothing new. They have been recycled with various modifications for years. Perhaps the first of these was the Banting diet used by William Banting in 1863. The diet was prescribed for him by Dr. William Harvey, and it had a startling effect in reducing his corpulent frame.

Almost all of these diets work because they really decrease the calorie intake. It may be true, as Dr. Atkins claims that you can eat all you want and stay slim forever, but the gimmick is you won't want to eat very much. Chemical changes result in loss of appetite. The usual hunger-type response you're prone to experience if you're not eating enough isn't there. The nausea and accompanying complaints that some have may well be related to liver dysfunction. After all, high fat diets, and that's what you're on if you're depending on a lot of the fat stores from the body to provide calories, lead to fatty deposits in the liver. This has a lot to do with how the alcoholic develops liver disease.

If you don't stay on these diets you usually tend to gain the weight right back. Particularly during the weight gain, there may be an increase in fatty particles and cholesterol in the bloodstream. This contributes, especially in susceptible individuals to the risk of atherosclerosis and heart disease. Even Atkins admits, in reference to his own diet, "I concede that the worst feature about this diet is the rapidity with which you gain if you abandon it."

IN ADDITION to the problems related to undernutrition, some other

gimmicks indicates the recurrent desire

hazards can be incurred by the low-carbohydrate diets. Many of these so-called low-carbohydrate, high-protein diets are really high-fat diets. Dr. Atkins compounds this problem by advocating the use of large amounts of eggs and high-cholesterol foods. Such a diet is thought by many serious scientists to be a significant factor in increasing the likelihood of atherosclerosis. In one experiment subjects on an all-meat diet developed visible fat within the blood itself, and their cholesterol rose to levels as high as 800. The metabolic machinery must process the fat in your food plus the fat from your body stores. The combined results mean an enormous portion of your calories comes from fat.

If one is to achieve success and "stay thin forever," it will be necessary to stay on these particular diets forever, unless you want to learn something about nutrition and do it the sensible way. Then there is the long-term adverse effect of loss of calcium. The loss of calcium on a long-term basis can lead to softening of the bones. A high percentage of women have a buffalo hump or dowager's hump and increased susceptibility to fractures after the menopause. This is worse on a calcium-deficient diet.

The low-carbohydrate diets and any of the crash diet programs, including fasting, have in common the danger of precipitating an acute attack of gout. This can occur even in a person who is not ordinarily susceptible to gout.

Closely related to some of the diet fads is the concept of administering small amounts of thyroid to individuals who are overweight. It's correct to give thyroid to stimulate the metabolic process in individuals who truly have a low thyroid function. More often than not, individuals who are significantly overweight do not have abnormally low thyroid function. The net result of giving these individuals thyroid is that their normal thyroid function is depressed. The total amount of the thyroid from the pill and that formed by the depressed thyroid gland just about equals the amount of thyroid hormone before anyone interfered with the process.

APETITE-SUPPRESSING pills perhaps have some use under controlled circumstances, at least to motivate the person to start on a diet. Many of them, though, are dangerous, and in general shouldn't be recommended. They often cause nervousness and other problems which are worse than obesity. Some of the most dangerous ones have already been removed from the market. Included in the pill group are laxatives.

Most individuals who feel an urge to lose a few pounds, or even a lot of pounds, are ready victims for the exaggerated claims that are ever-present in our news media. With the age- and weight-conscious nature of our society, the overweight person is a ready target for these devices. Having repeatedly seen the effects and failures of most of these programs on a do-it-yourself basis, the best recommendation I can give is not to begin any significant weight-reduction program that does not have the approval of your physician.

Mexicali Beans for party fare

New England brick oven baked beans help make a quick South-of-the border meal. Mix beans with prepared taco seasoning and fill taco shells. Toppings for everyone's taste include cheddar cheese, tomato, green pepper, black olives and onion. These are filling for a quickie meal rounded off with ice cream or fresh fruit and milk.

MEXICALI BEANS
½ pound ground beef

1¼ or 1-1/8 ounce package taco seasoning mix
1 16-ounce can brick oven baked beans
1 4-ounce package taco shells (10 shells)
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped tomato
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped black olives
½ cup chopped onion

In a large skillet saute crumbled ground beef over high heat, stirring until brown on all sides. Add taco seasoning mix and water as directed on package, stir to mix well.

Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer uncovered 15-20 minutes stirring occasionally until liquid is reduced. Add beans and heat mixture thoroughly.

Fill warmed shells with bean mixture. Serve with remaining ingredients to use as toppings. Makes 10 filled tacos.

October Supply Guide

Based on five-year statistics of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, these are fresh fruits and vegetables moving into or currently in heavy supply in local retail markets.

Apples (record crop)
Brussels sprouts
Cauliflower
Cranberries (record crop)
Eggplant
Grapes
Pears
Pears
Persimmons Pomegranates Pumpkins
Squash
Sweetpotatoes
Tangelos

Fresh produce in heavy supply months generally is lower priced than at another time of year. Therefore, consumers should consider these fruits and vegetables in menu planning.

All American lunch

The "All American Lunch," to be served October 15 during National School Lunch Week, will be eaten by 25 million students. The menu includes a cheeseburger on a bun, Crispy Potatoes, Fiesta Slaw, chilled peaches and milk.

Over 3.128 million pounds of ground beef, 1.564 million pounds of cheese, 937,500 pounds of cabbage and 3,515,625 pounds of french fries will be served.

Sheltered food waste

An estimated 136,500 tons of food-stuffs will soon be rotting in fallout shelters across the country. The food was stored during the fallout shelter craze of the 1950's and 1960's. This food could be used to feed the needy and hungry, if a workable method could be found of gathering the relatively small quantities in 99,000 shelters across the country.

Oonoose Q. Eckwoose promotes

by BERNARD BRENNER

A new children's storybook plugging nutrition is being distributed by the government with labeling indicating it was prepared by the Agriculture Department.

Actually, officials said, all the text and pictures were furnished by General Mills Corp. which will be printing notices on about 40 million cereal boxes during the next few months to promote distribution of the book.

The book itself gives no indication it was not written by government specialists. Its cover bears only the title, "The Thing the Professor Forgot," and the words, "Office of Communications, U.S. Department of Agriculture."

In a press release announcing the publication, however, Agriculture Department officials said it was "developed by the General Mills Corp. with the cooperation of the department."

AN OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS official, Theodore Crane, said the operation included rigid editing by department nutrition experts of one page at the back of the book. The page is addressed to parents to sum up recommendations on building a balanced diet from four basic food groups — meat, milk, fruits and vegetables, and cereals and breads, plus other foods to "round out meals and satisfy appetites."

Also, Crane said, the department is putting up $71,000 to pay for printing 1.25 million copies of the 20-page book which will be distributed free on request from the government's Consumer Information Center, Dept. Q, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

THE BOOK, designed to be read to pre-schoolers and used by children in early grades, is a rhyming tale of a boy, a girl, and Professor Oonoose Q. Eckwoose who has "my degree in Foodology." With children's-style illustrations, the text explains the four food groups and why they're all needed for good health.

Nothing in the text or pictures plugs General Mills by name or identifies any of its branded products, although the section on the cereal-bread food group includes "corn or wheat-flakes" along with "a fresh hotdog bun, and breads of all sorts, and pastries and tortes... and pretzels and cakes" as examples of grain foods.

Officials said publication of the booklet was part of "a continuing effort by the department to provide the public, and especially young people, with more information about food and nutrition." They said similar projects had been developed in cooperation with private industry, government agencies and volunteer groups in an effort to reach the widest possible audience.

CRANE SAID the Professor Eckwoose story was developed after General Mills officials approached the department to indicate an interest in promoting distribution of nutritional information for children. Corporation officials found none of the department's existing material suitable for pre-schoolers and offered to write and illustrate a new publication for government distribution — and agriculture officials accepted the offer, he said.

Crane said the corporation's "creative cost" for the text and pictures was estimated at $20,000.

School lunches: who do they serve?

by GAYNOR MADDOX

School lunch is served. Come and get it.

But a great many who could not take advantage of the free or reduced cost school lunch program. In New York State alone, for example, nearly 3.5 million have access to the National School Lunch Program but two million do not take advantage of it.

Among reasons given for passing up the lunches are that many children, between ages 10 and 12 don't eat so large a lunch as the program serves; that the food is unpalatable; that there is no attention paid to ethnic tastes; that most children prefer to snack rather than to sit down at a table for a meal; that the lunch supervisors act more like police than like human beings.

The United States Food and Nutrition Service is responsible for the program. Tony Robin, a graduate nutritionist with grown children, is a nutrition consultant to the service.

"Why won't those who are so quick to criticize the school lunch program stop to think of the underlying purpose — to get a decent amount of wholesome food into a young child's stomach?" Mrs. Robin says. "We are striving to upgrade the food and the method of serving it. We are constantly trying out new recipes and methods to get some ethnic food to school areas. Our purpose is to get one-third of the food needed daily to a child at minimum cost or free to those who qualify. The privacy of the free lunch children is protected."

"In certain parts of the country, the South and Northwest, for example, we are getting schools to include food and nutrition as basic parts of education and to rank it as a subject right along with reading, writing and arithmetic."

Mrs. Robin warns parents that brown paper bag lunches, to be nutritionally adequate, will cost about as much as the school lunch — currently about 40 to 60 cents.

"We here in the Food and Nutrition Service are trying to educate the children in nutrition. That makes possible a better life ahead for them and their future families. The school lunch is often the only way they can learn different and better eating habits."

The meal plan begins with one-half pint of milk.

Also served are two ounces of lean meat, poultry or fish, cheese, one egg, or one-half cup of cooked dry beans or peas, three-fourths cup serving consisting of two or more vegetables or fruits or both. Full-strength vegetable or fruit juice may be counted to meet not more than one-fourth cup of this requirement.

One slice of whole-grain or enriched bread or a serving of corn bread, biscuits, rolls, muffins, etc., made of whole grain or enriched flour or meal are served, with one teaspoon of butter or fortified margarine. It is obvious a well-rounded menu is available but getting the children to eat it is another major step.

35 empty classrooms

Dist. 63 sees 19% rolls drop by '79

by JUDY JOBBITT

Enrollment in East Maine Dist. 63 is expected to drop 19 per cent by the 1979-80 school year resulting in about 35 empty classrooms, according to projections presented by the administration to the board of education.

The figures, presented Tuesday night, used last year's enrollment figure of 5,930 students as the base for the projection. By 1979-80, the number of students is expected to drop by 19 per cent to 4,796 students.

Most of the students will be lost in elementary schools east of Milwaukee Avenue. Enrollment east of Milwaukee Avenue was 2,518 students last year and is expected to drop 31.8 per cent to 1,717 students by 1979-80. Elementary schools west of Milwaukee Avenue are expected to maintain about the same number of students with 1,836 students last year compared to 1,926 students in the 1978-79 school year.

During the 1977-78 school year, the district expects enrollment west of Milwaukee Avenue to exceed that east of Milwaukee for the first time. That year 1,961 students are expected west of Milwaukee with 1,959 expected east of Milwaukee.

JUNIOR HIGH school enrollment is expected to drop 21.7 per cent by the 1979-80 school year with 1,155 students compared to 1,476 last year.

Supt. G. Allen Gogo said the administration used similar procedures for previous projections. "It has worked in the past. There is no reason we should not assume that these figures will change," he said.

"It is not only a matter of the school district losing many students, but where we are losing them — mostly east of Milwaukee," he said.

The administration also presented figures on available classroom space which will result because of the declining enrollment.

The district projects there will be 35 empty classrooms east of Milwaukee Avenue by the 1979-80 school year. This figure includes the five mobile classrooms used at Wilson School and does not include any special education classrooms.

ELEMENTARY schools west of Milwaukee Avenue will not have any extra rooms by 1979. Ballard School, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles, will have three extra classrooms but two other schools will be short needed classroom space. Nathanson School, Potter and Church streets, Maine Township, will need one more room than will be available, including the use of seven mobiles currently located there. Mark Twain School, 9401 Hamlin Ave., Maine Township, will need two more classrooms that it will have available by 1979.

The district also anticipates it will need 17 classrooms in the elementary schools for special education classes. This year the district is using 14 classrooms for special education.

If the district stops using mobile classrooms and uses 17 classrooms for special education in 1979-80, there will be six extra classrooms in the elementary schools.

THE DISTRICT also expects to have 12 extra classrooms in the junior high schools if 10 rooms are used for special education. Currently the district has three extra classrooms with seven being used for special education in the junior highs.

Gogo said the projections show "minimal available space" because the administration used "conservative" figures for enrollment and classroom needs.

He said the figures "present many interesting challenges and possibilities that must be valued in relation to the district's finances."

A report on the effect of declining enrollment on staffing needs will be presented to the board this fall. The board also will receive administration recommendations by November on alternative actions the district can take in response to the declining enrollment.

Behrel expects employes to accept mediator's pact

by JOE FRANZ

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said he expects city employes to accept the contract proposed by a mediator last week.

The mayor confirmed this week that the city council has agreed to the mediator's recommendations to grant city employes an increase in salary and fringe benefits of 8.5 per cent. The raise would be retroactive to May 1.

Behrel said that while the city has not been notified by the unions representing the employes, several have indicated to him the proposed contract is acceptable to the workers.

"I FRANKLY HAVE little doubt but that the unions are going to approve the recommendations of the arbitrator," Behrel said. "I see no reason why they shouldn't accept it."

The mayor said if the contract is ratified by the employes, it probably will be formally approved by the city council Oct. 20.

Mediation was the latest step in the negotiations between the city and the unions representing police, fire and public works employes.

The city initially offered the employes about a 5 per cent raise, while the three unions asked for increases of 10 per cent or more. In 1974, city employes were given a 9 per cent raise.

RICHARD BROWN, who represents the city's public works employes, said Wednesday the workers will meet Friday to vote on the mediator's recommendations. "I don't think there will be any problem getting it ratified," he said.

Employe representatives from the police and fire departments could not be reached for comment, but reliable sources said the workers probably will agree to the proposed contract package.

Behrel said the city's nonunion employes, consisting primarily of clerical workers, will receive the same increase in salary and fringe benefits as those in the unions.

The city council, Behrel said, voted down a proposal that some nonunion employes be granted lesser increases. Some aldermen think the salaries of some clerical and non-technical employes are becoming too high.

The mayor said, however, city officials plan to review and possibly update the city's salary scales in certain job categories.

"We have some salaries that are somewhat lighter than comparable jobs in industry," Behrel said. "We won't cut the salaries of existing employes, but new employes may be started on a lower scale."

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-6 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $675 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates. Under present law, only those with

Officials see no specific reason

Admissions surge at hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

City tells court Wolf resigned post

The City of Des Plaines has filed a statement in Circuit Court contending that David Wolf resigned last June as deputy chief of the fire department.

The statement was filed this week by City Atty. Charles Hug in response to a lawsuit filed by Wolf last month. Wolf states in the suit he never resigned, and asks the court to reinstate him to his $22,000-a-year post with the fire department.

Hug said the city was required to file a response to the suit so a court date can be set.

THE CONTROVERSY centers on the so-called "resignation letter" of June 8 from Wolf to Fire Chief Donald Corey. The letter was written after the chief told Wolf he had been relieved of duty, pending the filing of misconduct charges. Corey said he planned to ask the city's fire and police commission to discharge Wolf.

In the letter to Corey, Wolf said he would either resign his position as chairman of the city's Bicentennial and Historical Landmark commissions or as deputy chief of the fire department.

In the response to Wolf's lawsuit, the city contends the letter was a resignation from the fire department.

Wolf's suit contends, however, the letter was a "personal and private communication" to Corey and not intended as a letter of resignation.

HE FURTHER CHARGES the letter was written "under duress" and that he withdrew the offer to resign within 24 hours. The city, in its response to the suit, denies Wolf was coerced into writing the letter.

Wolf, an unsuccessful mayoral candidate in 1973, filed the suit after the fire and police commission refused to have a hearing on his request to be reinstated to his position in the fire department.

Besides asking to be reinstated, the suit asks for full back pay and all fringe benefits for the 23-year veteran of the fire department. Wolf was removed from the city payroll July 18.

In its statement to the court, the city not only asks that Wolf's requests be denied, but that he be required to pay all court costs.

IN RECENT MONTHS, Wolf and Corey reportedly have had a number of disagreements, some pertaining to his non-department activities.

In the suit, Wolf states that on several occasions he took time off from the fire department because of civic activities, but only with the permission of Corey. In the response to the suit, however, the city denies Wolf was given time off by Corey for non-department activities.

Delay recognition, janitors urged

by MARILYN McDONALD
Board members in River Trails Dist. 28 have asked custodians to postpone seeking recognition for their newly-organized union and to try to work with the administration on their problems.

After the board met in executive session Tuesday with Frank Verdung, custodian representative, Board Pres. Leora Rosen said, "Mr. Verdung has agreed to discuss alternative routes of discussing their concerns with the administration."

Fourteen of the district's 18 custodians organized the River Trails Custodial and Maintenance Assn., an affiliate of the Illinois Education Assn. teachers' union, last May. Verdung said the group was formed to bargain collectively with the board for salary and fringe benefits. In addition, custodians would like seniority rights in job selection and an increase in holiday time.

VERDUNG SAID the custodians submitted their contract proposal to the board in May. A board committee was appointed to meet with the custodians. Despite repeated attempts by custodians to meet with the board over the summer, a meeting was not held until Sept. 9, Verdung said.

At that time, only Supt. John Fridlund and Ralph Beaudoin, district business manager met with the custodial representatives. Board member Peggy Golden said Wednesday the board had preferred that administrators meet with the custodians.

At the Sept. 9 meeting, Verdung said he was told by Fridlund that the board had decided not to recognize the custodial union. Board Pres. Leora Rosen said the board discussed recognition in executive session at its Sept. 2 meeting, but did not vote on the issue. Their feelings were picked up by Fridlund and incorporated into his statement at the Sept. 9 meeting, she said.

"What they want us to do is try it their way," Verdung said Wednesday. "They'd like us to draw up a list of whatever issues we want to bring up, and arrange a meeting with Fridlund and Beaudoin. They will then relay the information to the board for approval or disapproval," Verdung added.

"I told the board that I was in no position to accept or reject their suggestion," Verdung said. "I'll just have to take it back to the membership."

Verdung has asked the board and administration to put Tuesday's suggestion in writing so he can take it to a meeting of custodians Oct. 16. Verdung said he also will ask the administration if the custodian's IEA representative, Joseph Anderson, can be present at their future talks.

In other action, the board approved a list of textbooks now being used in district schools and approved a series of curriculum guides presented by Alan Levin, curriculum director.

Board member William Haase suggested the board give more detailed attention to curriculum in several months when decisions might be made in advance of the next school year.

$5,300 in valuables taken at apartment

Burglars stole some $5,300 in jewels and other valuables Tuesday after entering the apartment of James Panger, 639 Beau Dr., said Des Plaines police.

Several rings, a stereo cassette player, about 100 cassettes, a suitcase and a camera were among the stolen articles.

In another incident, police said some $3,800 in cash was taken when burglars broke into Sondag Chevrolet, 1723 Busse Hwy., late Monday or early Tuesday.

The burglars broke in through a window, and pried open an office safe from where the cash was taken, police said.

Quintet to play at concert

The New York Brass Quintet will appear in concert Sunday Oct. 12, at Maline East High School auditorium, 2601 Dempster St., Park Ridge. The concert, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is the first Maline Township Community Concert of the season.

Their presentation will be a combination of new world renaissance in the old world form of brass chamber music, with modern compositions to pre-Bach in content.

Pigeons for the birds, alderman says

Ald. Robert Kraves, 6th, has again asked that the city take steps to control wild pigeons before the birds become a health problem.

of wild pigeons is increasing in the city and said the city should trap or kill the birds to control their population.

with bird lovers," he said. "But I think it has gotten to the point where they're infringing on the rights of people."

Kraves, who has complained about pigeons on several occasions, said he decided to make another appeal after seeing more than 100 Sunday in the backyard of a home at 1665 Greenleaf Ave.

"I was really surprised and shocked at what I saw," he said. "There are going to be problems if something is not done."

In the past, several of Kraves' colleagues in the city council have joked whenever he brought up the matter. Kraves said this week, however, "I think the city should stop taking this as a laughing matter and do something."

Schools

High School Dist. 214

The Prospect High School band boosters will meet today at 8 p.m. in the school band room to discuss plans for the band's trip to Washington, D. C. next April.

Stack of railroad ties hit by fire

Fire broke out Wednesday morning in a stack of old railroad ties owned by the Chicago and North Western Ry., in the railroad's storage yard near Wieboldt Dr.

Firefighters said the blaze broke out shortly before noon. No cause was determined and firemen said there was no damage estimate because the ties were discarded by the railroad.

New rules aid Chevette

Gas mileage figures confusing

DETROIT (UPI) — Just when you may have finally sorted out all of those different automobile fuel economy numbers, they went and changed the rules.

In the process, an American-built car is sharing the top mileage honors for the first time with those fuel-slinging imports that have been putting a big dent in the U. S. car market. The Chevrolet Chevette and the Japanese-built Datsun B-210 and Subaru are rated at 33 miles per gallon — a figure that may be confusing.

Ever since the Arabs clamped down on oil supplies in the fall of 1973, the number of miles a car can squeeze from a gallon of gasoline has become increasingly important. So far, the government — in the form of the Environmental Protection Agency — has been the prime source of fuel economy comparisons.

BUT EACH YEAR, the EPA's figures have been met with criticism.

The first figures two years ago revealed the results from a "city" cycle which manufacturers — especially those in Detroit — said put their vehicles at a big disadvantage.

So the EPA added a "highway" figure last fall and drew the ire of car owners who found they couldn't come anywhere near matching the higher figure which was the only one the automakers chose to promote.

The use of the combined figure gave GM something to cheer about and is giving Detroit automakers some ammunition to refute charges that they don't know how to build fuel-slinging cars.

"WE'VE ALWAYS said that we can match the foreign cars in every weight class we compete in," says GM President Elliott M. Estes. "And now we're competing in their class."

If the combined figure hadn't been used, GM's Chevette at 38 m.p.g. would have placed third to Datsun's 41 m.p.g. and Subaru's 40 m.p.g. highway results. But in the city, no other car could touch its 30 m.p.g. figure.

It's doubtful that any of the auto companies will use the combined figure in their advertising since that "highway" figure in the mid-to high 30s is still impressive, even if the FTC says the lower city figure must be used right alongside.

In their early ads, GM and Ford pushed their smallest models with the highway and city figures. But most industry observers are still leery of the government's test results.

"Use them as a comparison," advises John Spears, the "Mileage Miser" at Detroit's WWJ-TV.

SINCE JULY, Spears has been driving Detroit and foreign offerings three times over a 60-mile circuit that combines all types of driving — in light, medium and heavy traffic and in stop-and-go city traffic, on freeways and on secondary roads that have a maximum speed of 45 miles per hour.

His results most of the time are in between the city and highway results from the EPA and usually close to the "combined" result.

On a 1976-model Ford Gran Torino with a 400-cubic inch engine and automatic transmission which the EPA rates at 13 m.p.g. in the city and 18 m.p.g. on the highway, Spears averaged 14.3 m.p.g. The EPA's "combined" figure was 15 m.p.g.

A Mercury Capri II that EPA gives a "combined" fuel economy rating of 26 m.p.g., Spears averaged 25.2 m.p.g.

ON ONE OF THE fuel-hungry luxury models — the Cadillac Eldorado convertible with a 500-cubic inch fuel-injected engine — Spears averaged 14.2 m.p.g. while EPA gives the car a 12 m.p.g. combined average.

The difference, says Spears, is the type of test. The EPA's laboratory tests do not take into account wind resistance and other on-the-road factors.

"You'll generally come out a little better on the larger cars than the figures from the EPA indicate because the wind resistance and mass don't play as much a factor when you have that big engine pushing the car," Spears says.

The EPA's tests are conducted at its Ann Arbor, Mich., laboratory on a dynamometer, a treadmill-like device that measures the spin of the wheels and the exhaust gases. It provides a gas mileage comparison, even if the results are not "real world" as some critics complain, because each car is tested in exactly the same way.

The "city" driving test represents commuter driving and includes stopping, starting and operating the vehicle at speeds averaging 20 m.p.h. over a 7.5-mile test. The "highway" driving test includes rural and interstate driving at an average speed of 48 m.p.h. over a 10-mile test.

School buses vowed for 3 complexes

Tarkington School students living in three nearby multi-family complexes will have a parent-paid school bus available to them this year even though the district may install walkways from the complexes to the schools.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill gave this promise to representatives of Tahoe Village, Lakeside Villas and Mallard Lake complexes Wednesday. Representatives of the complexes met with Gill, Assoc. Supt. John Berger, and Thomas Markus, administrative assistant for the Village of Wheeling, to discuss residents' objections to the proposed walkways and possible inter-governmental solutions to their complaints.

Dist. 21 is considering the $800 gravel walkway installation in order to save approximately $22,000 now spent to bus the complexes' children to Tarkington, 310 Scott St., Wheeling.

CURRENTLY, THERE are not adequate sidewalks from the residences to the school. The district must by law bus children living closer than 1.5 miles from school if it is not safe to walk.

Gill also told parents that the walkways, which will be built on undeveloped land near the complexes, will not be used if and when future construction takes place on that land.

"We've been assured by the developer that the area involved (at Tahoe Village) will not be under construction for 1½ to 2 years," Gill said. "I'll state categorically that we are not going to be having kids walking through a construction area," he added.

In a letter to the Village of Wheeling read at the meeting, residents of Tahoe Village condominiums complained that their children could only get to the proposed school walkway by walking in their streets "along with automobile and construction traffic."

THE TAHOE VILLAGE letter further stated that complex streets were not plowed or serviced by the village even though residents pay almost $1,200 in taxes yearly to the village. Markus pointed out that only part of Lakeview Drive in Tahoe Village was dedicated to the village, and thus, all other streets are private and the responsibility of the developer.

Residents further objected to the walkway because of the presence of mosquitos, weeds and rats in the open field through which the walkway will be built. Markus told residents that health hazards could be dealt with by the village.

The school board is expected to make a decision on building the walkway at their meeting tonight, at the administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd.

The board will meet at approximately 8:45 p.m., 30 minutes later than usual, because members will attend a regional dinner prior to the meeting.

Rob Roy no stranger to county land planner

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The county planner who recommended zoning changes for a portion of the Rob Roy Golf Club also made land use recommendations on the tract while working for a developer and Mount Prospect.

Rolf C. Campbell, now a consultant to the County Zoning Board of Appeals, was the planner for Kenroy Inc. on an earlier project proposed for the golf course. He has now recommended a change in apartment zoning for a portion of the land.

Campbell also was involved in planning the property in the 1960s when he developed the Village of Mount Prospect's master plan, and called for the golf course to remain as "quasi-public use."

Local residents who oppose apartment development on the golf course land north of Euclid Avenue and west of Wolf Road are expected to object to Campbell's multiple involvement at a county zoning hearing Friday in the Wheeling Township Hall.

CAMPBELL SAID Wednesday, however, he sees no conflict of interest in having worked for the village, Kenroy and the county, all in relation to the same piece of property.

He said he will not recommend apartment zoning for the site unless he receives a letter from Kenroy asking for the zoning and for a perpetual public use zoning on the remaining 18 holes of the golf course.

He said he also would be amenable to recommending public use zoning for the entire course if the Mount Prospect Park District can purchase it.

Campbell said he was pleased the current Kenroy plan for the project had less density than that proposed to the Village of Mount Prospect earlier this year.

Alex R. Seith, chairman of the county zoning board of appeals, also defended Campbell's triple involvement.

SEITH SAID county zoners knew there would be instances of conflict when they hired Campbell.

The board hired Campbell because of his knowledge, his good national reputation and his broad planning experience in Cook County and in surrounding counties, Seith said.

Th board could have picked a planner from California who had no local conflicts, Seith said, but the consultant would have been so unfamiliar with land use in this area the revision of the county zoning ordinance would have taken years.

Seith said the zoning board already had run into a similar situation in the south suburban area with a development Campbell planned. "It's an unavoidable problem, but it's not an insoluble problem. It's inevitable for anybody with his range of experience. But that's precisely why the zoning board is dealing with Campbell's recommendation at arm's length," Seith said.

SEITH SAID the board will not see Campbell's recommendations for Wheeling Township until Friday's public hearing.

Girl, 15, raped in wooded area

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl was raped by a man who forced her into his auto and drove to a wooded area where he assaulted her, Wheeling police said Tuesday.

The girl told police she was walking along Dundee Road near the Wickes Furniture store, 351 W. Dundee, about 10:30 p.m. Monday when a man drove up alongside her, opened the door and pulled her inside.

Police said the girl told them she was uncertain where her attacker took her but said it was a wooded area.

He then drove her back to near the Wickes store where she got out and the man drove off.

The man was described as being about 23 to 26 years old, 6 feet tall, medium build, sandy, shoulder-length blond hair and wore a brown jacket.

He drove an older model white car with a dark vinyl interior.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-4 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $75 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates. Under present law, only those with

Admissions surge at hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 80 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 100."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Environment unit OKs paint plant

A $1.5 million paint products plant proposed for four acres on Carpenter Avenue in Wheeling was approved Wednesday night by the Environmental Advisory Commission.

Representatives from Sunnyside Products Inc., Chicago, told the commission the plant-warehouse facility will include an office, processing area and large open yard. The company makes paint thinner and related products.

The Wheeling plant will replace the company's Chicago facility.

THE COMMISSION approved the plans after a short discussion with company officials. Commissioners complimented the company on the completeness and aesthetic quality of the plans, especially regarding landscaping.

Trees will line the front of the building, and a brick wall will screen the open area.

Company officials also told the commission fire prevention measures provided in the facility, including installation of a sprinkler system, have been found acceptable by Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen.

Odor emissions from the plant will be negligible, officials said, and only employees, working in the processing room, will be required to wear protective clothing and equipment.

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN William Rogers said concerns about odor emissions, which were brought up three years ago when Sunnyside first sought zoning board approval, were resolved. Company officials said residents who opposed the plant three years ago have toured the company's Chicago plant and agreed that emission odors are negligible. Officials added the new facility will have an even lower emission level because of improved ventilation.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency is reviewing the company's plans, and company officials said they have received verbal approval from the EPA on the project. The commission's approval of the plans is contingent on receipt of a written EPA permit.

The commission's recommendations will be presented to the village board Monday for final action.

Omni House gets $3,702 to hire two

Omni House: Youth Services Bureau, Wheeling, will receive a $3,702 grant from the Federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act to hire two persons over 40 years of age.

The money will come through Cook County, which acts as the local sponsor for the federal manpower program.

The program is aimed at providing public service jobs for those over 40 years old.

Omni House executive director Peter Digre said the organization applied for the grant to help support volunteer clerical service at the office, 50 S. Wolf Rd.

Omni House has one full-time and one part-time secretary to handle all transactions of 25 full-and part-time Omni House program workers.

"So you can see there's a bottleneck there," Digre said.

The program is especially helpful to volunteer workers, providing some money in addition to their fixed incomes, Digre said.

Village approves 2nd truck terminal

Plans for a 'second truck terminal on Chaddick Drive in Wheeling have been approved, but plans for a third terminal must await review by the village attorney.

The board approved plans by McClean Trucking Co. to build a 34-door terminal on 10 acres in the South Wheeling Industrial Park. The proposed terminal had been recommended for approval by the environmental advisory commission.

The commission also had recommended approval of terminal plans offered by First American Realty Co., provided the firm reduces its proposed 88 doors to 41.

THE COMMISSION said testimony from company officials before the zoning board two years ago when zoning for the terminals was approved stated each of the three terminals would not exceed 44 doors.

Officials of First American, however, said they never understood there was any restriction on the number of terminal doors when the zoning was approved. Officials added that an 88-door terminal on the 14-acre site is not unusual.

First American, according to its plans, will have the largest terminal of the three. Gateway Trucking, which has been in operation for about a year, has a terminal with 21 doors.

Trustees said they did not want to vote on First American's plans until they reviewed transcripts from the 1973 zoning board and plan commission hearings on the terminals to determine if the 44-door limit had been discussed.

DAVID C. PHILLIPS, attorney for First American, said the company had complied with all requests from the commission, including obtaining approval from the county environmental protection agency.

In a letter to the commission, the county EPA said a review of First American's plans showed they would have no adverse environmental effect on the area according to EPA standards.

Boys' Club urged for Buffalo Grove

A representative of the Boys' Club of America has proposed establishment of a club in Buffalo Grove to serve as a youth center, a project long sought by some village officials.

Gilbert Messa, associate director of the Boys' Club's Midwest region, told village trustees that a club could be built in the village, provided two or three acres are made available. He estimated the cost of the project at between $200,000 and $400,000 for a building to accommodate 1,000 youths.

Similar plans for a youth center were scrapped years ago because no sites could be obtained. Much of the organizational work was done at that time by Robert Bogart, now a village trustee and one of the advocates of the center.

HOWEVER, MESSA said plans will not get off the ground unless an appropriate site for the club is found.

"I want the board to keep in mind that nothing can be done until land is available," he said.

Messa said the village could be involved directly in the establishment of the club by providing some funding, or simply by promoting efforts by the Boys' Club. Funds could be obtained from federal revenue-sharing money, if the village chooses, he said.

However, Rodney Jacobs, village plan commission member, objected to the village spending "hugo" sums of money for a center because the Boys' Club could be developed in conjunction with neighboring school districts. He said Klidder School in Long Grove would make a good site.

Boys' Club urged to serve village

A representative of the Boys' Club of America has proposed establishment of a club in Buffalo Grove to serve as a youth center, a project long sought by some village officials.

Gilbert Messa, associate director of the Boys' Club's Midwest region, told village trustees that a club could be built in the village, provided two or three acres are made available. He estimated the cost of the project at between $200,000 and $400,000 for a building to accommodate 1,000 youths. Similar plans for a youth center were scrapped years ago because no sites could be obtained. Much of the organizational work was done at that time by Robert Bogart, now a village trustee and one of the advocates of the center.

HOWEVER, MESSA said plans will not get off the ground unless an appropriate site for the club is found.

"I want the board to keep in mind that nothing can be done until land is available," he said.

Messa said the village could be in-involved directly in the establishment of the club by providing some funding, or simply by promoting efforts by the Boys' Club. Funds could be obtained from federal revenue-sharing money, if the village chooses, he said.

However, Rodney Jacobs, village plan commission member, objected to the village spending "huge" sums of money for a center because the Boys' Club could be developed in conjunction with neighboring school districts. He said Kildeer School in Long Grove would make a good site.

Builder rebuffed in plea to extend pre-annex accord

The Buffalo Grove Board of Trustees has denied a request to extend a pre-annexation agreement with Chesterfield Development Corp., developer of the proposed Arrowhead housing project.

The firm plans to build 284 townhouse units on a 27-acre site northeast of Arlington Heights and Lake-Cook roads.

Fred G. Hillman, executive vice president of Chesterfield, said the extension was needed to redesign the project because Cook County plans to improve Lake-Cook Road.

THE COUNTY WILL widen Lake-Cook Road to four lanes and will install raised medians along the road. Chesterfield must relocate its entrance because of the medians.

Hillman said it would take at least two years to make the revisions, including time to get village board approval for the change of plans.

Trustees Clarice Rech and Dorothy Carroll questioned the two-year period for revisions. Rech said she was concerned with an extension granted in 1972 and why it was not met.

"The last extension was granted because of a housing crunch due to the economy," Hillman said.

Trustee Robert Bogart asked Hillman whether townhouses are marketable. "To put it bluntly, townhouses aren't selling, are they?" he said.

"I DID NOT contribute to that glut of an overbuilding of townhouses in 1973 and 1974," Hillman said.

"With the impact of inflation and where it's heading, we cannot see how young families can afford a single-family house," Hillman said. "I think I have always exercised good business judgment."

The board handed down a 3-to-3 tie vote. A two-thirds majority was needed to pass. The decision came after a public hearing Monday which began shortly before midnight and ended around 12:30 a.m.

Hillman told The Herald Wednesday the lateness of the vote could have "contributed to the split vote."

"I DID NOT GET an overwhelming feeling of denial, so I feel it was inconclusive," he said. Hillman said he has not decided what plans to follow and will consult his attorney.

Hillman said Chesterfield still has several weeks to proceed with construction "to protect conditions that are part of the pre-annexation agreement." The pre-annexation agreement expires in early November.

Village Pres. Edward A. Fabish said Village Atty. Richard Raysa will be consulted on possible provisions, if any, that will remain effective after the pre-annexation agreement expires.

Village, parks meet to discuss leases

The Buffalo Grove Park District board will host a meeting with the Village Board of Trustees at 8 p.m. today at the Raupp Memorial Building, 901 Dunham Ln.

The two boards will meet to discuss cooperative lease agreements on park areas. Board members also will inspect the new building facilities recently completed for public use.

Solicitors needed for St. Jude drive

Door-to-door solicitors for the annual St. Jude Children's Hospital fund drive are needed in Buffalo Grove Oct. 20-26.

Junior high and high school students interested in participating in the event are urged to call Carol Sturgis, campaign chairman, at 537-8903.

St. Jude's Children's Hospital treats children afflicted with cancer, Hodgkins' disease, leukemia and malnutrition.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-6 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their incomes before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $775 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates.

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest Suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but, Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Buses vowed for three complexes

Tarkington School students living in three nearby multi-family complexes will have a parent-paid school bus available to them this year even though the district may install walkways from the complexes to the schools.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill gave this promise to representatives of Tahoe Village, Lakeside Villas and Mallard Lake complexes Wednesday. Representatives of the complexes met with Gill, A.S.O.C. Supt. John Barger, and Thomas Markus, administrative assistant for the Village of Wheeling, to discuss residents' objections to the proposed walkways and possible inter-governmental solutions to their complaints.

Dist. 21 is considering the $800 gravel walkway installation in order to save approximately $22,000 now spent to bus the complexes' children to Tarkington, 310 Scott St., Wheeling. CURRENTLY, THERE are not adequate sidewalks from the residences to the school. The district must by law bus children living closer than 1.5 miles from school if it is not safe to walk.

Gill also told parents that the walkways, which will be built on undeveloped land near the complexes, will not be used if and when future construction takes place on that land.

"We've been assured by the developer that the area involved (at Tahoe Village) will not be under construction for 1½ to 2 years," Gill said. "I'll state categorically that we are not going to be having kids walking through a construction area," he added.

In a letter to the Village of Wheeling read at the meeting, residents of Tahoe Village condominiums complained that their children could only get to the proposed school walkway by walking in their streets "along with automobile and construction traffic."

THE TAHOE VILLAGE letter further stated that complex streets were not plowed or serviced by the village even though residents pay almost $1,200 in taxes yearly to the village. Markus pointed out that only part of Lakeview Drive in Tahoe Village was dedicated to the village, and thus, all other streets are private and the responsibility of the developer.

The school board is expected to make a decision on building the walkway at their meeting tonight, at the administration building, 899 W. Dundee Rd.

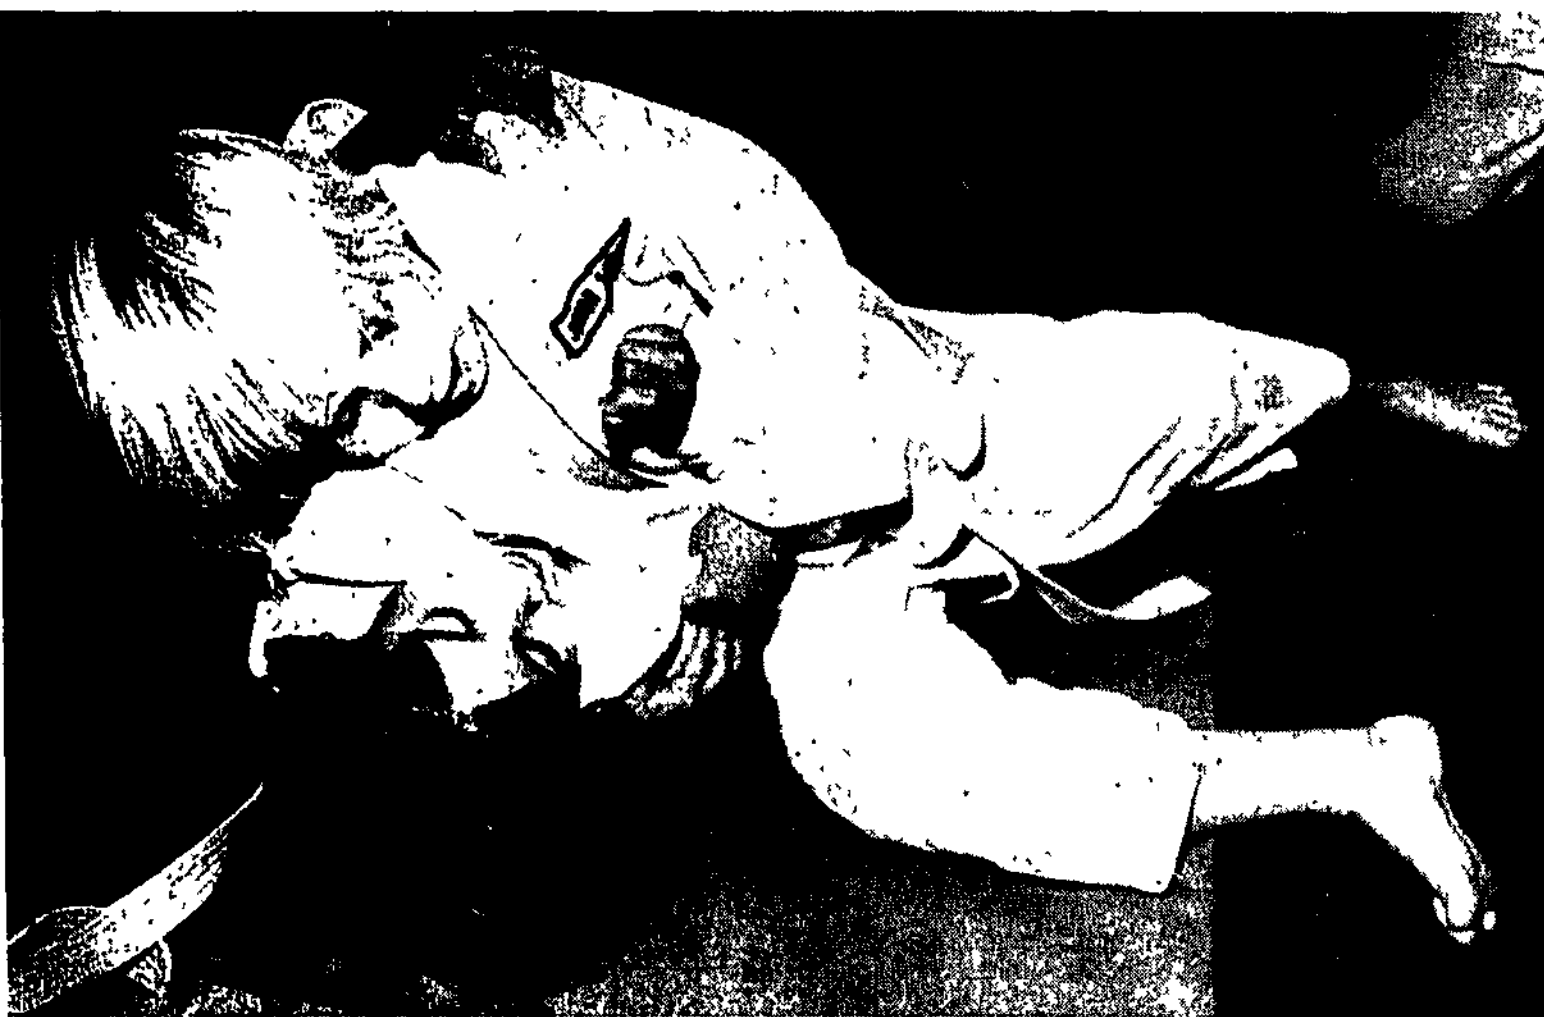

The board will meet at approximately 8:45 p.m., 30 minutes later than usual, because members will attend a regional dinner prior to the meeting.

Omni House gets $3,702 to hire two

Omni House: Youth Services Bureau, Wheeling, will receive a $3,702 grant from the Federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act to hire two persons over 40 years of age.

The money will come through Cook County, which acts as the local sponsor for the federal manpower program.

The program is aimed at providing public service jobs for those over 40 years old.

Omni House executive director Peter Digre said the organization applied for the grant to help support volunteer clerical service at the office, 50 S. Wolf Rd.

Omni House has one full-time and one part-time secretary to handle all transactions of 25 full-and part-time Omni House program workers.

"So you can see there's a bottleneck there," Digre said.

The program is especially helpful to volunteer workers, providing some money in addition to their fixed incomes, Digre said.

Village campaign goal $25,000

United Fund gets $1,000 1st day

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund collected nearly $1,000 in contributions Wednesday, the first official day of the campaign.

Gregg Crocker, campaign chairman, said the amount represented a good start toward the group's $25,000 goal. The campaign runs through December.

A kickoff ceremony Wednesday at Jack London Junior High School drew a large crowd of students with a hot air balloon highlighting the rally. The Jack London chorus sang, Wheeling High School cheerleaders performed, the Wheeling High School Color Guard presented the flag and music was provided by the Black Canyon band.

Proceeds from the United Fund drive will benefit 11 agencies in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove including the Boy Scouts of America, Moraine Girl Scout Council, Northwest Cook County Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Clearbrook Center, Countryside Center for the Handicapped, Northwest Suburban Homemakers, Salvation Army, Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, Northwest Mental Health and Shelter Inc.

Scouting news

Cub Scout Pack 418 of Washington Irving School, Buffalo Grove, has planned an Oct. 18 football outing.

The boys and their families will attend the Buffalo Grove High School football game in which the team will play Wheeling High School at the Buffalo Grove stadium.

The scouts and their families will meet at the Irving School parking lot at 1:30 p.m.

Scouts will conduct their first pack meeting at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 24 at Irving School. The boys plan to entertain their parents with homemade musical instruments and songs.

Any boys in third and fourth grades or who are at least eight years old and attending Irving School, are invited with their parents to the meeting.

Park district wins statewide honors

The Buffalo Grove Park District will be honored Nov. 20 by the Illinois Assn. of Park Districts for its outstanding Arbor Day program April 27.

The Buffalo Grove Park District will be among five park districts in the state to receive recognition during the association's annual conference at the Sheraton O'Hare Hotel.

Arbor Day has been designated and observed in many states for the planting of trees. The Buffalo Grove Park District has started a memorial tree planting program to replace and add trees in many of its parks.

$1 million deficit seen

Property levy hike, utility tax weighed

by TOM VON MALDER

Elk Grove Village officials are considering a two-year utility tax and a property tax increase for 1977 as ways to offset an anticipated $1 million deficit for 1976-77.

Several village trustees and Village Pres. Charles Zettek have said they favor a 5 per cent utility tax to raise the needed revenue until property taxes can be increased. Zettek said Tuesday the tax levy could not be increased until September 1976 with the higher taxes collected in 1977.

"Our property tax is lower than any municipality in the area," said Zettek, who added the only alternative seems to be to lay off personnel and cut services to residents.

VILLAGE TREASURER George C. Coney said a 5 per cent utility tax would raise between $750,000 and $800,000 a year in additional revenue. He said Illinois Bell Telephone Co. figures its share would be $178,000 and Northern Illinois Gas Co.'s share would be $335,000 based on the gas company's $6.2 million annual gross from village customers.

An estimate from Commonwealth Edison Co. is due Friday but a preliminary figure placed it in the range of $200,000 to $300,000 a year, Coney said.

To raise the needed $1 million additional a year in property taxes, Coney said the village's portion of the tax bill would have to be increased by $2 for each $10,000 assessed valuation. He said this would represent a 4.6 per cent increase in property owners' total tax bills and would make such total bills $732 per $10,000 assessed valuation — not counting any other increases by other taxing bodies.

The village board Tuesday agreed to double car vehicle sticker fees to $10 for 1976 and to increase the truck fee schedule by about $20. Final action is expected at Tuesday's board meeting. The higher fees are expected to bring in an additional $77,000 in annual revenue.

THE BOARD also authorized Village Mgr. Charles A. Willis to proceed with $138,000 in administrative budget cuts he has proposed. The board also made some cuts of its own from $39,000 worth suggested by Willis. Those additional cuts included $5,500 from Community Service program activities, free coffee for village employees and for meetings, two part-time employees, some village board dues and a change in the stray animal service.

Trustee Edward W. Kenna agreed with Zettek that additional taxes are needed, but said he was unsure yet on the amount needed.

"I'll add the taxes necessary to get the job done," he said. "I have no problem with a utility tax," Kenna added.

Both Kenna, who questioned police microfilming of records from the past seven years as perhaps unnecessary, and Trustee Ronald L. Chernick said they wanted to go over the budget themselves to see where additional cuts might be made.

"We can nickel and dime a thing and balance the budget for this year," said Chernick. He added of a utility tax, "I'm trying to avoid that before April if I can."

CONEY SAID the current year deficit is now projected to be $270,000, but that has increased almost monthly.

"The figures are constantly changing," he said.

Community service unit may disband

The 12-member Elk Grove Village Community Service and Mental Health Board could decide to disband tonight because of a $5,500 program budget cut earlier this week by the village board.

At the village board session Tuesday in which some $150,000 in budget cuts were authorized, Jane Broten told the trustees the community service board had decided to dissolve if a suggested cut in the program budget were approved.

Mrs. Broten, community service coordinator, said the board had decided that without money for programs, its volunteer direction would be unnecessary.

WHETHER THE community service board will disband tonight is questionable as their threat to do so was a reaction to an $8,000 cut suggested by Village Mgr. Charles A. Willis. The village board, however, approved only a $5,500 cut, leaving $5,000 rather than $2,500 for the community service board to work with.

Richard Penley, chairman of the community service board, said the $8,000 cut would "negate many of the services community service renders to the village." He left Tuesday's meeting prior to final board action on the lesser cut and could not be reached Wednesday for comment.

Mrs. Broten Wednesday termed the $5,500 cut "a loss of good faith." She said several programs, particularly in the mental health area, which had been planned will have to be eliminated or reduced.

"It was quite an ambitious program," she said. "It would have provided some mental health education for all ages."

SHE ADDED THAT taking into account some smaller cuts in other community service budget items the service lost 25.5 per cent of its total allotment.

One service that would not be cut, according to Mrs. Broten, would be the new junior high school counselor program, developed with the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township's Mental Health Center.

"That student counselor program we will continue to fund. We have put too much into it," she said.

Through funding granted by Elk Grove Township, counselors already have been hired for Lively and Friendship junior highs. Money from Elk Grove Village Community Service is to be used to hire a third counselor who will work at Grove Junior High.

Mental health funds available

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center officials have been told federal funding is available for construction of a permanent headquarters for the center.

Jordan Rosen, center executive director, met this week with representatives of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare in Chicago. He was told that federal programs could provide up to 55 per cent of the funds necessary to construct the facility.

"We learned that some dollars are available for construction," Rosen said.

The funds were impounded previously as part of spending cutbacks, but are now available, Rosen said.

THE MENTAL HEALTH center board hopes to raise an estimated $666,000 to build a facility on two acres west of Ill. Rte. 53. The land was donated last spring by Elk Grove Village. The center's facilities are currently spread out among three locations in both Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg.

A fund drive for the new facility is slated to begin shortly, as preliminary planning has begun.

Rosen said there is a March 15 deadline for applying for the federal grant, so work on the grant application would have to begin soon.

"We would have to demonstrate where the local money (45 per cent) would come from before they would even consider us for a grant," Rosen said.

The mental health center board is expected to decide whether to try for a grant at its Oct. 23 meeting.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-6 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $575 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates.

Big surge in admissions crowding area hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting," said a spokesman.

Boys Baseball meets

Elk Grove Village Boys Baseball board will meet Thursday in the home economics room of Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd. The meeting, which is open to the public, will start at 7:30 p.m. at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but, Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Schools OK 8% pay hike

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education has approved an 8 per cent salary increase for secretaries and custodians in the district.

The salary increases have received tentative approval from the Secretarial-Clerical Assn. and the Custodial and Maintenance Employees Organization.

Secretaries who work part time and are on the lowest end of the pay scale will receive $2.15 per hour compared to $2.12 last year. Full-time secretaries on the highest level will receive $4.58 per hour compared to $4.45 last year.

Custodians will receive increases from 35 cents to 42 cents an hour. Starting pay is $4.67 per hour with the top salary set at $5.62 an hour.

AREA PARAMEDICS toured the new emergency wing at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, Wednesday. The wing includes new intensive care and cardiac care units. The tour was part of area activities being held to mark Fire Prevention Week.

School.

Village Pres. Charles J. Zettek, who approved the community service unit, said he did so because he felt many of the services — such as the drug awareness program which started Tuesday — are available from other area agencies.

He said if the village did not provide the programs it would not be depriving the residents on any possibility to attend such programs.

Scouting news

Girl Scout Cadette Troop, 631, Elk Grove Village, recently visited the Maple Lane Ranch, Stockton, Ill. The girls went horseback riding, swimming, square dancing and took hay rides, accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Bernadette Frankiewicz and Mrs. Rita Pritchard.

The troop financed the trip with money earned by babysitting and various troop fund raisers.

Leaders Mrs. Marilyn Giannini, Mrs. Mary Harris and Mrs. Grace Kane, escorted their Junior Troop 879 from Clearmont School, Elk Grove Village, on a two-day trip to Camp Widjiwago, Springfield, Ill. The troop toured the capital building, Lincoln's home and Salem.

The girls will be stuffing envelopes Saturday for the United Fund at the Elk Grove Village Hall.

ing," said Willis, adding, "We have to find additional revenue sources equal to about $1 million for next year."

Officials have said the deficit projections are based on declines in revenue from property taxes, sales tax and building fees. Also, they said village costs have escalated, particularly electricity charges and insurance fees.

"Our insurance costs have gone up a minimum of $80,000," Willis said. Coney added that the village's current $319 million total assessed valuation may not increase by $22 million as projected because of new legislation which will set all assessments at 33.3 per cent. He said current practice has industrial property assessed at 40 per cent and residential at 22 per cent.

Magician Freddy Fredericks shows Sandy Basile a card trick.

Parks offer magic course

Whether it's making a doll Christmas ornament from corn leaves or learning how to deal from the bottom of the deck, Elk Grove Park District residents have a variety of programs in which to learn and have fun this fall.

The Christmas America and magic programs are new this year to the district, and both have been greeted with high interest.

The magician is Freddy Fredericks, a 20-year veteran of the tricky trade. The course is designed for beginners, and while it may not produce any equal to Houdini, the chances a participant might develop a life-long interest is high.

For this course, Fredericks is sticking to basics and sleight-of-hand tricks are being reserved for more advanced students. A second session of the program will start Jan. 21 and the fee is $10.

In the Christmas decoration class, the participants are being taught American adaptations of decorations and ornaments from around the world. It is being billed as "our heritage for a Bicentennial Christmas." Darlene Brand teaches the class.

Dist. 54 teachers weigh decision—strike or no

by PAM BIGFORD

To strike or not to strike—that is the question which will be posed to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 teachers Friday.

If the teachers vote to strike, the teachers' union board will be given the power to set a date for the walk-out.

Results of the vote are expected by early Friday evening, said Dave Tomcheck, Illinois Education Assn. representative to the Dist. 54 union.

The board of education has called a special meeting for 8 p.m. today to discuss negotiations in an executive session.

TEACHERS AND the board are 3.8 per cent, about $400,000, apart in salary proposals. The board is offering a salary increase of 9.1 per cent, up 2.6 per cent from its original offer of 6.5 per cent.

The union is requesting a 12.9 per cent raise, down 5.1 per cent from its original request of an 18 per cent increase.

Both proposals include the annual 5 per cent salary raise which is given to teachers for an additional year of experience.

Union Pres. Arthur Neil said the decision to vote on the strike was made Wednesday during a union meeting at Addams Junior High School. Six hundred teachers attended the meeting to discuss negotiations.

"The teachers are really upset about the amount of money that's being offered to them by the board," Neil said. "They feel that the time they put in for their classes and extra-curricular activities, plus the courses they take to keep up to date, plus the rise in the cost of living totals up to at least a 12.9 per cent raise."

TEACHERS HAVE been picketing at the schools for the past two days and are expected to continue today.

Board spokesman Gordon Thoren

200 honored at Alexian

The precious gift of time given by more than 200 adult volunteers at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, was recognized at an awards luncheon in the hospital cafeteria recently.

Beatrice LaVozzi, Itasca, received a pin from the auxiliary to mark 3,000 hours of volunteer service. She is the second volunteer to reach 3,000 hours. Receiving 2,500-hour service awards were Gloria Daugherty, Elk Grove Village, and Virginia Ledl, Roselle. Pauline Stichter, Addison, was honored for 2,000 hours of service. Accumulating 1,500 hours were Mildred Meeking, Itasca, and Jean Wilson, Schaumburg.

said Wednesday "It was unfortunate" that a settlement had not been reached in the Tuesday night negotiating session, but, he added, "we made the last move by raising our offer to a 9.1 per cent increase, and we anticipated a counterproposal by the union Tuesday. But we didn't get one."

Neil said the union made a counterproposal by informing the board the union membership "did not want their offer lowered any more unless the board raised their proposal a meaningful percentage."

NEIL SAID THE union Tuesday again proposed allowing a neutral third party to help settle the salary dispute, but the suggestion was rejected by the board.

Board Pres. Edgar Feldman has maintained the board was elected to negotiate teacher salaries and would not relinquish that duty.

Teachers are under a three-year contract which expires next summer. The contract states the salary agreement must be reopened at the end of the second year if the cost of living increases more than 4.5 per cent. Neil said the cost of living rose almost 10 per cent last year.

Free film at library

"The Unquiet Death of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg," a film depicting the unanswered questions surrounding the Rosenberg-Sobell case, will be shown at the Elk Grove Public Library Thursday at 8 p.m. The case has been the focus of recent publicity since the publication of the book "We Are Your Sons," the legacy of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg by their sons, Robert and Michael Meeropol.

Admission to the film is free and open to the public. The library is at 101 Kennedy Blvd.

Storytelling workshop

An adult workshop in storytelling for young children will be held at the Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd., Thursday, Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m. Advice and discussion on how to choose good books for storytelling, using puppets and hand games effectively, and the film "The Pleasure Is Mutual: How to Conduct Effective Picture Book Programs" will be featured.

Although the program is designed specifically for Elk Grove Village library volunteer storytellers, others interested in storytelling are invited. There is no charge.

For more information, call Clara Knoepfel, 439-0447 at the library.

Hustle offered at 'Y'

The hustle is the new dance featured in a seven-week course of instruction at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines.

Differentiating it from discotheque-type dancing that was popular with young people during the 1960s, Grace Hansen, dance director, calls it "touch dancing," a real turn-on for the under-30 crowd accustomed to dancing several feet from their partners.

For information call 296-3376.

Special board meeting tonight

Dist. 54 teachers weigh strike action

by PAN BIGFORD

To strike or not to strike — that is the question which will be posed to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 teachers Friday.

If the teachers vote to strike, the teachers' union board will be given the power to set a date for the walk-out.

Results of the vote are expected by early Friday evening, said Dave Tomchek, Illinois Education Assn. representative to the Dist. 54 union.

The board of education has called a special meeting for 8 p.m. today to discuss negotiations in an executive session.

TEACHERS AND the board are 3.6 per cent, about $100,000, apart in salary proposals. The board is offering a salary increase of 9.1 per cent, up 2.6 per cent from its original offer of 6.5 per cent.

The union is requesting a 12.9 per cent raise, down 5.1 per cent from its original request of an 18 per cent increase.

Both proposals include the annual 5 per cent salary raise which is given to teachers for an additional year of experience.

Union Pres. Arthur Neil said the decision to vote on the strike was made Wednesday during a union meeting at Addams Junior High School. Six hundred teachers attended the meeting to discuss negotiations.

"The teachers are really upset about the amount of money that's being offered to them by the board," Neil said. "They feel that the time they put in for their classes and extra-curricular activities, plus the courses they take to keep up to date, plus the rise in the cost of living totals up to at least a 12.9 per cent raise."

TEACHERS HAVE been picketing at the schools for the past two days and are expected to continue today.

Board spokesman Gordon Thoren said Wednesday "it was unfortunate" that a settlement had not been reached in the Tuesday night negotiating session, but, he added, "we made the last move by raising our offer to a 9.1 per cent increase, and we anticipated a counterproposal by the union Tuesday. But we didn't get one."

Neil said the union made a counterproposal by informing the board the union membership "did not want their offer lowered any more unless the board raised their proposal a meaningful percentage."

NEIL SAID THE union Tuesday again proposed allowing a neutral third party to help settle the salary dispute, but the suggestion was rejected by the board.

Board Pres. Edgar Feldman has maintained the board was elected to negotiate teacher salaries and would not relinquish that duty.

Teachers are under a three-year contract which expires next summer. The contract states the salary agreement must be reopened at the end of the second year if the cost of living increases more than 4.5 per cent. Neil said the cost of living rose almost 10 per cent last year.

Village share of proposed bus plan may be $92,000

Hoffman Estates' initial share of a proposed subscription and dial-a-ride bus service in Schaumburg Township could come to about $92,000 if the plan is adopted, a village plan commissioner said Wednesday night.

Thomas Morimoto, an engineer with the state highway department, told the commission his review of the transit proposal indicates the cost to the village would include about $9,500 for the purchase of 11 buses and about $82,000 for yearly operation depending upon how much, if any, federal money would be available for the system.

But he added village officials in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates must determine if the proposal is worth the investment, if it will duplicate existing taxi and bus services and if it will differ from existing services.

MORIMOTO HAD been asked by village administrators to review the transit study prepared by consultants Jack Leisch and Associates.

His comments are to be sent today to village trustees and administrators. A recommendation agreed to by the plan commission Wednesday night will also be sent to officials suggesting that the Schaumburg Transportation Company be approached to implement the proposed system.

The company provides service for Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, charter service and a limited commuter line to local train stations.

Officials from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates are to meet Oct. 16 to study the final transit report.

THE CONSULTANTS have proposed a system which they say could get some funding aid from federal and state sources, including the Regional Transportation Authority. Village funds will still be necessary, however, to support any transit plan.

Richard Regan, plan commission chairman, said costs of a transit system might be reduced considerably if officials can contract with the Schaumburg Transit Company to provide service. He said a contract agreement would eliminate the need to purchase equipment and would cut maintenance costs because the company has existing garage and repair facilities.

"We have to realize, though, that no matter what we have, the village will have to pay for it," Comr. Richard Bleck said.

Morimoto called the Leisch study "excellent" and said the transit proposal could be "practical and workable" depending upon how it is implemented.

He said, however, that a public transit system would only be used by about 2 per cent of the township, information indicates.

THE COMMISSION cited figures Wednesday night which show 79.8 per cent of the village's working population drives alone to work, 9.4 per cent drive to work in car pools, 5.8 per cent ride commuter trains to work, 2.4 per cent walk to work, one-tenth per cent ride taxis to work, 1.2 per cent work at home and 1.8 per cent use other types of transportation.

Regan urged commission members to attend the Oct. 16 meeting to comment on the transit plan. Village officials said Monday they expect the session to be informational only with no decision coming on the matter yet.

The meeting will also be open to the public.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-6 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $575 million a year.

Turning his attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates.

Admissions surge at hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves "little room for additional increases in admissions."

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but, Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Funds available for mental health

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center officials have been told federal funding is available for construction of a permanent headquarters for the agency.

Jordan Rosen, center executive director, met this week with representatives of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare in Chicago. He was told that federal programs could provide up to 55 per cent of the funds necessary to construct the facility.

"We learned that some dollars are available for construction," Rosen said. The funds were impounded previously as part of spending cutbacks, but are now available, Rosen said.

A fund drive for the new facility is slated to begin shortly, as preliminary planning has begun.

Rosen said there is a March 15 deadline for applying for the federal grant, so work on the grant application would have to begin soon.

"We would have to demonstrate where the local money (45 per cent) would come from before they would even consider us for a grant," Rosen said.

The mental health center board is expected to decide whether to try for a grant at its Oct. 23 meeting.

$110,000 loan OK'd for township

The Schaumburg Township Board has approved borrowing $110,000 in tax anticipation warrants from the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates to supplement the general assistance fund.

Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said interest on the loan is 6 per cent. He said the loan will be paid out of the 1975 tax collection.

"It probably will be September or October before we have enough money in the till," he said.

The township board authorized sale of the tax anticipation warrants last month because money in the general assistance fund had been depleted due to increased case load. Laubenstein said the caseload is double that of previous years.

The township general assistance fund, which provides aid to the unemployed and needy while they await unemployment insurance payments, nearly tripled this fiscal year to meet rising demands.

Laubenstein said the township is averaging general assistance payments as "high as $8,000 a month."

Walden burglaries probed by police

Schaumburg police are investigating two burglaries reported Monday at the Walden apartment complex.

Fred Knickrehm, 1919 Prairie St., reported jewelry, clothing and an undetermined amount of cash were stolen. Two leather jackets and four wedding rings, valued at $730, were taken along with silver certificates and old coins, police were told. Entry was gained sometime between 1 and 3 p.m. by prying a door lock, police said.

Another break-in at the apartment next door was discovered by police, but authorities did not know if anything was missing.

Fireplug painting Bicentennial event

Schaumburg residents with a yen to do something for their village and its Bicentennial celebration are invited to paint the neighborhood fire hydrants red, white and blue.

Those who would like to take part in the project are asked to contact the village public works department, 894-7100, for details.

INSTALLATION of streetlights, costing about $22,000, has been completed in Schaumburg's Knightsbridge subdivision, west of Jones Road. The project was paid for with money obtained when the village redeemed a $75,000 bond posted by builder Nicholas Herman, who abandoned the development about a year ago.

Plant care course offered by parks

The Schaumburg Park District has begun a four-week Plant Care Clinic at the Melneke Community Center, 220 E. Weatherfield Way.

The class will be from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays. The fee is $18 and includes cost of all plants and accessories. Class participants will receive an 8-inch terrarium with plants and sand layering, two pots and plants.

For further information, call 894-4660.

Library to present stretch fabrics class

The Schaumburg Township Public Library, 32 W. Library Ln., Schaumburg, will present a program on stretch and sew fabrics from 11 a.m. to noon today.

The program will feature a demonstration of sewing with the fabric. The presentation is free and open to the public. A babysitting service is available during the program for children ages 3 to 6.

Not even her birthday

Pam gets 'gift of life' from Schaumburg friends

by TONI GINETTI

Pam Reilly's friends in Schaumburg gave her a special present last month and it wasn't even her birthday. It was a present they call "the gift of life."

Pam, 9, needed four units of type-O positive blood during surgery to correct a birth defect which left a hole in her chest. The condition involved deformed cartilage and a twisted sternum bone which was causing pressure on her heart and curvature of her spine.

At home now at 201 Beech Dr., the little blonde pixie is mending after six hours of complex surgery and a 3½-week stay at Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

IN THREE WEEKS she'll be back with her fourth grade classmates at Dirksen School, her activity restricted for a while, but on the road to recovery.

Pam is one of many who know firsthand the benefits of Schaumburg's co-operative blood replacement program offered through the American Red Cross. The program ensures all village residents an unlimited blood supply if 4 per cent of the local population donates.

Besides assuring the life-sustaining plasma for transfusions, the program helps save patients some of the sky-high costs of medical attention. Schaumburg's blood committee chairman, nurse Mary Nagy, estimates blood costs range up to $75 per unit today.

CALLS FOR BLOOD have increased as residents have become more aware of the program, Mrs. Nagy says.

"This year we're getting calls from about three or four families every week," she said. One family used more than 100 units for a family member suffering leukemia, she said.

In Hoffman Estates, where the co-operative blood replacement program is administered through the North Suburban Blood Center, calls for blood are also rising.

"In the six months from March to August this year we had 125 units used," blood chairman Judy Beccastro said. One case involved a 14-year-old girl who required 11 units and another a man who needed 16 units.

FOR PAM: THE blood was necessary for the special surgery. Though her condition had not really limited Pam's activities while growing up, the condition was beginning to cause a spine curvature, Mrs. Robert Reilly said.

The Reilleys were aware of the village's blood program and when the surgery was scheduled they submitted a request for blood.

"My husband gave in January. We knew about the program through the newspapers and through church," she said. "I think it's a good program because you never know."

BUT WHILE THE program is a valuable one, both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates are in need of blood donors to insure their programs' continuation.

"We always need donors," Mrs. Nagy said. Schaumburg is hoping for 200 units to be collected at the next blood drive scheduled Oct. 15 from 4 to 9 p.m. at St. Marcelline Social Center, 209 S. Springguth Rd.

Donors should schedule appointments by calling Mrs. Nagy, 629-1245, or the village health department, 894-4500.

IN HOFFMAN ESTATES, where the blood program has reached only half its 1100-unit goal with only two more drawings scheduled, persons may donate Nov. 9 at the village hall, 1200 N. Gannon Dr.

Appointments may be made through the village health department, 882-882-9100, or by calling Mrs. Beccastro, 359-9183.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 has been invited to enter a display in the fourth Quincy Conference scheduled for Oct. 15-17. The educational conference will include nationally known speakers as well as displays of projects.

Dist. 54 will set up a display describing and illustrating their projects called Program Evaluation Model. The model provides teachers with math test score information about their students. It also helps teachers use this information to plan improvements in their mathematics instruction.

The project director, Joseph Cech, will be a speaker at one of the sessions at which he will show a slide presentation of the project and discuss it with the audience.

A drug abuse program for adults will be conducted at Schaumburg School, 520 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Schaumburg High School's VIP organization will hold an open house Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school's cafeteria, 1100 W. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg.

Entertainment will be provided by the pom pom girls. The new VIP gold jackets will be available for purchase at the meeting.

A discussion on communication skills between parents and teenagers and peer pressures will be lead by Julie Malen, school social worker, at Conant High School's Booster Club's meeting Tuesday.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be in the school cafeteria, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

In general . . .

Free auto emission tests are being offered Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at North Point Shopping Center, Rand and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights.

Wheeling and Prospect high school students in automotive fundamentals classes are conducting the test in cooperation with the Chicago Lung Assn.

Polish language classes for adults are being offered on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at St. Emily Parish School, Mount Prospect.

For information contact Eugenia Muller, 991-0535 after 5 p.m.

The Academic Achievement Center will offer a free three-session course on helping children achieve in school beginning Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The center is located in Immanuel United Church of Christ, 3N735 Church Rd., Bensenville.

Dist. 15 board approves 2-year teacher contract

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board members approved a new two-year teacher contract Wednesday.

But board member Walter Kendall prefaced his vote by warning the board that the negotiating process

"has all the marks of deteriorating into a combat situation," with secret meetings and non-involvement of board members until the very last bargaining sessions.

"The closeness of the (teacher) vote indicates to me a sizable discontent in the teaching staff," Kendall said.

TEACHERS VOTED 316 to 209 in favor of the contract Tuesday.

Kendall objected to the apparent practice of excluding board members from the bargaining talks unless invited by the board president.

"My concern about the process deteriorating is reinforced by the refusal of board members to be present until the very last sessions," Kendall added.

Unless these issues are faced, Kendall told board members that future negotiations would resemble hard-line union-industrial talks.

BOARD PRES. Walter Sundling told Kendall, "You are entitled to your opinion," but strongly objected to his viewpoint.

"There is nothing secretive about the process," Sundling said. "The rest of the board is kept up to date. The degeneracy you allude to is not Dist. 15. It's on a national scope that has nothing to do with this board," he added.

Centex tract near Westbury wins annex OK

A 331-acre site near Algonquin and Freeman roads on which 940 single-family homes will be built has been formally annexed to Hoffman Estates.

The site, owned by Centex Homes of Illinois, will become one of the last major single-family home areas in the village, along with the 1,400-unit Westbury development immediately to the east.

Several ordinances, which will permit construction of zero-lot line concept homes and conventional single-family units, were approved Monday night by the village board along with the formal annexation approval.

The $50 million development will include 636 single-family homes, similar to those in the nearby Winston Knolls subdivision which Centex built, and 304 zero-lot line homes, which do not have traditional side and rear yards and are built on smaller lots.

The subdivision lies within Barrington and Palatine townships but Centex officials are negotiating to have the Barrington Township portion disconnected from Barrington Unit School Dist. 220.

Officials in Dist. 220 have opposed the project and Centex is attempting to have the entire site annexed to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211.

Dist. 15 has accepted a 10-acre school site in the subdivision and a cash contribution of $32,350 from Centex.

Residents to pay for sewer work

Hoffman Estates homeowners will be required to pay for sewer dig-ups on parkway land under a new village ruling.

The policy change was enacted Monday after several months of study by trustees. The plan calls for residents to share the cost of dig-ups with the village until 1990, when the total cost will be assigned to the homeowner.

The homeowner will pay only the cost of the dig-up, which has ranged from $95 to $800 in some recent cases, Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said.

Village officials proposed the change because of numerous sewer connection problems which have appeared in a type of pipe used in the construction of the village's first homes.

THE PIPE is now failing, and administrators have said the village cannot afford to continue paying for repairs.

Longmeyer said the repairs have cost the village $30,000 yearly. Homeowners have always been required to pay for dig-ups on private property, but the new policy will apply to dig-ups on public parkway land, he said. Surrounding villages for some time have required homeowners to pay for all sewer dig-ups. Hoffman Estates is one of the few communities which has not charged homeowners for the work, according to Longmeyer.

The village will continue to provide sewer pipe, backfill and pavement replacement when dig-ups are made.

Most dig-ups average about $400 but some could cost more, depending on the work involved, officials have said.

Homeowners will be allowed to choose approved contractors to do work, Longmeyer said.

Two villages set parley on transportation Oct. 16

Recommendations calling for a public transportation system in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates will be discussed by officials of both villages Oct. 16.

The special meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr., said Fred Dietrich, Schaumburg transportation chairman. The meeting is open to the public.

Dietrich said representatives of Jack E. Leisch and Associates, consultants who prepared the study, will be present to answer questions. The consultants have proposed a combined dial-a-ride service and subscription bus operation during peak commuter hours.

THEIR PROPOSAL calls for a 6-to-12-month demonstration program they anticipate will cost about $184,000 to establish and operate as part of the first phase of the system.

Hoffman Estates officials said Monday they expect the meeting to be an informational session. Village Pres. Virginia M. Hayter told the board of trustees it would be "impossible to consider funding yet" for a bus system.

The consultants estimate purchase of 11 vehicles for the demonstration program would cost about $270,000 but say federal and state grants could lower the villages' share to about $19,000. Reportedly 80 per cent of the cost of equipment and 50 per cent of operating costs can be paid with federal grants.

More than two-thirds of the cost of the $28,000 transit needs study was paid through federal and state planning grants. Hoffman Estates pledged a maximum of $2,000 for the project and remaining costs were paid by the Village of Schaumburg.

Dietrich emphasized that the meeting is open to the public and said he welcomes citizens' reaction to the public transit proposal.

Lions candy day sale Friday

Schaumburg Lions Club members will hold their annual candy sale Friday at major intersections in the village.

All proceeds from the sale will be used for activities for blind and sight-impaired individuals, said Dale Loeffler, club president.

Approximately 70 per cent of the money collected will go to purchase leader dogs and support facilities such as Hadley School for the Blind, Dialog, a correspondence school for the blind, Camp Lions, a recreational activity for blind and handicapped children and the glaucoma testing unit used by Lions Clubs throughout Illinois, Loeffler said.

The remaining 30 per cent of candy day collections, Loeffler said, will be retained by the local club to help support activities for the blind.

Parks yoga classes start Thursday

The Hoffman Estates Park District will offer a class in Hatha Yoga beginning today.

The class will be taught by a trained teacher, and classes will be in the Vogelie Recreation Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd. Classes will meet from 10:30 a.m. to noon Thursdays for 10 weeks. The fee is $10.

Registration will be taken at the park district office, 650 W. Higgins Rd., during office hours.

Admissions surge at area hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 68 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but, Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Author pledges 'fantastic' book of city's history

by LINDA PUNCH

Esther Perica plans to give James Michener "a little competition" in the historical writing field.

Mrs. Perica, newly appointed Rolling Meadows historian, said she plans to write a local history that will rival Michener's "Centennial" in both research and interest. Her goal is to have the book ready by the city's 25th anniversary celebration in 1980.

"This is going to be a fantastic project — I want to tell the truth and write it clearly and with style," she said.

MRS. PERICA, a librarian at Rolling Meadows High School, has an extensive background in library work and historical research. She spent a month last summer working with the archivist at the University of Missouri and has met with several local historians.

"There are so many people throwing together books for the Bicentennial. I wanted to see what everybody else was doing so I won't repeat any mistakes," she said.

The Rolling Meadows Public Library is paying Mrs. Perica for the research and writing of the book. Mrs. Perica said royalties from sale of the book will go to the library or historical society.

Mrs. Perica is also cataloging the historical materials in the library — including an old washing machine, scrapbooks and newspaper columns.

WHILE TRACING the history of Rolling Meadows will require a lot of book work, Mrs. Perica said local residents will be her best sources.

"A lot of people think 'she wouldn't want to talk to me,' but they're wrong. There are really a lot of interesting people who helped form the City of Rolling Meadows," she said.

Seemingly unimportant materials such as scrapbooks or floor plans for early homes can supply Mrs. Perica with needed information. She said the library is prepared to microfilm any material that residents might have.

"I'm not only the author but I'm in the role of putting together the finds of other people, too. I can't do all the investigating work myself," she said.

MRS. PERICA plans to work closely with community agencies including the high school and local churches.

"I want to keep in tune with what other people are doing. I think there will be a lot of food for thought," she said.

The written history should be completed some time in 1977 and Mrs. Perica notes that the hard work is just beginning.

"I'm just starting really but I know what direction I'm going to take. This is a personal challenge to me."

Member hits negotiations

Dist. 15 board approves 2-year teacher contract

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board members approved a new two-year teacher contract Wednesday.

But board member Walter Kendall prefaced his vote by warning the board that the negotiating process "has all the marks of deteriorating into a combat situation," with secret meetings and non-involvement of board members until the very last bargaining sessions.

"The closeness of the (teacher) vote indicates to me a sizable discontent in the teaching staff," Kendall said.

TEACHERS VOTED 316 to 209 in favor of the contract Tuesday.

Kendall objected to the apparent practice of excluding board members from the bargaining talks unless invited by the board president.

"My concern about the process deteriorating is reinforced by the refusal of board members to be present until the very last sessions," Kendall added.

Unless these issues are faced, Kendall told board members that future negotiations would resemble hard-line union-industrial talks.

BOARD PRES. Walter Sundling told Kendall, "You are entitled to your opinion," but strongly objected to his viewpoint.

"There is nothing secretive about the process," Sundling said. "The rest of the board is kept up to date. The degeneracy you allude to is not Dist. 15. It's on a national scope that has nothing to do with this board," he added.

During contract talks in August, teachers charged that board negotiators Sundling, Joel Meyer and J. Leslie Ehringer had not attended a contract session since the first formal meeting April 28. Richard Zweiback served as the board's professional negotiator, assisted by Supt. Frank Whiteley and several other administrative personnel.

But Sundling denied those charges at the time, saying the board was kept informed. He denied that Zweiback ran the negotiations.

for home burglary

Rolling Meadows police arrested four teenagers late Tuesday in connection with a burglary last week at 2400 Oak Ln., police said.

Charged with burglary were Charles C. Sinclair, 18, of 2003 Martini Ln., Rolling Meadows. Also arrested were a 15-year-old boy and two 16-year-old girls, all of Rolling Meadows. The juveniles were released to the custody of their parents pending Juvenile Court action.

Food, liquor and 8-track tapes were stolen and about $200 worth of damage caused in the break-in, police said. The tapes were recovered after the arrests, police reported.

Sinclair was being held in County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond pending an appearance Oct. 28 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

ROLLING MEADOWS historian Esther Perica thumbs through a scrapbook of newspaper clippings. Mrs. Perica is researching and writing a book on the history of Rolling Meadows.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-4 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $375 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $30,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates. Under present law, only those with

Girl tackles tough football job

by GERRY KERN

Look out Dan Devine. Your next football manager may be a woman.

No, it's not just an idle threat or a girlish whim. This woman means it. She has the experience and family background to do the job and just might raise the eyebrows of a few Irish alumni in the process.

She's Kim Kelly, 18-year-old senior at Buffalo Grove High School, who has already made history of sorts there. She's the manager of the Buffalo Grove Bison and may be the only high school female in Illinois to have a football-related job that isn't leading cheers on the sidelines.

And she won't be happy until she follows her father's footsteps at Notre Dame.

KIM'S NOT a women's libber, although managing a football team has been traditionally in the male realm of activities. She's just a girl who has a deep love for the game and that's all she may need to succeed.

"I guess it's a case of 'like father, like son,'" she said. "Except I'm a girl. My father was a football manager at Notre Dame in 1950 and I guess that's where I got my football interest."

Her father, Edward F. Kelly, is all for his daughter's new-found love, and she'd like nothing more than to put another Kelly name in the Irish record book, even if it's just as a team manager.

Kim cracked the "sex barrier" in high school football after she heard an announcement earlier this year calling for all boys interested in managing the 1975 squad to report to coach Grant Blaney.

"When I heard that announcement, I wondered why a girl, namely me, could not handle the job," she said. "So I had a talk with the coach."

Kim said the coaches "smiled" at her idea, but told her she would be considered. After a talk with the players the next day, Blaney told her "you're on." Needless to say, the whole idea was a hit with the guys.

ALTHOUGH SHE doesn't have to hand out towels in the shower room (some players have suggested adding that duty to her regular schedule), her work sometimes is tough.

"I have to help set up the practice field in the afternoons, and that means carrying out the tackling dummies," she explained. "I usually have to make two trips. The guys can do it faster, but I get it done just the same."

Her primary chore at game time is to record plays sent into the huddle by the coaches. It's an important job because it's the only way the staff can point out errors and make improvements.

"Being on the field during the game is so much more exciting than being in the stands," she said. "There's electricity in the air and a real feeling of teamwork. That's what I like most about it."

Some of the players had a difficult time getting used to a girl managing the team, but all of them now have accepted the idea.

Dennis Riccio, a member of the coaching staff at Buffalo Grove, said the idea has gone over well with everyone.

"I hate to say she's 'just one of the guys,' but that's how we feel," Riccio said. "She's doing a fine job for us."

KIM SAID RIDING on the team bus has been the only surprise she's encountered, primarily because conversation on the bus is rather raw — girls or no.

"That was kind of an education, particularly after the Wheaton Central game a couple of weeks ago," she said. "Everybody always talks about how bad the language can get on the bus, and they were right. But I'm still lucky, I guess, because all of the cheerleaders still would love to ride the bus too."

She said the players are "watching their language" a little more now.

Although she has been accepted as one of the team, the novelty of a female manager has not worn off altogether.

"SOME OF THE guys like to talk and socialize during practice," she said. "But I try to keep things businesslike. If they want to talk, fine. But I want to keep it on the subject."

Kim became somewhat of a celebrity around the school when she became manager, and some of her friends thought she had ulterior motives.

"Some thought I was just trying to get a lot of boyfriends," she explained. "But that's not true. I love the high school and I am willing to work and do something for it. That's why I've got the job."

AND HER TALK about Notre Dame is serious. She plans to enroll at the South Bend campus next fall and will approach the coaching staff about a managing job.

"I don't know if I'll get it, but I'm going to try," she said. "I would really like to do that since my dad did it when he was there."

She said she doesn't know what she'll major in at school, but plans to take courses in football officiating in case she ever gets the chance to work on the field.

If her track — or field — record is any indication, she just might do it.

Mental health funds available

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center officials have been told federal funding is available for construction of a permanent headquarters for the agency.

Jordan Rosen, center executive director, met this week with representatives of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare in Chicago. He was told that federal programs could provide up to 55 per cent of the funds necessary to construct the facility.

"We learned that some dollars are available for construction," Rosen said.

The funds were impounded previously as part of spending cutbacks, but are now available, Rosen said.

THE MENTAL HEALTH center board hopes to raise an estimated $668,000 to build a facility on two acres west of Ill. Rte. 53. The land was donated last spring by Elk Grove Village. The center's facilities are currently spread out among three locations in both Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg.

A fund drive for the new facility is slated to begin shortly, as preliminary planning has begun.

Rosen said there is a March 15 deadline for applying for the federal grant, so work on the grant application would have to begin soon.

"We would have to demonstrate where the local money (45 per cent) would come from before they would even consider us for a grant," Rosen said.

The mental health center board is expected to decide whether to try for a grant at its Oct. 23 meeting.

Bank veep gets Bicentennial post

Robert G. Kodl, vice president of Plum Grove Bank, has been named treasurer of the Rolling Meadows Bicentennial Commission.

Kodl will oversee development of the commission's budget for local Bicentennial activities and projects, including plans for a $20,000 bandshell in Kimball Hill Park.

The commission applied two weeks ago for a $10,000 state grant from the Illinois Bicentennial Commission, and hopes to raise an equal amount community groups and organizations. A donation also will be sought from the city council.

New TOPS chapter

A new Palatine chapter of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is being organized this month.

The group will be meeting from 9 to 11 a.m. every Wednesday. For further information contact Judy Banghart at 358-3316 or Mary Butler at 358-6456.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 has been invited to enter a display in the fourth Quincy Conference scheduled for Oct. 15-17. The educational conference will include nationally known speakers as well as displays of projects.

Dist. 54 will set up a display describing and illustrating their projects called Program Evaluation Model. The model provides teachers with math test score information about their students. It also helps teachers use this information to plan improvements in their mathematics instruction.

The project director, Joseph Cech, will be a speaker at one of the sessions at which he will show a slide presentation of the project and discuss it with the audience.

A drug abuse program for adults will be conducted at Schaumburg School, 520 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Schaumburg High School's VIP organization will hold an open house Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school's cafeteria, 1100 W. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg.

Entertainment will be provided by the pom pom girls. The new VIP gold jackets will be available for purchase at the meeting.

A discussion on communication skills between parents and teenagers and peer pressures will be led by Julie Malen, school social worker, at Conant High School's Booster Club's meeting Tuesday.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be in the school cafeteria, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

In general . . .

Free auto emission tests are being offered Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at North Point Shopping Center, Rand and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights.

Set for Friday

Army meeting on base's fate

The command of the Arlington Heights Army Reserves will meet with the chief of Army Reserves in Washington D.C. Friday to discuss the continued use of the former Nike base.

Edward Murnane, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12, said the discussions will focus on how the local Reserve units have utilized the 71-acre base at Wilke and Central roads.

Murnane said no decision on whether the Army will continue to control the entire 71 acres is expected immediately after the meeting. However, he said an announcement should be made "sometime shortly, perhaps early next week."

THE ARMY HAS been involved in a continuing struggle with local residents for several years over control of the land.

The Citizens Committee for Utilization of the Nike Base, a coalition of homeowners, the Arlington Heights Park District and the village government, has maintained the Army does not need the full acreage for Reserve training.

Murnane said Crane is supporting the committee's position. "The congressman has told the Secretary of the Army bluntly and flatly that the use of the facility by the Army over the past year does not justify their holding the entire 71 acres," he said.

Martin Cawley, a committee spokesman, said the Washington meeting is "certainly good news."

Cawley said he hoped the Army would agree to the committee's suggested compromise of keeping 33 acres and declaring the remainder surplus and deeding it over to the park district.

The park district has already been given about 63 acres of the base. The district hopes to build a golf course, incorporating flood control measures, on the site.

Cawley said the committee hoped the compromise could be struck as quickly as possible. If the agreement is reached, he said, construction on the golf course could begin next spring.

"We have been observing the Army's use of the base. The Army's mission could be accomplished on 33 acres very effectively," he said.

Cleurbrook awarded grant to hire three

Cleurbrook Center, Rolling Meadows, has been awarded a $5,553 grant to hire three persons more than 40 years of age in a work experience program.

The grant, approved by the county board, is part of the federal Manpower program. Wayne Hahn, Cleurbrook comptroller, said the three will work in the center's day school and workshop.

District expansion

Library boundary vote set Saturday

Trustees Coughlin, Fonte push to defeat library vote

Palatine Trustees Bryan P. Coughlin and Richard W. Fonte are heading a campaign to defeat Saturday's Palatine Public Library district expansion referendum.

They said Wednesday they are opposing the referendum because the library board has voted against spreading the $1.3 million bond debt among all residents in the library district.

Fonte said he believes that several other village trustees also are opposed to the referendum.

COUGHLIN SAID he and Fonte and several other residents will distribute flyers door-to-door in several parts of the village this week.

The flyers will recommend a "no" vote on the referendum which proposed the expansion of the library district to include Inverness.

Fonte said voters should realize the funds involved in the library referendum could purchase one or two fire stations in the future. He noted that if residents expect additional services they may have to vote for other tax increases.

Fonte said he had supported plans for the referendum but now opposes it because the library board has voted not to spread the bond debt to all residents of the district.

"I AM ASKING residents to vote no in protest of the library board's crass disregard for the interest of the people of Palatine who put them in office," Coughlin said.

"It appears to me that this particular board has assumed the library is their own private preserve and that they are no longer custodians for the citizens," he said.

"The library board has also been less than truthful with the citizens of Palatine," he added.

Coughlin said that the library board has never informed Palatine residents that they would be solely responsible for paying off the bond debt on the new library, despite the formation and expansion of the library district.

"IT WAS I AND Dick Fonte who brought the situation to the attention of residents last spring before the library's first expansion referendum," he said.

"The library board said it would spread the bond debt on the library then just to get good results from the referendum. Now, they have reneged on their promise," he said.

Coughlin and other village officials have advocated that the library district levy a special tax on all district residents, pending voter approval, to pay off the bonds. The tax revenues would be turned over to the village and placed in an irrevocable trust for use only to retire the bonds. The village, then, would abate its own tax levy for that purpose.

Bryan P. Coughlin

However, the library board flatly rejected the proposal and voted against spreading the bond debt among all district residents last month.

THE VILLAGE issued the bonds on the new library in 1973 before the library became a district with its own bonding powers. Consequently, Palatine village residents pay about 8 cents per $100 assessed valuation each year, in addition to regular library taxes, to pay off the 20-year bonds.

Gerald A. McElroy, library board president, said, "He's an individual just like I am and has the perfect right to do what he wants. Just because he is a trustee doesn't mean what he has to say should be any more important than what anyone else has to say about something like this."

"We've voted on spreading the bond and we are just as anxious as the village seems to be to annex new territory," he said.

Coughlin said he plans to continue pressuring the library board, even after the referendum, to spread the bond debt.

He and other residents may also form a slate to oppose the present library board members in the spring library board election, he said.

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Residents of the Village of Inverness and the Palatine Public Library District will go to the polls Saturday to decide if the library's boundaries should be expanded to include Inverness.

For Inverness residents, a successful referendum means increased taxes but free use of a new library and expanded library programs.

The taxes of library district residents will not be affected by the outcome, although a successful referendum will increase the district's assessed valuation and bring in more tax dollars in addition to more people.

LIBRARY BOARD members have said the purpose of Saturday's referendum is to offer library services to Inverness residents on a tax-supported basis.

An Inverness homeowner with an average home assessed at $30,000 would pay about $76.80 in annual taxes to the library district.

Inverness residents currently have the option of paying an annual $75 non-resident fee to use the library.

The Village of Inverness would add about $18 million in assessed valuation and about 2,000 persons to the existing library district.

The district includes about 28,000 residents and has an assessed valuation in excess of $130 million.

LIBRARY OFFICIALS have estimated that Inverness would generate about $46,000 in annual taxes. The library district currently receives about $300,000 in annual taxes. The district will also receive about $60,000 more in taxes each year when it begins collecting taxes in 1978 from newly annexed areas in the north part of Palatine township.

The additional tax revenues from Inverness would be used to operate the new library, purchase more books and begin new programs without requiring a future tax rate increase, said Andrea Balcken, administrative

Officials see no specific reason

Admissions surge at hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-6 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $75 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates.

Dist. 15 teachers OK 2-year pact

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board members approved a new two-year teacher contract Wednesday.

But board member Walter Kendall prefaced his vote by warning the board that the negotiating process "has all the marks of deteriorating into a combat situation," with secret meetings and non-involvement of board members until the very last bargaining sessions.

"The closeness of the (teacher) vote indicates to me a sizable discontent in the teaching staff," Kendall said.

TEACHERS VOTED 116 to 209 in favor of the contract Tuesday. Kendall objected to the apparent practice of excluding board members from the bargaining talks unless invited by the board president.

"My concern about the process deteriorating is reinforced by the refusal of board members to be present until the very last sessions," Kendall added.

Unless these issues are faced, Kendall told board members that future negotiations would resemble hard-line union-industrial talks.

BOARD PRES. Walter Sundling told Kendall, "You are entitled to your opinion," but strongly objected to his viewpoint.

"There is nothing secretive about the process," Sundling said. "The rest of the board is kept up to date. The degeneracy you allude to is not Dist. 15. It's on a national scope that has nothing to do with this board," he added.

During contract talks in August, teachers charged that board negotiators Sundling, Joel Meyer and J. Leslie Ehringer had not attended a contract session since the first formal meeting April 23. Richard Zweiback served as the board's professional negotiator, assisted by Supt. Frank Whiteley and several other administrative personnel.

But Sundling denied those charges at the time, saying the board was kept informed. He denied that Zweiback ran the negotiations.

Club to man recycle unit

The Outdoor Club of Palatine Hills Junior High School will be staffing the village recycling center at Smith Street and Northwest Highway Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Residents are asked to bundle newspapers, remove metal rings from bottles and remove labels from cans.

Village action routine

Countryside plans win approval

Plans for the 110-acre Countryside development in northwest Palatine have been approved by the village board.

The action was a formality since most of the land was developed before its annexation to the village this year. The development plans approved are the same as the plans that received county approval in 1970.

However, L. F. Draper Associates, developers of Countryside, have petitioned the village for permission to change the development plans for 11.3 acres on the northern portion of the development from condominium apartments to townhouses. The petition is pending before the zoning board.

THE NEW PROPOSAL calls for construction of 85 townhouses with a total of 231 bedrooms compared to 128 condominium apartments with 240 bedrooms. Despite the decrease of units under the new proposal, the population is expected to increase from

The change is being proposed because there is a better market for townhouses, and mortgages are easier to obtain on townhouses, according to zoning documents.

The zoning board has requested more information from the developer prior to making a recommendation to the village board. The additional information being sought includes an impact study on storm water retention and runoff, the impact on schools, the organization of a homeowners association, and the number of children that can be expected from the change.

Under the approved plans, construction on the 11.3 acres is supposed to start by Jan. 1 and be completed by July 1, 1978.

Cost for new 5-acre park increases

Palatine Park District officials tonight will discuss ways of paying unexpected costs in the construction of a five-acre park in Palatine Township.

A plan and development committee, comprised of former Palatine Rural Park District commissioners, and Palatine Park Board members will meet at 8 p.m. at the Palatine Hills Golf Course clubhouse.

Construction crews have discovered the need for deeper excavation of the site, Home Avenue and Oak Street, than was originally anticipated, said Thomas Patten, park board member. "THIS IS going to run over our estimated cost for the project and we have a budget to live by, so we are going to have to figure out how to handle the additional expense," Patten said.

Tax funds from the former Palatine Rural Park District, which merged in January with the Palatine Park District, will be used to finance the $48,000 project.

"The additional money most probably will come from future park district funds. We've started construction of the park and there's really not much we can cut back on now," he said.

Patten said the need to excavate deeper has resulted partially from the redrawing of the plans and the relocation of a bathhouse and swimming pool at the site.

THE PARK DISTRICT redrew the plans so the vacation of a planned county street on the site would not be necessary.

Park construction began last week with a temporary building permit issued by the county. Park officials plan major excavation and construction of the bathhouse shell to be completed before winter, Patten said.

The park, which also includes four lighted tennis courts and a baseball diamond, is scheduled for completion next spring.

Course for parents offered at Bridge

The Bridge Youth Services Bureau, Palatine, is offering a Parent Training course this fall on improving communications between parents and their children.

The sessions are from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesdays at The Bridge, 434½ E. Northwest Hwy.

A fee of $10 per person or $15 per couple can be paid when attending the sessions. Further information is available by calling The Bridge at 359-7490.

Nu-earth available free to residents

Palatine residents will be able to get free nu-earth every Saturday in October.

Residents can help themselves to nu-earth, a mixture of mulch and fertilizer, Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the village dump, Northwest Highway and Smith Street.

Residents are advised to use buckets or bushels with plastic linings to transport the nu-earth. The nu-earth is being made available by the Palatine Beautification Committee of the Palatine Advisory Board.

Franchise makes 2nd bid for outlet

The Brown's Fried Chicken franchise is making another attempt to locate in Palatine.

A request has been filed for a special use permit to locate the restaurant and carry-out facility in the Palatine Hills Shopping Center, Smith Street and Northwest Highway.

The village board turned down a request for a special use permit to open a Brown's Fried Chicken at Palatine Road and Northwest Highway two years ago. The board cited traffic problems in refusing to allow the franchise at that location. Court action was threatened, but no suit was filed.

The zoning board of appeals will consider the franchise's request for a special use permit at its Oct. 21 meeting.

Representatives of the franchise have asked for an administrative decision classifying the facility as a sit-down restaurant instead of a carry-out restaurant because fewer parking spaces would be required.

Library crews cut village power cable

Construction crews on the new Palatine Public Library, 500 N. Benton St., cut a Commonwealth Edison Co. cable Tuesday and left approximately 3,000 homeowners without electrical power.

The accident occurred at 9:50 a.m., and by 10:35 a.m. electrical power had been restored to all customers, said Jack Stephens, Edison district superintendent. The area without power was generally bounded by Baldwin Kenilworth, Hicks, and Quentin roads.

Firemen exams slated Oct. 25

The Palatine Fire and Police Commission will conduct a written examination Oct. 25 for firefighting candidates.

The exam will be administered at 9 a.m. at Fremd High School, 1000 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine. Persons who pass the written test will be given a physical agility test at 1 p.m.

Men or women interested in taking the exam should apply at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St.,

Palatine, daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., or call 358-7506.

Applicants must register for the test by Oct. 22. Candidates must be between 21 and 35 years old, and should be able to complete an emergency medical technician course and paramedic training if they pass the examinations, said Roger Mick, commission chairman.

Persons who pass the Oct. 25 exams will be placed on a new eligibility list from which fire fighters will be hired.

Palatine residents approved a 21.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation increase in fire taxes last month that will be used to hire 26 additional full-time fire fighters.

Twelve new fire fighters will be hired this year, boosting the villages full-time force to 26.

The commission has completed extensive testing of 10 candidates who comprise the village's current eligibility list. The commission will recommend the hiring of those candidates who passed the additional testing once the results are available, Mick said.

Crusade opens with mailing, business lunch

The 1975 Palatine Crusade of Mercy will get under way next week with a residential mailing and businessmen's luncheon.

Contributions totaling $28,000 will be sought from all segments of the community to help fund 12 local service organizations.

John Jirgenson has been appointed residential chairman of the fund raising drive. In addition to the residential mailings, Jirgenson has been asked to meet with homeowners associations to explain the Crusade.

Dennis Lundgren will be coordinating speaking engagements to other community organizations like the Jaycees, Lions, Kiwanis and League of Women Voters.

"We are going a little further than just a mailing in the residential area this year," explained Terry Leighty, 1975 chairman.

Other chairmen are Richard Kolze, education, and James Shaw, municipal.

Leighty said he was hopeful business and industry chairmen could be announced next week. The businessmen's luncheon is planned for Tuesday.

4 teens arrested for home burglary

Rolling Meadows police arrested four teenagers late Tuesday in connection with a burglary last week at 2400 Oak Ln., police said.

Charged with burglary were Charles C. Sinclair, 18, of 2003 Martin Ln., Rolling Meadows. Also arrested were a 15-year-old boy and two 18-year-old girls, all of Rolling Meadows. The juveniles were released to the custody of their parents pending Juvenile Court action.

Food, liquor and 8-track tapes were stolen and about $300 worth of damage caused in the break-in, police said. The tapes were recovered after the arrests, police reported.

Sinclair was being held in County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond pending an appearance Oct. 28 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Library boundary vote Saturday

Referendum backed

Palatine Public Library District and Inverness officials are urging residents to vote in Saturday's expansion referendum.

Leslie V. Bjork, Inverness Assn. president, and Gerald A. McElroy, library board president, said they could not anticipate whether voter turnout will be light or heavy.

"But, I think we are all anxious to have a very large turnout of voters. I don't think it is an issue that should be lightly regarded by our village residents," Bjork said.

"I DON'T THINK we've had enough evidence to tell how people will vote. There have not been strong feelings on the issue either way," he said.

The Inverness Assn. and the Inverness Village Board have not taken stands on the referendum Saturday which proposed the expansion of the library district boundaries to include Inverness.

"We haven't tested the residents' feelings, but the village and library board have done everything they can to inform the residents and now it's up to them to vote," he said.

Bjork said the recent approval of a Harper College bond issue could affect the way Inverness residents vote Saturday.

"SOMETIME IN the future there may be increased taxes in our rural fire district, too, and I just don't know how these tax increases will affect the way people vote," he said.

"They could have a dampening effect on the library district referendum," he said.

Bjork said Inverness residents could decide to go to other neighboring libraries that have lower nonresident fees, if they do not enter the Palatine Public Library District.

The Palatine Library Board recently increased its nonresident fee from $30 to $75 a year.

THE SCHLAUMBURG Township and Barrington libraries currently have $20 nonresident fees which are not expected to increase within the next year, library officials there said.

However, McElroy expects most library district residents, especially Palatine village residents, to vote favorably in Saturday's referendum.

"Palatine residents voted to accept new areas into the district in June. Why should they vote any differently with Inverness? Inverness residents have always been supportive of our library and they will bring much assessed valuation into the district," he said.

librarian.

No cutbacks in library operations or programs are anticipated if Inverness does not enter the library district, she said.

Library board officials have said the library's annual tax rate of 23 cents per $100 assessed valuation, which is maximum under law, will not be increased despite the outcome of the referendum. The district also levies 2.6 cents per $100 assessed valuation each year for state employee retirement funds.

INVERNESS AND other non-residents have received free introductory library services during the past year under a $82,000 federal grant that the library received.

The library will receive about $8,000 of the federal grant this year if Inverness residents come into the district. The funds will be used to serve Inverness residents until their library taxes are first collected in 1978, Miss Balcken said.

The library will also receive about $30,000 of the federal grant to continue services to about 3,000 unincorporated areas residents living north of Palatine, who voted to enter the library district in a June expansion referendum.

About 180 Inverness families have acquired free Palatine Library cards under the federally subsidized program, Miss Balcken said.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 has been invited to enter a display in the fourth Quincy Conference scheduled for Oct. 15-17. The educational conference will include nationally known speakers as well as displays of projects.

Dist. 54 will set up a display describing and illustrating their projects called Program Evaluation Model. The model provides teachers with math test score information about their students. It also helps teachers use this information to plan improvements in their mathematics instruction.

The project director, Joseph Cech, will be a speaker at one of the sessions at which he will show a slide presentation of the project and discuss it with the audience.

A drug abuse program for adults will be conducted at Schaumburg School, 520 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Schaumburg High School's VIP organization will hold an open house Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school's cafeteria, 1100 W. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg.

Entertainment will be provided by the pom pom girls. The new VIP gold jackets will be available for purchase at the meeting.

A discussion on communication skills between parents and teenagers and peer pressures will be led by Julie Malen, school social worker, at Conant High School's Booster Club's meeting Tuesday.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be in the school cafeteria, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

In Rob Roy zoning

Land plan conflict denied by official

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The county planner who recommended zoning changes for a portion of the Rob Roy Golf Club also made land use recommendations on the tract while working for a developer and Mount Prospect.

Rolf C. Campbell, now a consultant to the County Zoning Board of Appeals, was the planner for Kenroy Inc. on an earlier project proposed for the golf course. He has now recommended a change in apartment zoning for a portion of the land.

Campbell also was involved in planning the property in the 1960s when he developed the Village of Mount Prospect's master plan, and called for the golf course to remain as "quasi-public use."

Local residents who oppose apartment development on the golf course land north of Euclid Avenue and west of Wolf Road are expected to object to Campbell's multiple involvement at a county zoning hearing Friday in the Wheeling Township Hall.

CAMPBELL SAID Wednesday, however, he sees no conflict of interest in having worked for the village, Kenroy and the county, all in relation to the same piece of property.

He said he will not recommend apartment zoning for the site unless he receives a letter from Kenroy asking for the zoning and for a perpetual public use zoning on the remaining 18 holes of the golf course.

He said he also would be amenable to recommending public use zoning for the entire course if the Mount Prospect Park District can purchase it.

Campbell said he was pleased the current Kenroy plan for the project had less density than that proposed to the Village of Mount Prospect earlier this year.

Alex R. Seith, chairman of the county zoning board of appeals, also defended Campbell's triple involvement.

SEITH SAID county zoners knew there would be instances of conflict when they hired Campbell.

The board hired Campbell because of his knowledge, his good national reputation and his broad planning experience in Cook County and in surrounding counties, Seith said.

Th board could have picked a planner from California who had no local conflicts, Seith said, but the consultant would have been so unfamiliar with land use in this area the revision of the county zoning ordinance would have taken years.

Seith said the zoning board already had run into a similar situation in the south suburban area with a development Campbell planned. "It's an unavoidable problem, but it's not an insoluble problem. It's inevitable for anybody with his range of experience. But that's precisely why the zoning board is dealing with Campbell's recommendation at arm's length," Seith said.

SEITH SAID the board will not see Campbell's recommendations for Wheeling Township until Friday's public hearing.

Avoiding conflicts was one reason the board decided to have a consultant make map recommendations, rather than itself or its staff, Seith said.

He said zoning board members feared their evaluations of maps would be biased.

He predicted the board would ask Campbell to explain Friday why he recommends that the Rob Roy property be partially zoned for apartment uses. The course is currently zoned for single family home use.

Village may seek utility purchase

Village officials want to begin talks with Citizens Utilities Co. for the purchase of the sewer and water system in the New Town area of Mount Prospect.

The Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday night authorized Village Mgr. Robert Eppley to contact company officials about the possibility of purchase. Eppley said he plans to mail a letter to the utility this week.

"I really don't know what their response will be," said Eppley. "I just read in their annual report that they will resist all attempts to purchase any part of their system."

THE VILLAGE board took action on the recommendation of the board's finance committee, chaired by Trustee Edward B. Rhea Jr.

Rhea said the committee's study of the possible purchase has progressed as far as it can without including Citizens Utilities in talks. The three-man board unanimously recommended that the village seek purchase of water and sewer lines which serve 2,350 residents in the New Town area and another 4,000 residents in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Wheeling Township.

The village committee has been studying feasibility of purchase since residents registered complaints about the utility more than a year ago. Residents of the area have repeatedly complained that the company is charging exorbitant rates for poor quality water. The Illinois Attorney General's office is currently negotiating with the company over the quality of water provided to Mount Prospect residents.

HOWEVER, RHEA has warned residents that water rates are not likely to go down if the village buys the system. He said the money will be needed to pay off bonds used to buy the mains.

"There is no way rates will be reduced," Rhea said. He did say village acquisition of the system would improve service and water quality.

Rhea said his figures show the utility system probably can support a bond issue of about $5.5 million based on the amount of profit the company now reports. He said some $60,000 a year would be available from the system to pay back the bonds issued to purchase the water and sewer lines.

Officials see no specific reason

Admissions surge at hospitals

by WANDALYN RICE

Hospital beds in the Northwest suburbs are filled to near capacity this week because of an unexplained surge in the number of patients being admitted.

The four hospitals in the Northwest suburbs are running at more than 85 per cent of capacity, a level which leaves little room for additional increases in admissions.

Leading the area hospitals in occupancy rates is Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, which had 485 patients Wednesday morning. Officially, the hospital has only 465 beds.

"We opened up some beds in our new addition," Northwest spokesman Ann Finney said. "We were forced to do it."

ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical

Center, Elk Grove Village, is running between 88 and 95 per cent capacity, with the number of emergency room patients greater than average.

"The emergency room is bursting at the seams," a hospital spokesman said. "We usually have 80 to 85 cases a day, but it started going up last Friday. We had 123 cases on Sunday, and yesterday (Tuesday) we had 109."

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, said the number of patients at those hospitals was above average, but neither hospital is as crowded as Northwest or Alexian Brothers.

"We have found that our occupancy peaks once or twice each month, and it seems to be peaking right now," a spokesman for Lutheran General Hospital said.

OFFICIALS AT ALL four hospitals said there seems to be no single reason for the increase in the number of patients. Respiratory problems brought on by the end of the hay fever season, and elective surgery which was postponed during the summer, account for some of the cases, officials said.

"We don't seem to be full for any special reason," Mrs. Finney said. "We just have lots of people who are sick."

During times of crowding, hospitals refer patients to other hospitals, but Mrs. Finney said, "No emergency case will be turned away. When a doctor calls with an admission, we ask him if he is on the staff at another hospital. If he isn't we'll take care of it. If we had to, I suppose we'd transport a patient to another hospital."

Man, 27, hurt in fire Tuesday, dies of burns

A Northbrook man died Wednesday in Evanston Hospital from burns he suffered when a $75,000 flash fire swept through a Mount Prospect home Tuesday.

William Brewer, 27, died at 12:35 p.m. from second- and third-degree burns over most of his body, a hospital spokesman said.

The blaze was touched off at the home of Florence Schultz, 1711 Park Dr., Tuesday afternoon while Brewer reportedly was using gasoline to remove carpeting in the home. Gas fumes apparently came in contact with a pilot light, Mount Prospect firemen said.

Mrs. Schultz also suffered burns in the blaze but was reported in good condition late Wednesday at Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood.

House unit seeks to end gasoline tax deduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednesday to eliminate the federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes, now a break of more than half a billion dollars for those who itemize deductions.

However, the committee decided against making any changes in current medical deductions, casualty losses or a series of other changes being considered to "simplify" tax returns.

"We ought not to encourage people to use any more gasoline than they have to," said Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., prior to the committee's 17-4 vote.

The vote came on a motion by Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., who warned his colleagues that "you'll be hearing from every automobile association in the country if you support my motion."

Taxpayers now may keep records of the gas tax they pay or may estimate the tax according to the number of miles they drive in a year, then deduct the amount from their income before taxes are calculated.

If Congress eventually approves the committee decision, which was included in a major tax revision bill now being written, the Treasury would gain an extra $575 million a year.

Turning its attention temporarily away from the hot political issue of tax cuts, the committee also voted to:

- Simplify individual tax tables, allowing anyone with $20,000 or less taxable income to use tax tables instead of computing taxes using tax rates.

Businessmen favor parking project

The chairman of Mount Prospect's Downtown Redevelopment Commission said Wednesday most businessmen surveyed in the downtown area favor proposals to improve and beautify several parking lots behind the new village hall at Busse Avenue and Emerson Street.

Robert Bennett, chairman of the commission, said plan to join four separate lots into one parking area for downtown shoppers will be reviewed today at 7 p.m. in the old village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

The parking lot project is the first undertaken by the commission as a way of revitalizing the village's central business district.

"WE'VE BEEN in touch with most of the businessmen in the area and they all like the idea. They realize the importance of providing good parking for downtown," said Bennett.

Plans call for uniting the lots by removing barricades and other obstacles which now separate them, landscaping the property and possibly constructing a gazebo on this site.

Bennett said tonight's meeting will take a look at the entire project and the reaction of downtown businessmen and property owners to it. The commission also may discuss a cooperative funding arrangement between businesses and the village, if village officials approve the proposals.

According to estimates, the project would cost about $43,000, including about $2,300 in landscaping. Preliminary discussions indicated merchants could pick up about $17,000 of the total cost with the village paying for the rest.

"THE TOTAL NUMBER of parking spaces is impressive," said Bennett. "But efficiency could be improved by bringing them all together. Now that the bank has vacated its old building and the village has moved in, this seems to be an appropriate thing to do."

If the parking lot is developed, Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway may Northwest Highway may become more "backdoor oriented."

"Obviously, you can't park very well on those two streets," said Bennett. "If these improvements are made, businesses should think about fixing up the back of their stores. We would hope they would do this to take advantage of the new parking areas."

Bennett said there has been some concern over the placement of the gazebo in the parking lot. The gazebo, which would be donated by the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club, could be used for band concerts and other events. Bennett said some people have been concerned that the gazebo will attract people after hours and increase the chance of vandalism.

Dist. 57 wrapup

Teacher pact cost to be an extra 9%

Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will spend about 9 per cent more on teacher salaries and fringe benefits this year, according to a teachers' contract ratified by a unanimous vote of the board of education.

Last month teachers voted overwhelmingly to accept the contract calling for salary increases of from 8 to 13 per cent, with the largest increase going to teachers in the middle of the salary schedule. The figure includes a 3 per cent raise given to teachers annually for an additional year of experience.

The base salary for beginning teachers in the district was raised from $9,000 to $9,400 and the top salary was increased from $18,180 to $19,500. The new figures are retroactive to July 1, 1975.

The contract contains fringe benefits including an increase in pay for some extra-duty positions and an increase in medical coverage.

Enrollment reports awaited

A schedule for committee reports on the impact of declining enrollment in Dist. 57 has been approved by the board of education.

A committee analyzing financial projections and use of classrooms in all the district's schools will complete its report Nov. 17. The board will meet Dec. 1 to consider the committee's recommendations for solving the district's declining enrollment problem.

Enrollment in Dist. 57 dropped by 6 per cent this year to 2,893 students and is predicted to drop to 2,135 students by 1979. Last year Dist. 57 agreed to close Gregory School this fall because of declining enrollment, and a citizens' committee suggested the board consider closing Sunset Park School next year.

The committee will consider closing another school in addition to other alternatives for offsetting declining enrollment. A door-to-door canvass of the preschool population in the district is now under way and will be completed Oct. 24. The canvass will be used to predict future enrollment.

Lunch test plan OK'd

Children of working parents who live within walking distance from school will be allowed to remain in the schools for lunch for a one-month trial period.

Parents of students from Westbrook School attended the board meeting to ask the district to allow their children to eat lunch at school. The district now has a policy prohibiting children within a restricted lunch area to remain at school for the lunch period. The parents said no one is at home during the lunch hour because both parents are working.

The board agreed to revise its policy for a one-month trial period. Children of working parents throughout the district will be allowed to remain at school for lunch. The board will review the matter at its Nov. 3 board meeting.

Village denies trustee's request to pay for class

The Mount Prospect Village Board has turned down a request by Trustee Richard N. Hendricks asking the village to pay for $45 of course work at Harper College.

Hendricks' request had been approved by the three-man finance committee, but the full board took objection to the request Tuesday. Hendricks wants the money to pay for course work which he says is related to village business.

During a lengthy board discussion, Edward B. Rhea, chairman of the finance commission which recommended approval of the request, asked Hendricks if it is "proper to use public money to let elected officials go to school to make themselves better public officials or to get re-elected."

HENDRICKS said he would like to "better himself" by taking the courses, but cannot afford the tuition costs. Hendricks had said "times are hard" because he is trying to start his own business.

Former Mount Prospect Trustee Marie Caylor said she objected to the use of public money, saying "he (Hendricks) should do it on his own time, with his own money." She said it would open up a "Pandora's box of problems" if the village board set a precedent by providing the $45 for Hendricks.

In rejecting the proposal, the board said recently enacted pay-raises for village trustees is more than adequate to pay for the course work.
